Deterding on Russia.
What Is Health?
The Worst Hatred.
Two Greatest Pictures.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

SIR HENRI DETERDING powerful and intelligent, says:

"The Russian is a likeable fellow, a great dreamer, musician, and imaginative writer. But you can't organize him. It's hard to organize two Russians, impossible to organize three. Therefore, the Soviet five-year plan will not succeed."

Just at present, it is succeeding, however, with the aid of the greatest industrial concerns in the United States financing and building it, and able American engineers working on the spot in Russia. You don't learn all about the character of Russians by studying Tolstoi, with his dreaming, or Gorky, or the Karamazoff brothers. You must also study Ivan the Terrible, and some other Russians, especially Peter the Great.

From them you learn what Russia can do for good and for evil and how great her power is. Modern Russian scientists and engineers prove that no country has monopoly of technical skill. In will power, driving force, no people exceed the Russians.

A GIRL from Iowa and a boy from Missouri are selected as the "healthiest boy and girl in the nation." The girl scored 99.7 out of a possible 100 points. The boy scored 98.7.

Such scoring, of course, means little. Life and health depend primarily on heart, kidneys, lungs and nerve force.

The lungs can be developed, heart and kidneys can be protected. Nervous energy can be built up somewhat, but you get most of it at birth.

Voltaire, as a baby, had fits, and if it hadn't been for a kind-hearted Catholic priest, who showed his mother how to take care of him, putting him in hot water when the fits came on, he would have died as a baby. Instead, having wonderful nervous force, he died in Paris long past 80—after a tremendous triumph, in which one of his plays was produced. The populace took the horses from his carriage and dragged him home. He had worked furiously all his life.

Health goes deeper than pink cheeks and sparkling eyes.

THE WORST of all hatreds is religious hatred. In one of the recently established Balkan countries, 400 students celebrate a gathering by beating with heavy sticks all the Jews they meet and smashing windows in stores owned by Jews.

A mob of 200 prevented the Catholic archbishop of Liverpool from entering Notre Dame Convent to attend a prize giving. The convent windows were stoned, railings torn down and the archbishop pelted by the mob, but fortunately escaped serious injury.

A recent fire in a Catholic church in New York City is attributed to arson, as is another in New Jersey.

CARDINAL HAYES in New York, deploring the unemployment situation, urging those in his diocese to do everything possible, points out wisely that "unemployment is a potential social menace of a very radical type."

In Baltimore, Mayor Broening and Police Commissioner Gaipher permit moving pictures on Sunday for charity, in spite of protest.

Why should there be a protest against moving pictures or any other reasonable entertainment on Sunday? The Bible says the Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath.

THE TWO GREATEST moving pictures in the world are a fine sunset and the rushing water of Niagara. The Lord does not close them on Sunday.

Why not let those that want pictures on Sunday see them, and those that want to stay home, stay home?

Why the itch in one man's mind to control the life of another?

SENATOR NYE says he can prove that the backers of Mr. Davis, recently secretary of labor, elected senator from Pennsylvania, spent $641 274 in the primaries, to elect Mr Davis

The sum seems gigantic. It would have been impossible for Mr. Davis to spend that amount of money, or anything like it.

SENATOR NYE also alleges that Senator Davis' friends spent $272,312 more than the amount actually reported. Mr. Davis, of course, will demand an opportunity to disprove these statements, or to show that the expenditures were legitimate and the "backers" entirely respectable.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Secretary Mellon foreshadowed a noteworthy pick-up in business for the next fiscal year in estimates submitted to Congress today as part of his annual report.

A $251,000,000 increase in revenues was forecast for the 12 months beginning next July 1, as compared with the current fiscal year. The future revenues were estimated at $4,085,000,000.

International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—The name of Winifred Spooner, prominent British aviatrix, who narrowly escaped death today when her plane plunged into the Tyrrhenian Sea, was brought into the official investigation into the destruction of the dirigible R-101 a few hours later as authoritative denial was made again of reports that a woman was aboard the ill-fated craft when it fell in flames in France.

The denial was made by Sir John Simon, chairman of the investigating committee, who thus gave official cognizance to recurrent reports that a woman was among the 48 who lost their lives in one of the worst disasters in the history of aviation.

The inquiry took a startling turn when Sir John made his blunt denial, for he also gave the lie to reports that there was

LIPTON BREAKS AT CUP GIFT

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Overcome by emotion, Sir Thomas Lipton, world-famous British yachtsman, collapsed in his chair today in the midst of a speech accepting the "Loser's Cup," presented to him as consolation for failing in his fifth attempt to wrest the coveted America's cup, emblematic of international yachting superiority, from the United States.

Presentation of the cup was made possible by a nation-wide "dollar fund," set in motion by Will Rogers, following the defeat of Sir Thomas' Shamrock V by Harold Vanderbilt's yacht Enterprise in the races off Newport in September.

Magistrate Scores Police For 'Numbers' Arrest

Two policemen, who said they bought chances from a "numbers" writer and then arrested him, were scored by Magistrate John J. Sweeney at a hearing in Mt. Washington Police Station today.

Plainclothesmen S. T. Oliver and Frank Rodzevickus testified they had arrested Peter Sylvester of 94 Dawn avenue, at the tunnel station of the Pittsburgh Railways Company after they had purchased clearing house lottery tickets from him. Sylvester admitted selling numbers for the last two months to get money to get food for his wife and children.

After Sylvester's testimony, Sweeney said:

"I'm not for this way of bringing prisoners in, buying tickets from a man and then arresting him. Sylvester, if I let you go, will you quit selling these tickets? If you don't I'll send you to the workhouse."

Sylvester promised to quit the "numbers" lottery, and was discharged.

Sweeney was asked about orders from the district attorney to hold "numbers" writers for court.

Sweeney answered:

"The man is discharged."

JOBLESS MAN'S 3RD CHILD DIES

For the third time in less than six months death today entered the home of Steve Spoorer, 21 Solar street, destitute and unemployed.

Leonard Franklin, aged 17½ months, died of pneumonia at 10 a. m. The child had been treated recently in Allegheny General Hospital for an infected ear, but was discharged as cured 10 days ago, the father said. Several days ago the baby again became ill. A city nurse called, and later a city physician, who left medicine.

Spoorer said he was without money to call an undertaker. Last June he buried a twin child in the back yard of his home in Warrendale. Last October 21 the second twin died in the hospital. County detectives, touched by the Spoorer family's plight, obtained their present home for them, on which rent is overdue.

3 BANDITS KIDNAP, ROB WOMAN

Carried Off in Own Car, Visitor Loses $7,400 Gems; Sisters Hear Cries

Mrs. Irwin M. Quinn, of 350 Central Park West, New York, wife of the New York manager of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, was robbed by three dapper young bandits here early today of jewels valued at $7,400, she reported to police.

According to her report, she had attended a night club with a party of friends and was returning alone in her sedan to the home of her sister, Mrs. J. L. Goss, 844 Heberton avenue, whom she is visiting.

Three well-dressed young men accosted her as she was about to alight in front of the Goss home, with the command:

"Stay right in the car."

DRAGGED INTO CAR

Two of the men dragged her over into the rear seat, she said, while the third man took the wheel and drove off.

Mrs. Quinn screamed, she said. Mrs. Goss and two other sisters visiting at the Goss home peered from windows. One of her captors shouted to them:

"She's all right, lady."

The jewelry consisted, she said, of a platinum ring, valued at $1,400, a 9-carat diamond ring, valued at $5,000, and a diamond pendant valued at $1,000.

In what she believes was the Brushton district, the three bandits alighted and gave her directions as to how to drive back to her sister's home.

RETURN WEDDING RING

One of them said:

"She's been a pretty game sport. Let's give her back her wedding ring."

This was returned to her. She said:

"I offered them $1,000 if they would give back the other rings, too, but they cursed and cried, 'Get on out of here; get going.'"

She then drove to her sister's home and reported the robbery to police. She was unable to give a description of the bandits, she said, as they would not permit her to look closely at them. Once when she sought to scrutinize one of her captors, he said:

"Don't you look me over. Turn your head around."

Mrs. Quinn came here Saturday with her sister, Mrs. Mabel Sweetapple, who lives with her in New York, to visit Mrs. Goss. Another sister from Ohio also is visiting the Goss home, it was said

BARON JEAN PELLENC MISS FRANCES MYLER KIER

Miss Kier, Pittsburgh debutante, as she arrived from New York today with Baron Pellenc, Parisian artist and nephew of the King of Sweden and the former King of Spain. Baron Pellenc, betrothed to Miss Kier, yesterday arrived by boat in New York from France.

BARON GREETS FIANCEE HERE

Baron Jean Pellenc, of Paris, is in Pittsburgh today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Kier, whose daughter, Miss Frances Myler Kier, is engaged to marry him. Miss Kier has not yet selected the time and place for the wedding.

Baron Pellenc posed with his betrothed for photographers. He seemed chiefly interested in conversing with Miss Kier. They were driven to the Frank J. Kier residence at 1201 Beechwood boulevard.

The baron arrived in New York yesterday on the steamer Paris. He was met by Miss Kier and her mother, Mrs. Frank J. Kier. The party visited an exhibit of the baron's wood carvings and art work in New York. The length of Baron Pellenc's visit to Pittsburgh has not been determined, but it is understood that he will be here for several weeks

Baron Pellenc is the son of General Baron and Baronne Pellenc of Paris. On his mother's side, he is related to the King of Sweden and to a former king of Spain. He is an artist of international reputation, being especially noted for his screen decorations in egg-shell and ivory.

More Delay For County Airport

Contradicting his previous reports that the new City-County Airport would be completed by the first of the year, Norman F. Brown, director of public works of Allegheny County, declared that it would not be ready before spring in an address today at the weekly luncheon of the Aero Club of Pittsburgh.

Director Brown also said that hangar facilities and the administration building would not be completed before that time.

Speaking of the rating of the new airport, he declared that it was immaterial whether the A-1 rating was granted in the spring because the field would ultimately receive the first-class rating.

Appropriations Chairmanship Or Speakership Likely as Leaders Meet Pinchot

By E. P. O'BRIEN
Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—One of the two big prize plums of the Pinchot administration—the speakership of the House or the chairmanship of the Appropriations Committee—likely will go to Allegheny County.

This was considered a probability as Gov.-elect Pinchot wound up a second conference today with three Allegheny County Republican leaders, County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Mayor Charles H. Kline and State Senator James J. Coyne.

"NOTHING SETTLED"

At the conclusion Armstrong said:

"Nothing has been definitely settled. Our meeting was very agreeable and we are all satisfied."

Pinchot said the same thing in different words:

"Our conferences have been very pleasant. This morning's was very satisfactory. There is nothing to give out at this time."

While being interviewed, the forester was packing his grip, the Allegheny County trio evidently having attended the last of a series of conferences at which, summoned by telephone and telegraph, state leaders have conferred with the governor-elect on organization of the Legislature.

Armstrong, Kline and Coyne left this afternoon for Pittsburgh.

THREE IN RACE

After an initial conference wound up, late last night, Mayor Kline said:

PARLEY MAPS BLUE LAW WAR

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—Councilmen Harry A. Little, Michael J. Muldowney and Clifford B. Connelley, Pittsburgh Council's blue law committee, were meeting here today with a Philadelphia councilmanic committee headed by Councilman William W. Roper, in an effort to co-ordinate efforts to modify the 1794 Blue Laws, which make fiddle-playing on Sunday a matter for the gendarmie.

Through a misunderstanding on the part of those in charge of the arrangements for the meeting, it was announced for tomorrow morning.

Jury Ignores 'Irish Jigs,' Gives Woman $2,500

A verdict of $2,500 was returned in Common Pleas Court today in favor of Mrs. Cornelia J. Beatty, 61, of 45 Fountain avenue, Crafton, against the Pennsylvania Railroad for injuries she said she suffered on an excursion train two years ago.

Testimony introduced by the railroad to refute her contentions, included several reels of motion pictures showing the plaintiff running for a street car, and reports of four private detectives who shadowed her from the time she was injured until she filed suit.

One of these, a woman, testified she resided with Mrs. Beatty several months as a roomer and that the woman showed no signs of having been hurt. Detectives said they took Mrs. Beatty to several night clubs and that she "danced Irish jigs, Highland flings, the 'hula dance' and a 'buck and wing.'"

The plaintiff charged she received permanent hurts when an excursion train she was riding to Canton, O., July 24, 1928, collided with a freight near Woods Run.

SENATE SLEUTHS SENT INTO STATE TO PROBE DAVIS FUND

TOTAL TOPS MILLION, NYE ASSERTS

26 County Reports Yet to Be Filed; Vaulain Asked To Explain Phila. Outlay

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Two additional investigators of the Nye campaign expenditures committee will leave for Pennsylvania today for a further inquiry into the campaign funds spent in behalf of the Davis-Brown ticket.

The investigators, whose names were withheld, are expected to go to Harrisburg first, but may visit Pittsburgh before returning to Washington, it was asserted.

Senator Gerald P. Nye (Rep.), chairman of the committee, is said to have dispatched the investigators to the Keystone State to check on expenditures chargeable to Senator James J. Davis while he and other members of the body were in New York City holding hearings on the New Jersey contest where Dwight W. Morrow was elected.

Nye expects further revelations concerning expenditures in the Davis-Brown election campaign and the Davis-Grundy primary campaign to bring the total to more than $1,000,000.

The committee now has reports from Harrisburg, on file with the secretary of state of Pennsylvania, indicating $641,314 was spent on behalf of the Davis-Brown ticket. This figure is $272,313 more than Samuel Vauclain, treasurer of the Davis-Brown Philadelphia committee, declared before the Nye committee.

Nye said there were still 26 county committees to file reports with the Pennsylvania secretary of state, and said he did not see how the total could be less than a million.

HARMONY PLAN IN CONGRESS SHAKEN

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—President Hoover today requested emergency unemployment relief appropriations totaling $151,683,780 in a special message to the House.

He defended his proposed lump-sum method and asked Congress to rush the appropriation so that federal public work can be expanded immediately.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The highly advertised Republican-Democratic coalition developed a distinct knock in its motor today as, preliminaries over, Congress squared away to the business of the session.

It has taken only three days to demonstrate that both parties are split, and badly split in this session. The rift between the Republican regulars and the Republican insurgents, of course, has always been apparent. Now the Democrats appear to be headed in the same direction.

Seventeen Democrats refused to follow their leadership in the vote on the seating of Senator James J. Davis (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, notwithstanding the announcement that the Democratic steering committee had voted "unanimously" not to oppose the ex-cabinet officer. Two of the 17 were members of that steering committee.

RIFT GROWING

The Democratic rift has been growing ever since the issuance of the post-election statement by the "Big Seven" in the party, pledging co-operation with the administration in its legislative recommendations dealing with the economic situation.

That statement aroused the resentment of a good many Democrats in both houses, and it appeared today that Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, is going to be hard put to hold his followers in line when it comes to voting.

SPLIT OVER FUNDS

Another split appeared developing today over President Hoover's proposal to appropriate between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000 to be spent on public works during the next six months as a measure of unemployment relief. This split, however, is not wholly confined to the Democrats.

There is no disposition in either party to question that the money should be promptly voted. But Mr. Hoover recommended that the expenditure of this money be directed by a committee of his own cabinet, its members to decide where and how the money is to be spent, and on this proposal a formidable opposition is developing, in which a good many Republicans are joining.

SLIGHT TAX CUT SEEMS ASSURED

Schooley and Kerr Feel Funds Will Be Found to Allow Slash in Levies

The probability of a reduction in city taxes has been given added support by developments within the past 24 hours.

Chief of these was a statement from City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley in which he reiterated his opinion that the financial conditions of the city justified a reduction.

A similar opinion was expressed by City Controller James P. Kerr and by members of Council who next week will start making the 1931 budget.

The possibility of a tax reduction, which seemed to be a surprise, first was called to the attention of the taxpayers of Pittsburgh in the Sun-Telegraph of November 25.

BOND BILL PASSED

Two factors have contributed to the success of those seeking a reduction in taxes. First of these was the passage by Council yesterday of the bill requiring banks receiving city deposits to put up bonds as security. Schooley also pointed out that a new policy in collecting delinquent taxes increased the city's revenue.

This ordinance, introduced at Schooley's request to provide adequate safeguards for the city's funds, releases $500,000 to the general fund. This $500,000 was being held by the city to insure its own deposits.

The second factor is the estimate of Dr. Kerr that approximately $600,000 appropriated for 1930 will not be expended. These appropriation authorizations can be canceled, the amount being placed on the credit side of the city's ledger.

A third factor is the valuation increase amounting to $10,000,000 on buildings, according to the Mayor's budget message.

SEES CUT JUSTIFIED

Dr. Kerr stated yesterday that $1,162,274.19 is needed to balance the 1930 appropriations, totaling $27,930,760. This, according to Schooley, can be done by collecting as much in December as was collected in the same month last year and by equalling last year's unexpended appropriations which totaled $330,000.

POTTERS NEAR WAGE PEACE

Indication of a wage scale settlement between the United States Potters' Association and the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters was evident as the committees met in joint session this afternoon in the William Penn Hotel.

A wage increase sought by the union officials and a wage cut asked by the manufacturers caused the wage parley to continue since Tuesday. While no official statement could be obtained from either committee, both indicated a settlement was expected.

British Force Fights Tribesmen in India

PESHAWAR, India, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—A small British military force, engaged in reconstruction work near Mirikhel, fought a battle a day or so ago with marauding frontier tribesmen. Capt. H. S. O. Will, of the Sikh Regiment, was killed.

The battle occurred as the force was leaving the Mirikhel camp. One tribesman was injured.

GLASS MAKERS SEE REVIVAL

Upward trend in business was cited from committee reports and speakers at the closing session of the National Glass Distributors' Association convention in the William Penn Hotel that adjourned with the election of Clarence W. Condie, of St. Louis, as president.

Members named Powers Pace, of Atlanta, as first vice president to fill the office vacated by Mr. Condie. Morris Tyre, of San Francisco, was renamed second vice president, while North Storms, of Chicago, began his eleventh year as secretary and treasurer.

A luncheon closed the sixteenth annual session.

Bad Check Suspect Linked in Slaying

Finger prints and photographs of William Collins, 35, of Airbrake avenue, East Pittsburgh, arrested in connection with passing worthless checks, will be sent to Washington, D. GIRL FLIER NOT R-101 VICTIM

MISS SPOONER ELIMINATED

Declaring that Miss Spooner had been named as the "prominent aviatrix" aboard the R-101, Sir John said:

"The fact she is now engaged on a flight to Cape Town explodes this rumor."

His statement was made before word had come through that Miss Spooner's flight almost ended in disaster off the Italian coast, when a plunge into the Tyrrhenian Sea and an exhausting swim ashore to summon a rescue party for her injured male companion tossing about on the wrecked plane brought the flight to a thrilling end.

The British aviatrix, who, with Flight Officer E. O. T. Edwards, hopped off from Croyden yesterday, was forced down off shore near the Italian city of Reggio Di Calabria. Engine trouble was believed to have been responsible.

ESCAPES INJURY

Miss Spooner, though badly shaken by the crash into the sea, apparently escaped without injuries. Her companion was less fortunate. For two hours they drifted about on their plane, shouting and waving in the hope of attracting attention on land.

Despairing of this, Miss Spooner determined to attempt a swim ashore and secure a rescue party for her injured companion. After an exhausting battle with the waves, she finally achieved land.

Motor boats immediately sped to the plane and brought Flight Officer Edwards ashore. Later they towed the plane into the harbor with ropes.

They were en route from Rome to Cantania on the second lap of their South African dash when they were forced to descend.

ECKENER TESTIFIES

Meanwhile, back here in London, after Sir John had raked up all the alleged "scandal" concerning the R-101 disaster and swept it into the discard with blunt emphasis, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, was called to the stand as an expert witness.

Dr. Eckener gave a terse and vivid expose of his opinions concerning the disaster. A leak in the forward gas-bag, accentuated by a pitching ship causing the envelope to chafe constantly against the ship's girders, was held by the German air master to be responsible, augmented by the inability of the new coxswain on duty to appreciate the slanting dirigible's immediate danger.

Dr. Eckener stressed his opinion that one of the primary causes of the crash lay in the failure of the new coxswain to appreciate the forward heaviness of the ship, which he pointed out "was causing the R-101 to pitch double the amount of the Graf Zeppelin's rolling."

LIBERALS SPENT $133,598

HARRISBURG, Dec. 4.—Expenses of $133,598.87 plus an unpaid note of $25,000 were incurred by the Business Men's Liberal Party Committee of Western Pennsylvania, according to the report of Francis S. Guthrie, treasurer, filed here today.

Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., of Butler, who ran for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, gave the committee $5,000. Other large contributors were: Shirley P. Austin, J. F. Drake, A. F. Humphrey, Walter A. Bonitz, each $5,000; R. V. Bingay and H. A. Rust, each $8,000; George S. Davison, $3,500, and E. T. Weir, $3,000.

Michael Burns was nominated for president in opposition to Peter V. Day, incumbent.

The refunds, all for over-assessments, included: Estate of Sol Rosenbloom, Pittsburgh, $331,495 for 1917, 1920, 1921 and 1922.

REPAIRS DELAY AVIATRIX

NASSAU, Bahamas, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Slight damage sustained by the right wing of her plane in its forced landing on Andros Island Friday while en route from Havana to Miami postponed until today Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller's return flight to Florida.

She returned to Nassau yesterday after inspecting her monoplane, which rests in the bush on Andros, and ordered repair material from Miami. Immediately upon its delivery she will leave again for the island to make the necessary repairs.

Three rents were discovered on the right wing of the plane, she said, although the damage was not considered serious. She was aided in her inspection by Capt. W. N. Lancaster, who accompanied her to Andros.

Mrs. Keith-Miller estimated that her best opportunity to takeoff from the vicinity will come shortly before noon, when low tide will offer her a smooth stretch of hard beach sand. She stated that a relief pilot would be with her in the plane.

Capt. Lancaster will fly alongside as escort in a seaplane.

Armstrong pointed out that the two appointments are the two most important jobs in the state. He explained that the speaker has the naming of the chairman and members of ever committee in the House. The chairman of the House Appropriations Committee is charged with the direction of the vast state expenditures.

SEES STATE LEADERS

Before meeting the Pittsburghers Pinchot conferred with state leaders, including former United States Senator Joseph R. Grundy, State Chairman Edward Martin, Vice State Chairman A. Boyd Hamilton, S. Van Brown, Pinchot generalissimo in Lycoming County; William J. Burchinal and Oliver Diebler, Pinchot leaders in Fayette and Westmoreland Counties.

Pinchot had "nothing to say" when interviewed. The matters discussed were: Organization of the Legislature, the legislative program affecting public utilities and creation of the fair rate board which he proposes to substitute for the present Public Service Commission, and election legislation.

The Philadelphia war board is reported, after a caucus today of 38 of the 41 elected representatives and six of the eight senators, to have voted not to oppose the organization of the Legislature by Pinchot. The caucus was held in the headquarters of the Republican City Committee with City Chairman James M. Hazlett presiding.

After the conference today Armstrong expects to visit Sheriff Thomas W. Cunningham, political leader and political and personal friend of Armstrong for many years.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Delegates to the coal miners' conference this morning voted 230,000 to 209,000 to reject a proposal for a general strike in protest at application of the "spreadover" hours arrangement to British mine shafts.

FIGHT POISON IN ALCOHOL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—The House anti-dry bloc, encouraged by the recent election, today was launched on a new offensive against prohibition which leaders say will continue until they achieve repeal or modification.

A program for the immediate future, evolved by the executive committee of the bloc, known as the Committee on Modification of the Volstead act, may be enlarged at a general meeting.

The first legislative shot will be fired against poison alcohol. They will demand a provision in the Treasury appropriation bill, now under debate in the House, prohibiting government chemists from issuing formulas for use of poison in denaturing industrial alcohol.

The future program, as outlined by the executive committee, also includes a demand upon the Judiciary Committee for a report recommending legislation of beer and light wines and opposition to the Justice Department's request for $2,000,000 to employ 500 additional dry agents.

Coolidge Lauds Hoover Message for 'Sanity'

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 4.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

The striking feature of the annual message of the President is its sanity and restraint. It fits the occasion because it includes so little about which there is any reason for partisan controversy. Evidently there is full recognition that under present conditions the country does not need the injection of contentious subjects into legislative consideration so much as it needs an undisturbed opportunity for recuperation.

Calvin Coolidge

Of course suggestions are made for such relief for the sufferers from drought and unemployment as can reasonably be expected from the national government through long established policies of public works and seed loans. But the message carefully recognizes that the main work of the short session is to pass the appropriation bills. Both parties agree to that. While there may be slight differences over particular items, there is no reason for political bickering or delay in securing this necessary legislation.

The President has shown the utmost candor and good faith in accepting the offer of the opposition to co-operate in securing the legislation required to conduct the government. If factional disputes are to be sought for they will have to come from some source outside his annual message.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Levine's Father Fights Widow's Balm Suit

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Isaac Levine, president of the Sharon Tube Company, prominent industrialist, and father of Charles Levine, ocean flyer, today had added another step to his series of legal difficulties with Mrs. Regina Katz, Berlin widow, by asking the Mahoning County Common Pleas Court to dismiss the $100,000 breach of promise suit which she had filed against him.

In a lengthy answer to the widow's charges, Levine sought to show that Mrs. Katz had no legal basis for the suit and asked the court to free him of the charges filed in the suit.

Last August 29, Levine brought charges of disorderly conduct against the widow because he claimed she had caused him worry and trouble with her demands for money.

At that time Levine declared that the woman had been in the United States since August 1 and had continually plied him with demands for a payment of $3,000 and the return of a diamond ring. The charges were subsequently dismissed.

The father of the Long Island flier said he had met Mrs Katz in Germany shortly after his arrival there to witness the reception accorded his son at the completion of the flight with Clarence Chamberlin across the Atlantic. Levine said Mrs. Katz was a World War widow and the mother of two children.

Local Woman Third In Bridge Tourney

CLEVELAND, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—R. R. Richards and Frank Eaton, of Detroit, won the men's pair championship of the American Bridge League annual tournament here, it was announced last night. They scored 102 match points to 97 for J. E. Swartz and M. Bernstein, of Cleveland, winners of second place.

The women's pair title went to Mrs. Carl T. Robertson and Mrs. Anne Rosenfeld, of Cleveland. Margaret Beech and Mrs. H. A. Stahl, of Pittsburgh, were third, behind a Cleveland pair, Mrs. E. P. Sawhill and Mrs. A. C. Hoffmeir.

YOUNG REVEALS CRISIS ABROAD

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Economics and politics are in conflict and must be reconciled, in the opinion of Owen D. Young.

Speaking here before the Lotus Club last night, following his return from England, the author of the Young plan for reparations said:

"The forces are violent and imposing. Some better way must be found of accommodating each to the other, or they will destroy each other.

"In some European countries the question is being seriously discussed of providing economic parliaments in additon to political ones in order that men especially qualified for the handling of these difficult economic problems may deal with them.

"It has even been suggested that if a holiday of armaments is good, a holiday of parliaments would be better."

America should be a tolerant creditor, he said in appealing for "adequate understanding by the greatest nation in the world in order that its privileges and responsibilities of leadership may not fail in these times and before it is too late."

Work on West End Street Starts Soon

Mother Loses to Daughter In Bridal Mortgage Suit

A mother's effort to obtain release of a mortgage of $6,475, promised in the alleged "sale" of her 15-year-old daughter to a man 71, has failed in the State Supreme Court.

Mrs. Maria S. Rohrback, of Hatteras street, Troy Hill, eight years ago gave her daughter, Gertrude, in marriage to August Braun on condition that he would not foreclose a mortgage for $6,475 he held on the Rohrback home.

Braum died and Gertrude went into court to collect the amount of the mortgage. The lower court ruled for the parents and the case was carried to the Supreme Court, where a decision was given for the young widow. She may now foreclose on her mother, who still occupies the Troy Hill house.

SEEK CRAZED FUGITIVES IN NEW YORK

Thugs Invade Matteawan, Free Dangerous Inmates; Slayer Seen by Wife

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Six criminal maniacs were believed to be at large in New York today—two of them murderers and one a pyromaniac. They escaped the Matteawan Hospital for the Criminally Insane before dawn, aided by three men, one a former inmate of the institution, after overpowering four employes.

It was the most daring escape raid in the history of the upstate prison, which has seen numerous escapes and attempts at escape. One was the sensational break made 17 years ago by Harry K. Thaw, who was committed following trial for the murder of Stanford White.

State troopers, guards and police along the route to New York were eluded in the fast ride that brought the men to this vicinity.

MANHUNT STARTS

New York's police were thrown into a city-wide manhunt when the wife of one of the fugitives, a murderer, called the Matteawan institution and reported that her husband had tried to enter her apartment.

He is Frank Vanderkuylen, 31, sentenced in March of this year from New York after trial for the murder of his bigamous wife.

The others who were at large are: John F. Gambill, New York; Harry Gordon, Rochester; John Biggin, Brooklyn; Anthony Alloy, Brooklyn, and Joseph Kaylor, the Bronx.

The escaped inmate who engineered the raid on the prison was recognized as William H. Nelson, who was liberated last month.

Dr. Raymond F. C. Kieb, superintendent, said the three men entered the hospital grounds through the rear yard, where they encountered Patrick McGrath, the night watchman, and compelled him to accompany them.

SUBDUE COOK

In the kitchen they came upon Clifford Cooper, night cook. Forcing him to join them, they continued through the building toward the front, where they picked up Joseph Brown, the roundsman. They herded their prisoners into the front office, where Samuel Kane, night office man, was on duty.

While one of them guarded the prisoners the other two went to the front dormitory, where the six men, apparently watching for them, sprang up from their cots and ran out. Two of them left clad only in night attire. They drove away in two automobiles.

Gasoline Station Robbers Take Auto

Two white men, one armed, early today forced Joseph Nevitte, attendant at the Pitt Service Station, Penn avenue and Pitt street, Wilkinsburg, into a rear room and took $1 from the cash register. They then relieved Nevitte of a bunch of keys and drove away in his automobile.

Dry Agents Arrest 2 in Homewood Raid

Prohibition agents yesterday raided a building at 503 North Homewood avenue, and, after seizing several bottles of gin and whisky, arrested Michael Capone, 42, and Frank Rodgers, 27, they reported. Both men were held in bond.

SEEK HOLDING COMPANY QUIZ

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Enactment of legislation for the protection of the public interest in the matter of so-called holding companies, was urged on Congress today by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its annual report.

The report said the activities of these holding companies in acquiring control of railroads had reached a point where a thorough investigation was necessary. Such an investigation is now being undertaken by the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

The report pointed out that the railroads have experienced a heavy decline in gross and net earnings as a result of the economic depression.

EVICTED GROUP GIVEN HOME

Mrs. Bessie McCord, her four children and two grandchildren, were keeping house again in two rooms at 807 Constance street today, thanks to the Police Relief Fund.

They were evicted for non-payment of rent Monday from 1317 East street. Since they have been staying with relatives. Police provided two baskets of food, helped fit out their tiny household with furniture, and bought shoes and clothing for the little ones.

Mrs. McCord's daughter, Mrs. Verina Monday, is the sole support of the flock. She leaves her two children at home while she works. George McCord, the father, has been in ill health for the last six months in city hospitals and at Mayview.

DEMAND ACTION ON TOWN HALL

Organization of business, banking, civic and political interests throughout the North Side and the 21 adjoining boroughs and 22 townships was being undertaken today to demand the County Commissioners decide a town hall site.

Resolutions from the combined interests between Leetsdale and Harrison Township to force a showdown was set as a goal yesterday at a meeting of the North Side Chamber of Commerce town hall committee in Boggs & Buhl. Among leaders were Dr. F. H. Frederick, Assemblyman Louis Hagmaier, Joseph W. Cottrell, Edward A Young, secretary-treasurer of the Real Estate Savings and Trust Company; B. B. Croup, president of Boggs & Buhl; P. A. Freyvogel, C. E. Theobald, William Newmeyer and F. E. Tencate, president of the North Side chamber.

The support of Howard Heinz, president of the H. J. Heinz Company, which owns almost 50 per cent of the property necessary for the Anderson street site, was to be sought. A committee named to confer with Mr. Heinz included Dr. Frederick, State Senator Herman Brandt, Mr. Young, John W Vickerman, C. V. Shoop and State Senator Morris Einstein.

Committees representing the varied interests were named to canvass the section for leaders to join the movement.

Crew of Wrecked Vessel Removed

HONGKONG, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The cruiser Suffolk today reached Pratas reef, between here and the Philippines, and found the German motorship Hedwig settling down but with the crew still aboard. The Suffolk launched a motorboat which headed for the wreck, 12 miles away, over dangerous rock strewn seas, and took off her crew.

RUSSIAN PLOT TRIAL AT CLOSE

By EDWARD L. DEUSS.

International News Service.

MOSCOW, Dec. 4.—Soviet Russia was ready today to hear the closing arguments in the trial of eight engineers charged with plotting the overthrow of the Red government through sabotage, climaxed by foreign military intervention.

The prosecution, headed by N. B. Krilenko, undoubtedly will demand the death penalty. It was the concensus of opinion among those who followed the trial closely, however, that at least some of the defendants will be dealt with leniently by the special court.

Each of the men voluntarily laid bare his share in the alleged "giant plot" to wreck the five-year industrial plan in order to embarrass and undermine the government. With amazing frankness, they offered a day by day account of subversive activities that involved not only themselves, but also foreign powers, bringing forth from across the frontiers vigorous protests and denials.

To avoid diplomatic friction between the Soviet and the nations named by the defendants, the court yesterday declared a secret session for the hearing of alleged espionage activities, resuming open trial today.

Describes Liquor As Christmas Gifts

Explaining the presence of 13 cases of whisky, confiscated by police at 1824 James street yesterday, James Boris, 29, of 225 Constance street, Carrick, arrested during the raid, told Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court that he had purchased the liquor to give to friends at Christmas. He was fined $100.

Redmen Begin Fete In Honor of Saint

MISSION SAN XAVIER, Ariz., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The elder brother of the coyotes, who, the ancient Papagos believed, created the world and led the Redmen into it, reigned again today as Indians of Arizona's hills and deserts enacted their pantomimic rituals in honor of St. Francis Xavier. Papagos and Yaquis were here for three days of ceremonial feasting.

Jobless Mother of Three Joins Apple Sellers

A woman entered the apple-selling business in the downtown yesterday—the first of her sex to face this alternative of unemployment.

She stands in front of the Oliver Building's Smithfield street entrance, and business is brisk. She is nameless—at her own request.

"I have a daughter 15, and two younger sons. My daughter is at the age when I hesitate to embarrass her.

"My husband has been out of work and doesn't feel well. I've tried everywhere to find a job. Particularly, the Oliver Building. I asked the superintendent for work many times.

"Today, I asked him if he minded me selling apples out front. He agreed. So far I'm doing well."

She is one of a great number who began yesterday to sell apples and stave off poverty.

Tony and Carlos, two experienced venders from Italy, don't object to competition. Both are well known in downtown buildings and offices.

"Naw, I don't mind. Business is just as good. Those people are poor. They got nothing."

Smiling amusedly, Carlos carries his baskets past the applestands of the unemployed, saying

"It makes my business very popular. Pretty soon everybody will get to like the apple."

BRITON SEES HUNGRY HOAXED

Ex-Chancellor Points Out 'Voluble' Confessions of Eight Accused Prisoners

Winston S. Churchill, son of Lord Randolph Churchill, has held various high posts in the British government since his first election to Parliament in 1900. He has been secretary of home affairs, colonies, war and air, and chancellor of the exchequer.

In the accompanying article Mr. Churchill casts the illuminating searchlight of statesmanship on the current revolutionary trial in Moscow. Writing as one accused of plotting against the Soviet, Mr. Churchill is well able to delineate between the truth and half-truths of the Soviet scheme.

By WINSTON CHURCHILL, M. P.

Former Chancellor of the British Exchequer.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Those who, like myself, are inveterate opponents of all that Bolshevism stands for, whether in subversive revolution — despotic rule, are prone to dwell upon its root as characteristic.

Mr. Churchill

It is unnatural. It is a monster that has been born into our modern world. A cold reptilian blood flows in its veins. It possesses the science of civilisation without its mercy, the fanaticism of religion without its God, the exploitation of human passions and appetites without any ideal beyond their gratification—and that is not achieved.

I have repeatedly warned my Liberal and Socialist friends, as well as traders and men of business when they have consulted me, that they will never get any satisfaction out of Russian Communists.

We are in the presence of subhuman degeneration which, if not luckily inherently morbid, would reduce the great nations—nay, all mankind—to the conditions which Maeterlinck has so vividly displayed in his "History of the White Ant."

Or, again, it is a cancer bacillus, feeding and spreading itself upon the starving body, thriving by the very process which tortures and destroys its victim. How vain to traffick or parley with cancer! How foolish to make a pet of a crocodile or coax a cobra or copperhead!

Many Disillusioned

Undeterred by this advice, many have tried to experiment. All have been disillusioned.

English and American philanthropists, enterprising and hopeful concessionaires, ardent French British, German and Dutch Socialists or trade unionists, highly competent German industrialists, skilled engineers from both sides of the Atlantic, laboring men from many countries, the Lena Goldfields Company, the persevering Mr. Urquhart (mentioned at the Soviet trial), young Mr. Harriman, old Mr. Vandervekde—all in turn have sought to clasp that clammy hand.

All in turn have recoiled, injured, infected or at least defiled by its chill, poisonous sweat. But there are plenty of simpletons left to be gulled or bribed.

MELLON SEES '31 BUSINESS PICK-UP

was given in an estimate that customs duties will total $612,000,000. This would be an increase of $110,000,000 over this year's estimated receipts, and of $25,000,000 over those of the last fiscal year.

INTERNAL REVENUES

Miscellaneous internal revenues, derived from admissions taxes and levies on tobacco and other commodities sensitive to changes in business conditions, were estimated at $616,000,000. Here the estimated increase was $33,000,000 over this fiscal year and $40,000,000 over the last fiscal year.

Both the customs duties and the miscellaneous taxes are collected currently, at about the time of the transactions upon which they are levied. An increase in these transactions would not be reflected in income tax collections until months later. Mr. Mellon estimated the income collections at only $70,000,000 more than those expected in this fiscal year, or just the amount of increase due from the return to higher rates.

BASIS OF FORECAST

These estimated increases, with an estimated gain of $11,000,000 in payments on the principal of war debts, were the basis of the Treasury forecast of $30,000,000 surplus for the next fiscal year, against an estimated deficit this year of $180,000,000. Allowance was made for expenditures to be $40,000,000 larger.

In opposing continuance of the $160,000,000 tax reduction, Mr. Mellon pointed out that the tax reduction, shrinkage of incomes, and dwindling customs collections had reduced this year's expected revenues nearly $400,000,000 from the estimates of a year ago.

Placing beside this his summary for the future, he said:

"The estimates of receipts and expenditures indicate that the temporary decrease cannot be continued during the current year. The budget for the fiscal year 1932 is barely balanced, while during the fiscal year 1931 it is now estimated that expenditures will exceed current receipts by about $180,000,000.

MAY COVER DEFICIT

"This anticipated deficit may be covered in part at least by drawing on the general fund balance."

The general fund balance consists of several hundred millions carried over from one fiscal year to the next, to meet the government's running expenses until its first income tax collections come in in September. It is sometimes supplemented by borrowing for short periods.

The tax cut granted this year was approved by Mr. Mellon as having "afforded relief to both individuals and corporations during a period of unfavorable business developments."

Authority to issue $8,000,000,000 of bonds was asked, to give the Treasury a free hand in the huge refunding of security issues expected in the next few years. An authorization extending up to $20,000,000,000 was given by Congress in war days, but more than $18,000,000,000 of securities have since been issued under it.

BRANCH BANKING

Postponement of branch banking legislation was urged by Mr. Mellon. Pointing out that branch, chain and group banking systems are being studied by Congress, the comptroller of the currency, the Federal Reserve Board and private groups, he said:

"In view of the great importance to the nation of a strong and efficient banking system organized to provide for the requirements of the smallest as well as the largest users of credit, commitments regarding legislation governing the operation of branch, group and chain systems should await the completion of investigations now in progress."

$350 Jewels Reported Stolen from Room

Henry Anhaltzer, a roomer on the third floor of 3515 Butler street, reported to police last night that his room had been entered and a watch and chain and two rings, valued at $350, were stolen.

RUSS PLOT GRIM COMEDY, SAYS CHURCHILL

munist and non-Communist mentality than the trial now proceeding in Moscow of eight Russian professors hitherto employed as high technical experts.

Originally, there were 10 but one was shot out of hand by the Ogpu, and another "died while under interrogation." So, then, there were eight.

The prosecution has framed an indictment in 30,000 words against these eight. It bristles with capital offenses.

Movietone cameras record the drama; a broadcast carries it to every Russian town, and to wherever a human audience cares to listen to this strange tale as it unfolds.

Vast Propaganda

The entire Russian caucus, through thousands of committees and hundreds of newspapers, spreads its propaganda into every accessible quarter.

Enormous demonstrations, calling for the blood of the accused, parade the streets; shoals of resolutions demanding vengeance stream into Moscow from every part of the Soviet state. Children in the schools supplicate the government to show no mercy. The child of one of the accused is "featured," asking that his father may be led to execution.

Meanwhile, the accused—or defendants, as they are termed—with solemn circumspection sit imperturbable in their dock. They help explain the indictment. They recant with gusto on their guilt.

Spectacle 'Not Human'

Hour after hour, they accuse themselves, corroborating each other's confessions, of the most horrible crimes and treacheries, using always the very language best adapted to convey the enormity of their villainy to the listening millions, and to excite against themselves the well-drilled and organized ferocity of the mob.

Surely this spectacle is not human. Law and justice in saturn. A trial in topsy-turvydom.

Why do these professors do this? The performance is amazing. But the explanation is painfully simple.

Two in Grave

Originally there were 10 professors; now there are only eight. Eight from 10 leaves two; the two are already in the grave. The rest, at any rate, are still up to the hour of writing, smoking their cigarets and reciting their confessions.

Strange confessions. Confessions which illuminate to our gaze the machine-made conceptions of a white ant community in evolution.

Under the generous and far-seeing dictatorship of the Russian proletariat they held high positions, these men; they enjoyed especial favors in creature comforts over the mass of hard-working toilers.

False to Trust

They were false to their trust. Nay, they used the advantages of their positions, as they tell us themselves hour after hour, to forge a diabolical plot against the Russian proletariat; against the first Communist republic, alone in the world, surrounded by capitalists, trying so hard to carry through its five-year plan which would at last convince all mankind of the fecund productive efficiency of Socialism ruthlessly applied.

And then these criminalissimos conspire with all the principal figures in Soviet demonology—M. Raymond Poincare, M. Aristide Briand, Col. T. E. Lawrence, Sir Henry Deterding and Mr. Churchill—to sabotage the only plan by which the Russians could be led from suffering and famine into the utopia of Socialist dreams including (this is quite important) a square meal and more groceries.

Planned New Terror

More than that, they succeeded in their felony—witness the bread lines, empty foodshops, infuriated peasantry, the growling army, the muddled factories, and ill-repaired roads.

Josef Stalin, deliverer of Russia, was hampered just at the moment when success was in his grasp. Not only hampered, but hamstrung—and all for what?

The professors leave us in no doubt of the full scope of their design. They wished to bring foreign troops into Russia in order to overturn the first workers' government, the first Communist state, and re-erect upon its ruins a white terror with even less food than at present, and 14 labor hours daily.

'Consulted' With Dead

In their odious proceedings they consulted not only with the living, but with the dead. Prof. Ramzin has confessed in a wealth of detail how, in 1928, he collaborated in Paris with two well-known Russian exiles with outlandish names.

These were the central links in the tortuous network of his treason.

Yet at this very time these two Russian personages had already been reposing for more than three years in the tomb!

We can only hope that Prof. Ramzin possesses that asbestos irony which can smile in hell.

Speculates on Fate

Only two questions of any interest to the civilized world arise from this grim comedy. The first is:

What will happen to the professors?

Will they, when they have played their part, be put to death as captives in a Roman triumph were strangled when the procession had passed from the gaze of the shouting crowds? Or will they be smuggled from the scene and allowed to vegetate in obscurity?

How this will be decided depends exclusively upon whether the Soviet government thinks the same trick may be worth playing a second time. The fate of these unfortunates hangs upon what the management thinks of the possibility or desirability of an encore.

Will Plan Succeed?

The second question, of more general interest, is:

Will the Soviet government "get away with the goods" in Russia?

Will the government succeed in diverting the wrath of the Russian people at the horrible and utterly needless privations which they are now enduring, into a harmless and imaginary canal?

I am by no means sure that they will not.

The combination of the powers of terrorism without limit or compunction, and of the caucus machinery, the newspapers, the broadcast and the cinema, applied to this primitive Asiatic people, isolated from all external news and bowed in grinding toil, is not to be measured.

It is by no means certain that if these forces of soulless barbarism and modern inventions once got US down, we could recover or escape.

But One Regret

As my name has been mentioned in this so-called "trial," I should perhaps not write about it without saying that so long as Great Britain was in a state of war or quasi war with the Bolshevik republic, I did my utmost to compass their downfall.

My only regret is that Europe and the United States did not make a more resolute effort to rescue the Russian people from the awful fate by which they are now gripped.

But from the moment when they were recognized by His Majesty's government, I was precluded by the laws of my country and by my duty to the crown, from all hostile action against them, other than that expressed by public speech or advice tendered to my colleagues to leave them serenely alone.

All Quiet on Potomac; Rioting Is Indoors Now

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

It's all indoors now.

Law and order in this country are two greatly over-rated habits.

There is no order.

And the law is something we must have to frighten the children.

There must be something done about this. Just because you cannot grab a baldheaded man by the hair is no reason to let him drown.

We don't allow strangers to start trouble in Washington.

That's a home industry.

Before you can take a punch at a man, [illegible], interfere with traffic and toss an inkwell at your esteemed contemporary, you must first be duly elected by the people of your sovereign state.

Therefore nobody can riot without his first papers.

Running a government is serious business.

(Copyright, 1930, Published by Universal Service, Inc.)

Rock and Riot

For some reason the Communists have selected the outside of a New York cafeteria for their co-operative riots.

And for some reason the police have decided to protect that cafeteria.

There is nothing more battered and busted than a successful Red.

The riots aren't so bad. We've seen worse inside many a cafeteria.

The Reds have not yet made a first down.

When the riot call comes in the desk-gendarme says:

"Boys, I hate to break up a good backgammon game. We need volunteers over at the Rusty Spoon."

Do the police rush forward in a buttoned body? They do not. Slapping a Red over the bean with a jack every day does not place you at the head of the list of successful financiers.

It's accumulative fun. But it gets monotonous. So the coppers ask:

"Corned beef and cabbage on the platter with a little extra for the vest."

So the law decides to wait until they have spinach and lamb chops. That's worth fighting for.

The amazing thing about these delicate embroglios with hard spruce sauce, is they don't prove anything except that it's better to have a badge than a reason.

We have watched them for the last month. And we have yet to see a Communist arrest a policeman.

It's a tough way to try to make the All-American collegiate eleven. We believe the ostrich has the right idea about fighting.

The ostrich may lose a fight. But nobody hits him on the head.

As official score keeper of the season's rioting we want to state that the Reds have not yet reached first base.

([illegible], 1930.)

Doll Lady Warns Girls Against Christmas Rush

Dear Little Girls:

I have a jolly time watching my big "Tickletoes" dolly all day long. You'll remember I told you a few days ago I imagined they were talking all the time. Today it seemed to me that they not only talked, but deliberately turned their eyes and looked at the little girls who had earned "Tickletoes" and had come in to take "Tickletoes" home.

I imagined one of my red-headed darlings saying: "There's a little girl with hair just like mine. I hope she'll get me." And the blonde seemed to say: "I'm sure I would look nice and comfortable with my head on the shoulder of that little girl with the bright red coat. I hope she'll like me for a playmate and will take me home with her." And the blonde got her wish, because the little girl in the red coat picked her out without hesitation and took her home.

I never dreamed that so many little girls in Pittsburgh would fall in love so quickly with my wonder doll, but they all seem to find it easy to do what I ask them to do and they troop in by the score every day to get their adorable "Tickletoes" and then go home contented and happy.

Now is the time for little girls to get their "Tickletoes." It is three weeks ahead of Christmas, and while there is a big rush it doesn't compare with the rush that will start next week.

So if you want a "Tickletoes" all for your very own clip the coupon, fill it in and mail it to me today and I'll write and tell you how you can get this big, wonder doll. I'll also send you a beautiful colored picture of "Tickletoes" which illustrates many of the cute things she can do. Goodby for today.

Ace Hudkins Denies Proposing to Girl

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 4.—(INS.)—In answers on file in Superior Court here today, Ace Hudkins, noted pugilist, denied that he ever proposed marriage to Rhea W. Hill, or that he ever beat her.

The girl is suing the fighter for $100,000 for alleged breach of promise and for $60,000 for the alleged beatings.

John Maschak, of 1300 Bingham street, escaped injury yesterday when his vegetable-laden wagon plunged over a hillside in Roanoke street. The horse was killed and the wagon was wrecked.

Junk Man Selling S-51 Death Trap

GLEN COVE, N. Y., Dec. 4.—Michael Copobianco, junk man, owns the submarine S-51, which carried 33 men to death. He discovered that the craft had been abandoned in meadows off Canarsie and bought her for $100. He is breaking the boat up and selling the metal.

Chambermaids Suing 'Christus' Win Award

MUNICH, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Four chambermaids of Oberammergau won their tip recovery case against the Christus of this year's Passion Play.

The Labor Court at Garmisch sided with the maids, who testified Alois Lang charged Passion Play guests at his house the usual percentage for service in lieu of tips, but failed to give them the money. The court sentenced Lang to pay the girls 2,000 marks (about $480).

30 Students Held After Riot Killing

HAVANA, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Thirty University of Havana students were under arrest today as a result of yesterday's clash with police during a demonstration when one policeman was killed and another wounded.

Approximately 300 students participated in the street battle, but none of them were hurt. The trouble developed from a demonstration staged to protest the scheduled reopening of the university, closed recently by presidential decree because of student disorders.

'Chute Stays Closed, Plunge Kills Flier

COLON, C. Z., Dec. 4.—(INS.)—The body of C. L. Donnever, naval air pilot, killed yesterday when his parachute failed to open after he leaped from his plunging plane, was taken to Coco Solo naval air station today for burial. The aviator fell out in a flight over the jungle. Apparently Donnever became unconscious after jumping, as inspection of the parachute showed that its rip cord had not been pulled.

Hunter's Last Shot Kills Stalking Bear

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Forney Winner, Jr., of this city, had a narrow escape in an encounter with a bear while hunting on the Coudersport pike. With six shots in his gun, Winner fired five at the approaching animal and with a high cliff behind him, was confronted with a serious situation. He fired his last shot and the bear dropped dead within a yard of him.

Gauge Splits Inch Into 100,000 Parts

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—One one-hundred-thousandth of an inch can be measured as accurately and quickly as a full inch with an electric gauge developed in the General Electric Company laboratory.

The gauge magnifies the small measurement 10,000 times, so one one-hundredth-thousandth of an inch appears as one-tenth of an inch on a scale easily read.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday

Observe Golden Rule Sunday by Serving . . .
A McCann Chuck Roast of Beef
lb. 18c

McCann's makes it easy to serve a Golden Rule Dinner and still enjoy a very delicious roast. A McCann "chuck" is tender and flavorful because it is first quality meat. We bought an enormous quantity to bring the price down so that you might save on your Sunday roast and give the difference to the poor.

On Sale in Old McCann Store as well as in our two new stores

Low price should be a secondary consideration
McCann's Favorite Coffee is enjoyed by thousands
3 lbs. 69c

Coffee should be bought for the amount of enjoyment you get out of its flavor, rather than for its low price. If you like a mild coffee flavor, buy Favorite and pocket the saving its low price affords.

The aristocrat of the cabbage family!
Large Heads of Cauliflower
each 19c

These are large, clean white heads that cook tender throughout . . . the kind you'd expect to buy at McCann's. Did you know that a small piece of bread placed on top the lid does away with the cooking odor?

Fresh Mushrooms, 3 pound basket $1

Green Onions, 3 large bunches 10c

Announcing . . .
A Cut Flower Department
as a new McCann service

NOW, every day of the year, McCann's will supply cut flowers and potted plants of McCann quality at prices people want to pay. Church organizations and societies will find their flower funds go further at McCann's. Housewives will be able to keep the flower bowl replenished at small cost. Husbands can make a regular practice of taking home "her" favorite flowers along with the butter and eggs.

Visit Our Flower Department This Week
Roses, doz. 69c

Beautiful blooms that will delight the heart of shut-ins, sweethearts, mothers, wives . . . everyone. Put up in boxes with plenty of greens. Pink, red, yellow and white.

They can't help being good . they're Puritans
McCann's Puritan Turkeys for Sunday dinners
lb. 39c

Eight and nine pounders . . . every bit as tender and juicy and sweetly flavored as the one you served for Thanksgiving dinner. Why not have one for dinner Sunday? Freshly dressed . . . dry picked.

Returns to McCann's

THERE'S a homelike atmosphere in both McCann restaurants that men especially like in addition to the excellent food and no dishes to help with afterwards! Listen to this for sixty-five cents:

BROILED PORK CHOPS
FRIED APPLES
CANDIED SWEET POTATOES OR BAKED FLOUNDER,
PARSLEY BUTTER
FRENCH FRIED POTATOES
CUT BEANS
CLOVER LEAF OR HARD ROLLS
PUMPKIN PIE OR PRUNE WHIP

QUALITY!
The standard by which other butter is judged . . .
McCann's Butter
2 lbs. 79c

There is butter and butter, but only one McCann's Butter. You can't fool regular McCann customers. Ask the husbands who occasionally have found it more convenient to stop at the corner grocery!

Shellwhite April Eggs
3 doz. $1

It's a grand and glorious feeling to bake an angel food cake with never a thought as to the cost. These snow-white eggs make angel food cake and all egg dishes deliciously and bring the cost down within the reach of the most modest budget.

Fresh Country Eggs . . . . doz. 53c

You couldn't bake a better cake
Butter Sponge Layer
each 60c

Here's a cake so delicious and good you simply can't resist it. A smoothly textured, feather-light sponge covered with creamy butter frosting and chocolate jimmies. In case you don't know what "jimmies" are . . . tiny chocolate candies.

FISH SPECIALS
Fresh Boston
Mackerel
lb. 19c

Sh-h-h-h! Let's whisper it. Fresh fish can be eaten in large quantities without the slightest fear of putting on extra weight. You'll be glad to remember this when you taste how good this mackerel is . . . and eat your second or third piece!

Fresh Crab Meat . lb. 69c
Fillet of Grey Sole, lb. 59c

Geisha Brand
Crab Meat
3 cans 79c

What's nice about crab meat bought in cans, is that it will keep until you use it. Large lumps that make such nice salads and cocktails, sandwiches and hot dishes.

Gift Toilet Sets

In Delicate Shades

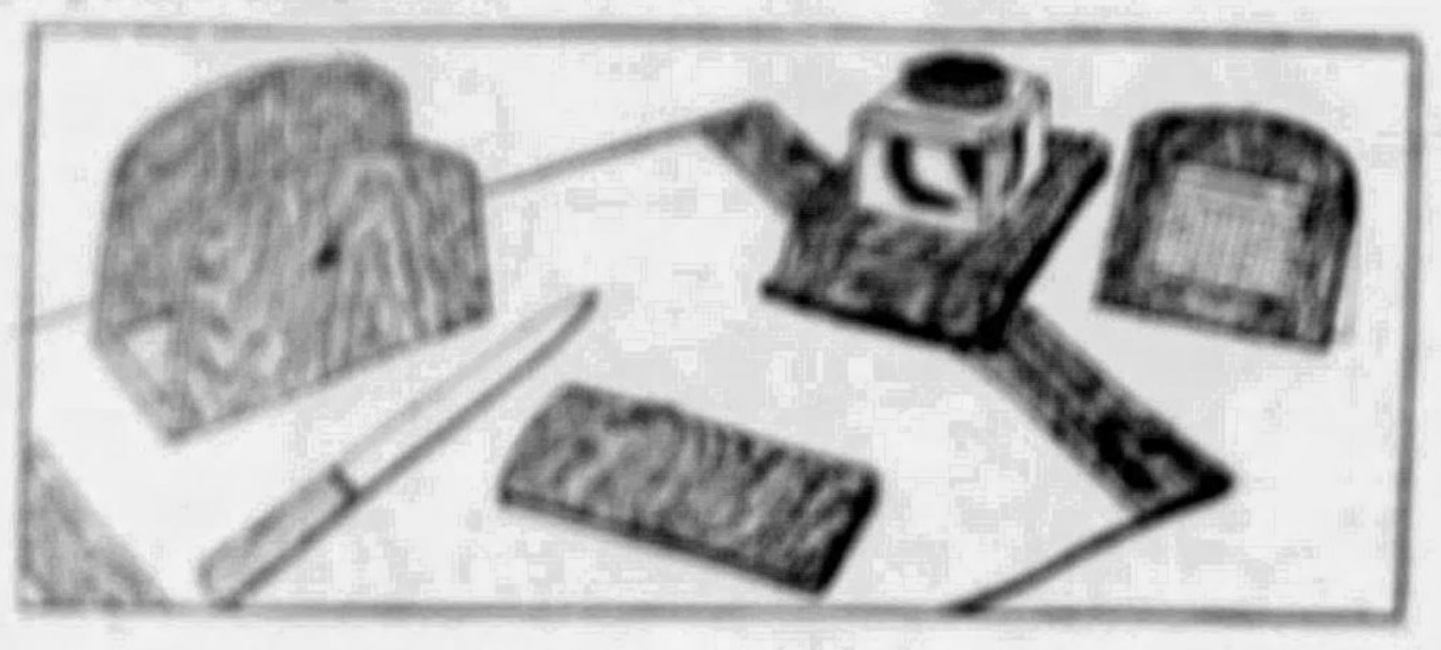
A decorative, practical gift that any woman will appreciate—ten-piece dressing table sets in beautiful shades of quartz or pearl-on-amber composition.

In a graceful, feminine pattern—a mirror, comb, brush, tray, powder box, shoe horn, button hook, and manicure accessories—make a set that will be immediately recognized as most desirable, for $7.25. In canary, rose, orchid, blue, and green.

...Horne's, Main Floor...

Moire Desk Sets

For a young girl who has her own desk or writing table . . . choose one of these six-piece desk sets, moire covered. They come in shades to blend with the color scheme of her boudoir—blue, green, orchid, and rose—include a large pad, letter rack, calendar, inkwell, hand blotter, and letter knife, at the unusually low price of $2.95.



...Horne's, Main Floor...

Rhinestone Ensemble

The smartest gift a girl or woman could ask for—sparkling rhinestones—this season's favored jewelry—in matching necklace, bracelet, and earrings! There are several designs in these smart evening ensembles . . . and they answer admirably the gift problems of limited Christmas budgets, for each piece is only $2.95.

...Horne's, Main Floor...

Of French Crepe....Crepe Satin

The ever-popular gift—dainty underthings so beautiful that you quite forget that they're equally practical! There is an unusually lovely selection at this modest price.

Chemises, panties, bandeau sets of fine French crepe, and crepe satin, gracefully fashioned in princess and straightline styles, are trimmed with beautiful cream and ecru lace yokes, edges and inserts. In flesh, tea rose, and eggshell.

...Horne's, Second Floor...

100 Imported Hand-Made

Decorative Chairs

$45

Beautiful French provincial chairs . . . unlike anything you will see in Pittsburgh because they were made in Belgium to our exclusive order. And they've arrived just in time for Christmas gifts!

The frames are exquisite with their chaste carvings and graceful curves . . . the separate thickly padded cushions and the slightly pitched backs conform to the demands of American comfort . . . and the coverings of rich damasks, petit points and tapestries in Gobelin patterns far surpass the beauty of many a more expensive chair.

Here is a decorative chair that is also useful and comfortable . . . and so low priced you can give a truly luxurious gift at a most ordinary price.

Christmas Radios

$79 Complete

Here's a radio—as modern as the DO-X as ear-pleasing as a Mozart symphony, as eye-appealing as the Cathedral of Learning—at a price within reach of practically every home, however modest its income!

It is a nationally-known make, of which we have sold thousands. It has such up-to-the-minute improvements as tone control, oversize Utah dynamic speaker and employs 8 tubes in triple-screen-grid circuit. And as for selectivity, sensitivity and clarity of tone—compare it to sets costing times-over its price! A wonderful gift!

Fully guaranteed by the manufacturer and by this store. Priced complete with tubes, installed and serviced for one year within 50 miles of Pittsburgh.

OUR "BUY NOW" SALE A BIG SUCCESS!

"You couldn't have cut your price at a better time," one woman told us. "I can get two pairs of shoes and a couple of Christmas gifts with a ten-dollar bill!"

WE'VE never had a cut-price sale before in Nisley history and we'll probably never have another one! But we're glad we didn't postpone this event until January—the usual sale month—because the response just couldn't be better! Every one wants that extra dollar for Christmas gifts right now, and every woman wants at least one pair of pretty new shoes for holiday parties.

This sale, of course, was planned to widen our circle of Nisley customers . . . and every time we fit a pair of shoes we make a friend. You'll feel the same way about these superlative shoe-values, regularly marked $5 and now offered at only $4. You'll like our manner of serving you too . . . no pressure to buy . . . no trouble to try-on as many pairs as you like. That's what we want you to do, in fact—see everything and compare values! But time is short! Come in tomorrow if possible.

EVERY NEW WINTER SHOE REGULAR $5.00 STOCK

Remember! Even at $4 you're getting much more than the usual $5 shoe. Nisley Shoes have never been in the $5 class. They've never been bought by "$5 shoe purchasers," but by women who have always paid more UNTIL THEY DISCOVERED NISLEY! We make all our own shoes in our own plants and do this work on such a vast scale (to supply our more than fifty Nisley stores) that we can afford the softer, finer leathers, more shapely lasts and refinements-of-finish which you only look for in expensive shoes.

"To go with everything"
—just as an extra pair of shoes in which to feel well dressed—we suggest black suede or black patent leather. They're flattering to every foot and will be good style straight through to spring!

Important note about color

Every shoe wardrobe this winter should contain at least one pair of colored leather shoes. Remember that our new $4 price includes the smartest modes in brown, green, wine and a few deep blues. For crepe and velvet afternoon dresses, we'll dye fabric slippers to any tint. Black chiffon gowns, too, are ultra-smart worn with gay-colored slippers and bit of jewelry to match.

WOMAN SAVES 3 AS HOME BURNS

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 4.—Mrs. Price Harvey, of Greensboro, saved the lives of two aged women and her 4-year-old daughter when fire broke out in her home yesterday. After discovering the blaze Mrs. Harvey carried an aunt, Mrs. L. K. Gabler, to safety, at the same time leading her 4-year-old daughter, Hope, through the burning structure.

She then returned to the house and led her aged mother from the building. The house was saved from destruction by Greensboro firemen.

Christmas Trees Begin Trek To Market

BOSTON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Six million five hundred thousand trees, firs, and spruces from New England's hills, have begun their Christmas trek to the homes of a nation. The crop this year is somewhat smaller than that of 1929, according to estimates of railroad officials, for more than 7,000,000 trees were shipped last year.

The little trees will travel far with their message of Christmas, some will go as far South as New Orleans and Dallas, some will go westward to Chicago and Kansas City and other places—even as far distant as Colorado.

K. OF C. HEARS ROSENBAUM

The reduction of child traffic fatalities in Pittsburgh 35.6 per cent in the last eight years through educational methods was discussed by Walter Rosenbaum, chairman of the education section of the Better Traffic Committee, at a luncheon meeting of the Knights of Columbus yesterday in the William Penn Hotel. Other speakers at the meeting were Assistant Supt. of Police Ben R. Marshall, Traffic Inspector Jacob Dorsey, George E. Clarkson and Frank L. Duggan.

CHURCH DAMAGE CLAIM HEARD

Damage totaling $6,000 are demanded by the North Zion English Lutheran Church of Baldwin Township, because of a proposed change in a grade crossing to be made by the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad, near the church. Examiner John Fox Weiss, of Harrisburg, acting for the Public Service Commission heard the case, a decision in which will be rendered later.

Examiner Weiss also heard the application of the commissioners of Allegheny County for the reconstruction of a crossing above grade, over the tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at South Tenth street. The bridge to be erected, it was explained involves the expenditure of $1,100,000 and is to be 56 feet in width in accordance with published plans.

ROBBER CAUGHT AS SHOTS FLY

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—A volley of shots, fired at the heels of a man who tried unsuccessfully to steal $40,000 in bonds from the Lawyers Title and Guarantee Company, threw lower Broadway crowds into a furor.

The man seized the bonds from a desk in the company's office, but dropped them and his overcoat when an officer tried to seize him. He ran for the door, but was caught by policemen after a 150-yard dash.

Detectives found in his pocket a passport reading Joseph Read, of Toronto, and booked him under that name. He said he was a salesman and art dealer.

Grand Jury Led By Woman Speedy

BEAVER, Pa., Dec. 4.—The grand jury of which Mrs. Helen L. Bentley was foreman made a record for brevity, completing the work in three days. The jury returned 69 indictments and ignored 23 bills, which is said to be another record in Beaver County courts.

Wife, 2 Girls Among 7 Lost Aboard Ship

MERIDA, Yucatan, Mex., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Seven persons including the wife and two daughters of the captain, were drowned when the steamer Clara Ramos foundered off Carmen in the state of Campeche.

ENGINEER DIES AT THROTTLE

MARIETTA, O., Dec. 4.—(AP)—As the St. Louis-New York express of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad sped across the Ohio River Bridge into Parkersburg, W. Va., Engineer Wallace Williams, 65, of Chillicothe, O., died at the throttle.

Wife Needs Cash, Cafe Robber Explains

"My wife needs this money more than you do."

With this explanation an unmasked armed man turned and left the Montefiore sandwich shop, 3401 Fifth avenue, late last night, after forcing Joseph Parnes, the manager, to hand over $73 from the cash register. The amount represented the day's sales, Parnes told police.

SALE OF SEALS AIDS SCHOOL

The sale of Christmas Seals in Pittsburgh supports the open air school for children at the Tuberculosis League Hospital. In the school at present, 31 boys and girls are receiving treatments for pre-tuberculous or tuberculosis cases, while they continue their education under a regular public school teacher.

The public school examiner is responsible for recommending cases to the league. Children, once entered at the school, receive medical supervision, hot noon-day lunches, mid-morning and mid-afternoon milk rations, nursing during school hours, attention of hospital doctors.

In the 20 years of its existence, the Christmas Seal charity has sent into the high schools and homes of the city many score of healthy children. For the continuation of this work, the league is again issuing its annual Christmas call for purchase of the seals by the public.

MOTOR PLANTS BOOST OUTPUT

DETROIT, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Increased employment and production schedules were announced by two Detroit automobile manufacturers.

The Hudson Motor Car Company announced the production schedule had been increased to more than 2,000 cars a week, the heaviest since last June.

William J. McAneeny, president and general manager, said the company had received telegrams from all parts of the country to the effect that "the public is in a better buying mood than in many months."

The Lincoln Motor Company announced 800 employes had returned to work within the last month and the number is being increased at the rate of 100 a week. Only former employes are being given jobs.

Moorehead to Speak On Mound Builders

Dr. Walter K. Moorehead, director of the department of American archaeology at Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., will deliver an illustrated lecture on the mound-builders tonight at 8:15 o'clock in Carnegie Lecture Hall. Dr. Moorehead has spent several years in the study of the mound-builders in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, and has excavated many mounds and examined the trophies taken from them.

Autos Kill Two Near Moundsville

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Dec. 4.—Two deaths occurred here as the result of automobile accidents. Frank Pokalis, 51, of Benwood, was run down by a car driven by Dr. Edgar Phillips, of Wheeling, as he was about to board a trolley car. John McCarthy, 54, traveling salesman, of Brooklyn, N. Y., died in Reynolds Memorial Hospital as the result of injuries sustained when he was struck by a truck, while crossing the street.

Gilchrist to Visit Industries Here

Troubled With Pimples and Blackheads. Cuticura Healed.

"I was troubled with large pimples and blackheads. The pimples were hard and red and festered. They were scattered all over my chin and forehead and caused disfigurement. Even when sleeping they bothered me, and I was always picking at them.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. My chin and forehead started to clear up after using it so I purchased more, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." MISSING LAKE BOATS SAFE

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 4—(AP)—Two boats that were believed lost in the terrific northwest gale that has swept Lake Erie during the past two days have been located, Martin W. Rasmussen, commander of the Buffalo Coast Guard unit, said.

Twelve coast guard cruisers put out from Erie, Pa., this afternoon in search of the two craft and proceeded as far west as Fairport, O. One of the boats, the Uxona, a 212-foot sand carrier, was located in the Erie harbor. It had not been heard of since it cleared from Detroit last Friday for Fairport.

The other craft, a 36-foot fishing launch, was located off Pelee Point, Ont., by a tug. Her gasoline engine had been disabled and she was towed to Point Pelee by the tug.

WILL WED 5TH NAVAL OFFICER

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 4.—(AP)—For the fifth time, Mrs. Golda Monroe Kenyon is to marry a naval officer, her father, James M. Monroe, Annapolis attorney, announced. Mrs. Kenyon, recently granted a divorce from Commander George W. Kenyon, will marry Commander Charles C. Gill, a member of the class of 1907 of the United States Naval Academy.

Mrs. Kenyon, an Annapolis debutante, first married Ensign Donald P. Morrison. After his death she married Lieut. Harold F. Burdick.

After her second husband's death she went to the altar with Lieut. Warren Case Nixon, who died in 1923. The following year she married Commander Kenyon.

Fire Chief Accused Of Being Firebug

HELENA, Ark., Dec. 4—(AP)—Ed Kalb, chief of the West Helena fire department, was arrested on two charges of arson after two houses owned by him were destroyed by fire.

Sheriff J. C. Barlow said his arrest came in the wake of a recent series of fires in West Helena in which 75 buildings were burned with a loss of about $150,000.

Erie Teller Admits Large Bank Thefts

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 4—(AP)—Leo J. Smith, 31, teller in the First National Bank, was quoted by bank officials as confessing defalcations which may involve a total of $100,000. They said he told them he lost the money in gambling houses.

Smith was in the county jail pending arraignment. Officials said the bank was protected by his bond.

REGIONAL BOARD TO ELECT

Election of officers and executive committee will feature the sixteenth regular and fourth annual meeting of the Allegheny Regional Advisory Board in the William Penn Hotel next Thursday. A joint meeting of the board's executive and railroad contact committees will be held Wednesday in the Chamber of Commerce.

Forecasts of prospective freight car requirements for the first calendar quarter of next year will be made by the board's 25 commodity committees. Railroad representatives will report on their individual freight car and locomotive conditions, road and terminal situations, changes in transportation service schedules, contemplated improvements and other matters of interest to their patrons.

AWAIT REPORTS ON MEET

Pittsburgh delegates to the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection called by President Herbert Hoover in November will give their versions of the conference at a meeting of the board and staff of the Pittsburgh Federation of Social Agencies, in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. next Tuesday afternoon.

A layman's point of view will be given by Horace F. Baker and Miss Margaret Brooke will give an account of the conference from the viewpoint of a social worker. Other speakers will include Dr. Paul Titus, Dr. Edward Rynearson, Dr. E. N. Clopper and Arthur Dunham. J. Rogers Flannery, chairman of the Child Welfare Committee of the Pittsburgh Federation, will preside.

PENNA. SOCIETY MEETS DEC. 19

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The first winter meeting of the Pennsylvania Society will be held December 19.

The announcement was made by Representative Charles J. Esterly, of Reading, president of the society.

Plans for the presentation to the District of Columbia of the Pennsylvania gift fountain will be discussed by Representative Henry Watson, of Langhorne, who with Secretary Mellon is a member of the committee soliciting funds for the memorial.

Miss Julia Strong, daughter of the late Justice William Strong, is president of the Fountain Association, and Mrs. Frank C. Baldwin, of Scranton, is secretary.

Colds

During the terrible influenza epidemic in 1918, the Massachusetts State Guard Medical Officers selected and used Salicon at the official State Camp. The doctors specified Salicon in place of the more common remedies because they found that it did the work quicker, surer and without any harmful effects! Salicon does not affect the heart, does not upset the stomach, is not habit forming. It speedily breaks up colds and relieves muscular and nerve pains and aches. You can take nothing better. Therefore, let it be your stand-by. At the first sign of any cold or pain or ache, take a couple of Salicon tablets. Relief with safety is yours! All good druggists sell Salicon in 25c, 50c and $1.25 sizes. Accept nothing else.

FATIGUE CAUSES WORKERS TO MAKE MANY MISTAKES

Especially Noticeable During Mid-afternoon—the "Zero Hour" in Business

The condition — "too tired to think"— is familiar to nearly everybody. When experienced by those working under pressure, where mental alertness is necessary, it often results in errors both large and small.

Investigations show that mid-afternoon is the time when fatigue with its attending results is most in evidence. Many men and women, however, have discovered a method to overcome this tired feeling. They take a moment to eat or drink something sweet and are able to proceed with their work with new vigor.

Candy, ice cream, cookies, small cakes, soda-fountain beverages and the "athlete's cocktail" — a glass of water sweetened with sugar — are not only efficient mid-afternoon snacks but accessible to all. They are quickly digested and the energy provided by the sugar is immediately available. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

COURT HALTS BOY VIOLINIST

Ruggiero Ricci, youthful violinist, featured as an attraction at the concerts of the Cleveland Orchestra tomorrow night and Saturday afternoon, will not appear as soloist here. By court order he and his brother, also a musical prodigy, has been awarded to the custody of his father and mother. For years they had been in the custody of their teacher and guardian and a long drawn out legal battle resulted.

The second pair of concerts in the Pittsburgh Orchestra Association series will be presented with Nikolai Sokoloff conducting. Tomorrow night's program will open with Goldmark's Overture "Sakuntala," and will include Entr'acte from Khovantchina by Moussorgsky, and The Sea, Three Symphonic Sketches by Debussy.

Saturday afternoon Haydn's Symphony with the horn signal will be featured. A special concert for children will be given at Carnegie Music Hall tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock.

SUSPECT SEIZED IN PURSE THEFT

Accused of stealing the purses of Miss Pauline McHugh and Mrs. Bertha M. Lischnowski from a clothes closet in the office of the Department of Public Welfare, City-County Building, James Tindall, 22, a Negro, of 14 Roberts street, was being held in the Central Police Station today.

City Detectives William Stewart and Ben Ostmarkowski arrested Tindall after the women, who are employed by the Welfare Department, identified a rogues' gallery picture of Tindall as that of the man who applied for help at the office Monday. Shortly after his departure, detectives reported, the purses disappeared. He denied the theft.

Scalds Prove Fatal To Negro Workman

Van Cullom, 33, a Negro laborer of 2525 Elm street, was fatally scalded when he fell into a vat of hot water in the plant of the Federated Metals Company, 615 Gross street, last night, the coroner's office reported.

OIL PLANT AGAIN IN FLAMES

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Fire which swept the Pratt works of the Standard Oil Company on the Brooklyn waterfront early today broke out again this afternoon after being brought under control once.

Starting shortly before midnight the flames threatened for a time to wipe out the entire plant.

Two hundred thousand gallons of gasoline, crude oil and turpentine and 18 tanks were destroyed and piers, barges, a fireboat and a tanker were damaged as the fiery mass poured into the East River.

Officials of the Standard Oil Company said their loss was between $250,000 and $300,000.

2 Held in Attempt At Hotel Robbery

Two Negroes alleged to have been caught trying to enter rooms of the Marion Hotel, 412 Penn avenue, by way of the fire escapes were held for investigation by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today. They are Luke Taylor, no home, and Raymond Case, of the Helping Hand.

AVOID UGLY BLEMISHES

[illegible]

Woman, 82, Struck By Auto, Driver Held

Mrs. Rachel Adams, 82, of 116 Spencer avenue, Mt. Oliver, was treated at home for bruises, shock and a possible fracture of the collarbone after she was struck by an automobile truck at Brownsville road and Bausman street late yesterday. The driver, Regis Friend, of 314 McKinley avenue, said she stepped from behind a street car. He was held in $1,000 bail on a reckless driving charge.

Pigeon Picks Up Cigaret, Fires City Hall Roof

MELROSE, Mass., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Someone dropped a lighted cigaret stub in front of Melrose City Hall. A pigeon picked it up and took it to its nest atop the city hall.

Within a short time firemen were busy amid the leaves. Damage was about $300.

Merchant Hanging Aboard Ship Saved

COLON, P. C. Z., Dec. 4.—(INS)—Charles William Potts, a retired merchant of Philadelphia, was found hanging by a sash cord in his stateroom aboard the S. S. Ecuador today.

He was still alive when found by his companion, W. E. Brecker, and was rushed to the Gorgas Hospital, where his condition was described as extremely serious.

Mother and Three Girls Perish in Fire

MONTEVILLE, N. J., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Wanda Durkin, 27, and her three daughters—Madeline, 5, June, 2, and Jean, 1—were burned to death today when fire destroyed their home in an isolated section near here. A defective chimney is believed to have caused the fire.

Do you know what foods help your teeth and gums?

To HAVE good teeth, science says, you must eat generously of foods containing vitamins and mineral salts. Fresh vegetables, milk, fruits, eggs should be eaten daily.

And then there's the question of dentifrices. What type is best to use? E. R. Squibb & Sons asked a leading research institution to tabulate opinions among 50,000 practicing dentists. Read the summary of the replies received:

95% of the answers stated that germ acids most frequently cause tooth decay and gum irritation. . . .

95% of the answers agreed that the most serious trouble occurs at the place where teeth and gums meet—The Danger Line. . . .

85% stated that the best product to prevent these acids from causing decay and irritating the gums is Milk of Magnesia. . . .

What better evidence could there be that Squibb Dental Cream will protect your teeth and gums? It is made with more than 50% Squibb Milk of Magnesia. Just try Squibb's. See how beautifully it cleans. How it refreshes. And so safely. No grit. No astringents. Nothing which might possibly injure. Get a tube tomorrow.

'Numbers' Books Seized in Raid

County detectives seized several dozen lottery books, an adding machine and punch boards today in a raid on a Squirrel Hill confectionery, arresting J. C. Barr as proprietor at 6241 Murray avenue.

The raid was conducted under County Detective Lawrence Kline after District Attorney Andrew Park had received complaints. Barr was to be given a hearing before Alderman George S. Anderson.

Dry Injunctions Against Two Places

Temporary dry law injunctions were granted today by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson against two places. The defendants are Jerry Sullivan, second floor and basement of 2600 Fifth avenue, and Raymond (Tech) Evans, Tech barbecue stand, Washington road, [illegible].

Charges were made by Robert S. Krause, deputy prohibition administrator, and final hearing was set for January 6.

Parents in Towboat Find Child Drowned

Harry Houston, 13, whose parents live on the towboat Princess, anchored in the Monongahela River near the Glenwood Bridge, who was reported missing last night, was found drowned near the boat today, according to a morgue report.

Hazelwood police said that the boy was missed after he had helped wheel ashes from the engine room of the boat to the shore.

NOMINEES FACE SENATE FIGHT

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—A host of presidential appointments, ranging from a cabinet officer to small-town postmasters, were being scanned by the Senate today, with indications pointing to serious fights against some of Mr. Hoover's choices for the Tariff and Federal Power Commissions.

The nomination of William N. Doak as secretary of labor to succeed Senator James J. Davis will be confirmed without trouble, but no such easy fate awaits a few of the new tariff and power commissioners.

Democratic Senators will lead the fight against some of the appointees to the Tariff Commission, particularly opposing confirmation of Henry P. Fletcher, of Pennsylvania, named as chairman, and Edgar B. Brossard, of Utah, a reappointment.

Both Insurgents and Democrats will study the careers of all appointees to the Power Commission. There may be opposition to all five, and particularly to any appointee found to have connections with power interests.

PAPERS STOLEN IN GIRL KILLING

GARY, Ind., Dec. 4.—(INS.)—An intensive search was under way today for the stolen confessions of five youths held for the murder of 18-year-old Arlene Draves. Police attributed the theft to a plot aimed to destroy the evidence against the defendants.

Inasmuch as there were four signed copies of the confessions and three are still in the hands of authorities, the asserted plot failed.

Investigation disclosed the papers were stolen Tuesday from the office of Police Capt. William Forbis.

The five youths were arrested following a "wine party" during which the Draves girl died.

Truckload Clothing Stolen in Street

A truck containing wearing apparel estimated to be worth $3,000 was stolen yesterday while the attendant was delivering a package at Negley avenue and Elmer street. Ralph Hall, a driver for the American Cleaning and Repairing Company, 6139 Penn avenue, reported that when he returned the truck was gone.

Man Held in Fatal Row Over 50 Cents

A coroner's jury today ordered Dominic Truli, 33 Fleming avenue, Stowe Township, held for the grand jury in the slaying of Christy Papella, 65, an Italian laborer living at the same address, during a quarrel over 50 cents. Injured on October 19, Papella died in the Ohio Valley Hospital November 5, of a fractured skull.

Mace to Speak on 'Stoned to Glory'

"Stoned to Glory" will be the subject of James C. Mace at the regular weekly meeting of the Friday Noon Bible Class at the Downtown Y. M. C. A.

Shoplifter Suspect Battles in Store

After putting up a battle with store employes and causing consternation among shoppers, Dorothy Dawson, 23, Negress, of 2113 Pulaski way, was arrested late yesterday in Rosenbaum's on a charge of shoplifting.

Miss Mary Smith, store detective, testified in Central Police Court that she detected the woman stealing a dress. The suspect was held for court on a charge of larceny by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg.

Slayer of Husband Blames Heat, Freed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—(AP)—A woman's plea that the intense heat of last summer superinduced a mental condition that led her to slay her husband was accepted by a jury in acquitting her on a second degree murder charge.

The defendant, Mrs. Myrtle L. Williams, admitted shooting her husband last July, but insisted she did not know she had committed the act until aroused by the report of the gun.

Y. M. H. A. to Stage Film of Caucasus

The Sokino production, "Caucasian Love," filmed in the heart of the Caucasus, will be presented Saturday night at the Y. M. H. A. on Bellefield avenue, under the auspices of the Film Art Guild.

Browne, Author, to Speak Here Dec. 16

Lewis Browne, author and lecturer, will speak at the Y. M. & W. H. A. Tuesday night, December 16, on "Jews Are Like That." The lecture will be the third of a series.

BOGGS & BUHL
Beautiful Mahogany Petite
GRAND PIANOS
$355

THE first time in history, we believe, that a new Grand Piano of quality has been offered at so low a price—surely nothing in piano selling in this community has even closely approached it. The price is all the more astonishing in view of the excellent quality of the materials and the workmanship that enter into the making of these truly exquisite instruments.

A Piano Selling Event of Tremendous Significance—

This unprecedented sale is made possible because of the manufacturer's need of turning excess production into immediate cash, and because of Boggs & Buhl's merchandising facilities, which enable us to take quick advantage of such opportunities, and to pass them along to you—wholeheartedly and completely.

Upholstered Duet Bench Included

No Possible Repeat of This Sale

We took the entire surplus stock — the product of a company that makes only quality instruments—a piano we are proud to sell and unqualifiedly to guarantee and endorse.
There will positively be no more available at the price after these are gone.

Make Your Selection Early

The only way to be sure of getting one. A small deposit will hold your selection until Christmas if desired.
The balance may be spread over two and one-half years.

Quick, Mother!

First aid must be applied at once to avoid danger

THE most important thing about first aid is to be quick about it. That's why you should have "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly always on hand for instant use. Think of the child who is burned or cut. You don't want him to suffer a minute; you don't want to invite infections which often come from neglected skin abrasions. "Vaseline" Jelly will help you. Apply at once. And apply a light bandage. Be prepared. Lay in a supply at once. For sale everywhere, in tubes and jars.
And remember when you buy that the trade mark Vaseline on the label is your assurance that you are getting the genuine product of the Chesebrough Manufacturing Company, Consolidated, 17 State Street, New York.

Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union and former diplomatic colleagues of Senor Herrera in Washington will be presented shortly by Mariano Laos, Peruvian journalist who arrived here by air today. The testimonial will commemorate President Olaya's visit to the United States as president-elect of Colombia.

MILLIONS LOST IN CRASHES

In the first 10 months of 1930, damage totaling $3,992,215 to automobiles and other property resulted from 39,556 motor vehicle crashes, according to a report issued today by the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

The report says this huge damage is apart from the inestimable loss incurred in the deaths of 1,530 persons and injuries to 33,088 others, in the wiping out of earnings entirely or for periods while the injured were convalescing.

Of the deaths, 1,174 were of adults with potential earning power, and 356 were children. Deaths for the first 10 months of the year are lower than for the corresponding period of 1929, but the injury toll is nearly 3,000 higher. Nearly half of this year's fatalities were among pedestrians.

Banker Given Term On Forgery Charges

SUNBURY, Pa., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Alfred E. Breen, of Shamokin and Scranton, former second vice president of the Guaranty Trust and Safe Deposit Company, Shamokin, was sentenced to serve from two to five years in jail and pay a fine of $500 and costs when he pleaded guilty to charges of embezzling $57,000.

Breen, prominent in banking circles in the anthracite region, also pleaded guilty to forging checks totaling $31,000.

$20,000 ASKED IN TUBE CRASH

Alleging he was seriously injured when his automobile, held in the Liberty Tubes by traffic conditions, was struck by another car, Dr. I. Ellis Glasgow, 421 Empire Building, asked $20,000 damages from John H. McClure, 1651 Hillsdale avenue, Dormont, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court.

He averred that his car was halted by traffic congestion near the south end of the tubes August 22, 1929, and was struck by the car of McClure. Dr. Glasgow stated he was thrown violently forward and suffered injuries that will cripple his right arm and hip permanently and impair his earnings as a physician.

CANAL SEEN AS LAKE CARGO SOLUTION

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

William Pfarr

H. W. Correll, writer of juvenile stories, will found his next story on fact. The facts are that Mr. Correll, who earns his living as a statistician for the Chamber of Commerce, bought an apple from a jobless vendor Monday morning on his way to work.

The apple cost 5 cents. Mr Correll decided to raffle the apple among chamber employes and turn the money over to somebody who needed it.

He did. The apple was won by Mrs. Mary McDougal. Because Mrs. McDougal knows of several needy cases, Mr Correll turned over to her not only the apple, but the proceeds.

But Mrs. McDougal wouldn't let well enough alone. She re-raffled the apple time and again, each time the winner turning it back. When the day ended she had more than $5, with which she bought groceries for an East End family of seven whose last pennies had been spent for dinner the previous day.

We are in a position to clear up a mystery which has been perturbing the volunteer firemen of Perrysville, Ingomar and Highland. Late Sunday, while most of the firemen were at the dinner table, a siren was heard through the three villages. As one man the volunteers deserted their roasts and rushed to the fire house. But nobody could locate the flames, so the firemen went back to their cold cuts. To this minute the firemen don't know that the siren was the advertising noise of an airplane ballyhooing a downtown moving picture.

Irony: As secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club and manager of an insurance company which protects motorists from the theft of their machines, C. H. Roth is not in favor of car-stealing. A few mornings ago, when the temperature was loafing around zero, he went out to his garage in the rear of his home and found his own car missing. The car was recovered later. Not missing was the Pittsburgh Motor Club's auto in the same garage and Mr. Roth, an appreciative soul, wants to thank the thief for closing the doors of the garage so that the Motor Club's car was not frozen

For readers who want Pennsylvania Railroad news we have uncovered these items: Charles W. Campbell is a clerk for the railroad on weekdays and on Sunday is the pastor of a small church near Altoona . . . The line from the Strip produce yards to Pitcairn is described by railroaders as the "banana run," and freightmen call the ride around Horseshoe Curve "maniac's pool." . . . The last item: Bert Sisson, the railroad's editor who is forever complaining about the cold, on one hand, and forever praising prohibition on the other, will spend the New Year holidays in Quebec, where it's colder and wetter.

And for readers who want news of the constables of Allegheny County we have this revelation: Lennie Miller, constable in Squire Sol Goldstein's Squirrel Hill temple of justice, can boast of two accomplishments attained by few, if any, of his colleagues: he wears spats and (2) he has a high-school education.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 4.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

I just got word from a lot of my friends in Reno and they say they will give you a guarantee with your divorce that it is good no matter what New York does, kind of like a guarantee title. In New York they gave Sir Thomas Lipton that cup that you all so generously subscribed to, and it was all gold. We got the gold from France to build it out of. Knute Rockne gets the next one for being the best-liked winner in the world.

Yours, WILL.

Co-Ed Speaker

PITT ARRANGES WOMAN'S DAY

Miss Mary Wentworth McConaghy, lecturer at Mount Holyoke and Swarthmore, will be the principal speaker for women's day at the University of Pittsburgh on Friday. "Woman's Day" is the biggest affair solely for women held during the year.

Miss McConaughy is a noted psychologist. She received her doctor's degree from Harvard University and did her undergraduate work at Mount Holyoke and the University of California. She has taught at Penn State, the University of California, Mills College, Mount Holyoke, Swarthmore and Rutgers.

She has also been on the staff of the Boston Psychopathic Hospital and the Taunton State Hospital of Massachusetts.

Admitted Convict Held in Coat Theft

Accused of the theft of a woman's fur coat from the Brodhead Hotel, Beaver Falls, Gilbert Lee Vanderpool, 23, no home, was in the custody of Beaver Falls police today after having been turned over by Bellevue police. Vanderpool was carrying the coat in a burlap sack when arrested by Patrolman Price McPherson in Bellevue last night according to a police report.

Bellevue police said Vanderpool admitted having served two years in a Missouri penitentiary after conviction on a charge of forgery.

Boy Suffers from Fall in Playground

William Lamb, 14, of 5352 Douglas avenue, was in Homestead Hospital today suffering from bruises and lacerations of the face, sustained in a fall while playing on the Colfax playgrounds last night.

'HILL' YOUTH, 14, SOLOIST FOR SYMPHONY

'Won't Be Afraid,' He Smiles, Recalling Appearances at Concerts of 'Y' Here

Jacques Larner, 14, plump and red-cheeked, has carried his fiddle up Wylie avenue nearly every day since he was 5 years old, to take music lessons.

Last night he left his home at 2839½ Wylie avenue in a taxicab. With him were Max Shapiro, his teacher and sponsor, and that fiddle.

Sunday night in New York, as guest soloist of the 100-piece Manhattan Symphony, Jacques will make his debut as a violinist in the metropolis.

And is he happy? Chuckling, grinning, he said:

"I have two rehearsals and I won't be afraid. I played here in the 'Y' several times. I don't get scared."

His master, Shapiro, is the excited one. The Squirrel Hill teacher recognized the boy, when he first came to him to study, as one who some day would play well, perhaps reach virtuosity at an early age. Shapiro said:

"And he's an honor student in his third year at Schenley. That's something.

"Leopold Auer heard him, as did Eddie Brown, the American violinist, Leo Schulz, Leon Sermitini and Richard Chervonky. They all praised him. He will play Bruch's G minor concerto for violin and orchestra.

"Henry Hadley, director of the symphony, gave him an audition a month ago, when the boy and I went to New York. Mr. Hadley liked his playing so well that he offered him this opportunity. The concert will be in St. George's Church."

Many musician, who have heard Jacques believe he will take a prominent place in the musical life of the country.

WEDDING FRAUD TRIAL OPENS

John W. Wesley, 30, said to have obtained more than $20,000 from Mrs. Jean C. Carroll, of Grandview avenue, McKeesport, after going through an alleged unlawful marriage ceremony with Mrs. Carroll, is scheduled to go on trial today in Federal Court on a charge of using the mail in a scheme to defraud.

Attorney Thomas E. Whitten was appointed by the court to defend Wesley when he informed the court he had no funds. The government will be represented by Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh. Wesley has been held in county jail in default of $10,000 bond since his return from Jackson, Mich.

He was said to have met Mrs. Carroll, widow of a war veteran, while posing as unmarried. Last December they went through a marriage ceremony at Greensburg, it was alleged. At the same time, federal authorities said, he was married to another woman.

Three months later Wesley was alleged to have disappeared with the money.

Reppert to Receive River Front Report

A report on river front improvements up to present developments was to be presented to Chief Engineer Charles M. Reppert of the Department of Public Works at a meeting of the Engineers' Council of the Chamber of Commerce at noon today.

Woman in Germany Sends Traffic Fine Here

Louis Glesenkamp, cashier in Traffic Court East Liberty, today was introduced to a way of settling traffic charges that he recommends to every auto driver.

In his mail was a letter postmarked "Hanover, Germany." It contained a copy of a traffic summons and a check for $1, the penalty imposed for a minor infraction of the traffic rules. The letter read:

"Having only now received your notice in Europe, I hasten to return it with the dollar due."

The letter was signed by Della E. Flaccus, whose Pittsburgh address was given as the Wendover apartments, Hobart street. The notice had been mailed to the Hobart street address November 12 and forwarded to Hanover.

Glesenkamp recalled that his father, a well-known Pittsburgh businessman, came here from Hanover in 1847.

RIVER WORK SET FOR CONTRACTS

Contracts for local river improvements totaling $9,000,000 are expected to be let within the next three months, Col. George R. Spalding, of St. Louis, declared yesterday. Col. Spalding is in charge of the upper Mississippi division of the United States engineers. He said bids for this work will be asked for within the next five weeks.

The tentative program, Col. Spalding said, calls for starting work on the construction of a fixed lock and dam in the Allegheny River near the Highland Park Bridge early next year. This is to replace the locks and dams at Herrs Island and Aspinwall. Another project is the lock and dam in the Monongahela River near Rostraver. Construction of this dam should begin shortly after the first of the year, Spalding said.

A study is now being made of a site for a fixed lock and dam in the Ohio River to replace several existing movable dams. Plans also call for the modification of the existing dam No. 3 at Springdale.

HURT AT BLVD. JUNCTION, SUES

Claiming serious injuries in an automobile accident through the construction of the Ohio River boulevard, Frederick Reese asked $50,000 damages from the City of Pittsburgh in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court.

He charged an automobile in which he was a passenger struck a hole in the new boulevard at its junction with California avenue and was thrown against a pole. Reese alleged his health suffered through injuries received when he was thrown to the roadway, and charged the city with neglect for the condition of the road and absence of lights or safeguards.

BOOKS BANNED, GETS DIVORCE

"He objected to my reading anything but the Bible and hid or destroyed my magazines and books and refused to allow me to use the radio on Sunday except for a church service."

Mrs. Lucille Riblett, Dohrman street, McKees Rocks, granted a divorce in Common Pleas Court from Benjamin E. Riblett, Mercer County farmer, thus described her life on their farm in Shenango Township, Mercer County. The Bible was the sole reading permitted when she sat down for rest evenings after milking five cows twice daily and attending chickens and farm tasks, she said.

She declared she left the farm April 11 last after he kicked and choked her. She married him January 11, 1928, when she was a widow, she said.

Miniature Golf Tax Will Not be Boosted

A delegation of owners of indoor miniature golf courses was assured by Council yesterday that no increased tax on such amusement places is contemplated. The present tax is $10 monthly, but an ordinance before Council fixed the rate at $1.66 per hole monthly. The delegation was headed by John H. Forrest.

Police Investigate Patient's Injuries

Homestead police today were investigating the injury of Amader Calbo, 35, of 604 Jerome street, McKeesport, taken to Homestead Hospital last night. A friend of the victim said Calbo had fallen down a flight of stairs at a garage at Smithfield and Carson streets, Pittsburgh. There are no garages at that point.

Counterfeit Grid Ticket Cache Found

About 2,000 reserved seat tickets for the recent Pitt-Notre Dame football game were discovered yesterday in a public locker at the White Star Line bus station at 972 Liberty avenue, police said. The officers believed the ducats were part of the supply of the counterfeiters who flooded the city before the game.

OHIO TO AID CANAL TO LAKE

T. J. Bray, president of the Mahoning, Beaver-Shenango River Improvement Association, announced that the Youngstown delegation to the River and Harbors Congress, which will meet in Washington December 9, would not oppose the Pittsburgh delegation in its request for a canal connecting the Ohio River with Lake Erie.

However, Mr. Bray pointed out that the Youngstown delegation would continue the fight to have War Department engineers conduct an immediate survey of the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango rivers as proposed in the Swick bill.

Mr. Bray's announcement was in reply to the invitation extended to the Youngstown business men to join the Pittsburgh delegation in stimulating interest in the canal project.

A delegation of nearly 50 Pittsburghers go to Washington next week to seek federal authorization of the proposed canal. James Rae, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will head the delegation.

Veteran Telephone Employe Honored

Joseph Baumeister, 1514 Rutherford street, for 35 years an employe of the Bell Telephone Company, was honored by fellow employes at a dinner in the Fort Pitt Hotel. F. J. Chesterman, vice president of the company presented Baumeister with a gold service button.

Doe Vanishes From Porch, Hunt 2 Boys, Wagon

Many a man has asked himself and even his friends:

"What became of my 'dough?'"

But it remained for Jack Funfair, 6997 Bennett street, to plaintively ask:

"Where did my deer doe go?"

It's a sad tale, mates. Jack went to Clearfield County last week to get his doe and got it. A nice 150 pounds of venison. He brought it home, hung it on the back porch to freeze into tender juiciness, and today summoned a butcher to dress the carcass. Jack was going to give his friends a venison dinner.

But Jack's back porch no longer had the appearance of doe.

Stronger Industries, More Jobs Visioned Through Escape from Unfair Rates

Settlement of the lake cargo case and the establishment of lower costs for steel companies in the Pittsburgh district would result from the construction of the Lake Erie and Ohio River canal, in the opinion of officials of the leading industrial organizations in this district.

This would mean better employment conditions in Pittsburgh and this city would be given a stronger hold on its position in the steel and coal industries.

HANDICAP FOR YEARS

Troubles of the coal industry in this district for years have been attributable to the unwillingness of the Interstate Commerce Commission to give Pittsburgh mines the benefit of their proximity to the lake markets.

Construction of the canal would place the coal producers in a position where they would no longer be at the mercy of discriminatory coal rates. Not only would freight differentials between Pittsburgh and the West Virginia districts become a matter of indifference to operators here, but local mines would be able to move their output for a price lower than the railroads would be likely to duplicate.

RAIL-WATER TRANSFER

The advantages of the canal would be greatest for mines located on the rivers, but help would also be given to other properties since water transportation costs probably would be low enough to permit the shipment of coal by rail over short distances for transfer to barges.

The Youngstown market would also be made more accessible to Pittsburgh coal operators by the new canal. At present local producers have a hard fight to compete with other fields to supply the steel operators in the Shenango Valley. The inland waterway connection would make the Youngstown district an exceptionally good market for Pittsburgh.

ADVANTAGE TO STEEL

The advantages would not be confined to coal. Steel companies in the Pittsburgh district now bring all their ore from Michigan down to Lake Erie by boat. At lake ports the ore is transferred to railroad cars for shipment to Pittsburgh. The canal could move this traffic in barges at a lower cost than the railroads.

While the Youngstown steel operators would also benefit from lower costs from the use of the canal, Pittsburgh's position in competing with other districts, such as Birmingham and Chicago, for markets in the west and southwest would be greatly strengthened.

The canal is expected to operate at lower costs than most other inland waterways. The same barges which carry coal from Pittsburgh to lake ports could return loaded with ore. While great savings in transportation costs have been made by the use of the river system serving Pittsburgh, most of the barges are loaded in only one direction.

Hampton Township School Heads Named

Peter McIlroy was elected president of the Hampton Township school board at a reorganization meeting last night. H. Russell Anderson was elected vice president and Harry G. Keil secretary. Garnett Speer and Clyde M. Speer were elected solicitor and treasurer respectively. Other members of the board are E. M. Hicks, H. P. King and John Kramer.

FLANNERY URGED FOR JOBLESS RELIEF HEAD HERE

DELEGATE WILL CARRY PLAN TO WOODS

Senator Davis Asked to Aid Prosperity Program; Fisher Has Appointment

A concerted effort was being made to have J. Rogers Flannery, Pittsburgh industrial leader, named head of a local sub-committee of President Hoover's unemployment commission as a possible panacea to relieve depression and herald eventful return of prosperity to the Western Pennsylvania section.

With that end in view, Attorney Harry I. Miller, representing a group of local industrial and civic leaders, will confer tomorrow with Col. Arthur O. Woods, of Washington, and possibly with the President. Miller will leave for the capital tonight.

"STAGGER SYSTEM"

At the same time Miller will present plans to Woods, head of the President's unemployment commission, for a "stagger system" of employment here. Senator James J. Davis is lending his co-operation in connection with the dual plan.

Over long-distance telephone yesterday, Davis said he was greatly interested in the idea and predicted its success. He is making arrangements for Miller to meet President Hoover.

PETITIONS WIRED

Both Woods and Senator Davis have been dispatched telegrams by backers of the proposed local unemployment committee, requesting that Flannery be given the immediate appointment with full powers to bring about immediate good. Davis and Woods received these this morning.

FISHER TO APPOINT

Woods said the actual appointment under the Hoover unemployment relief plan would be made by Gov. John S. Fisher.

Among those who wired the officials, according to Miller, were Gov. John S. Fisher, E. T. Whiter, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; R. B. Mellon, Frank J. Lanahan, James Rae, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and I. Lamont Hughes, president of the Carnegie Steel Company.

Plans under way call for Flannery to head the committee, with power to name its personnel. This would consist, it was pointed out, of industrial, financial and civic leaders, with the main purpose speedy action on various municipal and federal building projects, relief for the needy and a plan to see that every man has a job, even though it is only on a part time basis.

PLAN EXPLAINED

Discussing workings of the "stagger employment" plan as propounded by the men he is representing, Miller said:

"For example: There are more than 600 structural iron workers in the Pittsburgh district. About 100 are employed. These men get good money. Many people feel that they, as well as all industries and crafts, should be willing to split time with the men who are out of work to prevent starvation. This is true in every form of industry. We want to know what the President and Col. Woods thinks of the idea."

Proponents of the "stagger" plan have pointed out that there are many married women at work whose husbands, too, hold good jobs.

It is felt, they say, that in the interests of the return of prosperity these women should temporarily (at least) step aside and let unemployed have a chance to keep the wolf from the door. How those who might be effected by such procedure feel about the matter has not been ascertained.

GETTING READY SOME OF THE THINGS SHE'LL TAKE ON HER TRIP OVER THE OCEAN

Miss Nydes at her home, 5888 Darlington road, Squirrel Hill, doing some of her preliminary packing shortly after she heard that she won the trip because she piled up the most votes.

SUN-TELEGRAPH GIRL PREPARES FOR PARIS

'Miss Pittsburgh' Goes to French Capital Guest of America's Noted Film Star

And now we have a new "Miss Pittsburgh!"

In winning the Gloria Swanson de luxe trip to Paris, offered through the Sun-Telegraph, Miss Anna Nydes, 5888 Darlington road, Squirrel Hill, goes to the French capitol under this title. Miss Swanson has made elaborate arrangements to entertain a score of girls from as many cities on this marvelous tour, and it would seem that she has left nothing undone that would make the trip a real dream come true.

After a day of sightseeing in New York with headquarters at Hotel Roosevelt, where Miss Nydes joins the party, they will sail on Friday, December 12, on the Ile de France for Havre. The steamship accommodations will be de luxe in every sense of the term. This group of girls will remain in Paris nearly two weeks and a sightseeing tour is mapped out for almost every day. The Gloria Swanson girls will see much more that is interesting in two weeks than the average tourist would see in three months. The party sails for home December 31 on the Ile de France.

Miss Nydes, the winner of the Gloria Swanson trip in this city, is the happiest girl in Pittsburgh. She is 25 and has lived here all her life. For several years she has been employed in the Department of Law, City Hall, but finds time for social activities. She has a host of friends as evidenced by the tremendously big vote she rolled up in the Paris trip contest.

Is she busy today? What do you think? How busy would you get if you were notified on Wednesday to get ready to go to Paris in 10 days? Yes, you'd get busy because it means a lot of work—passport, clothes, parties and a hundred and one other little things. Miss Nydes, however, does not have to worry about any details on the trip. They have been all carefully arranged in advance, there will be managers and chaperones and Gloria Swanson will insure her life for $5,000 for the duration of the trip.

The five girls who won the free trips to Bermuda given away by the Sun-Telegraph will probably leave Pittsburgh one week from tomorrow and be gone approximately two weeks. They will have sumptuous accommodations on the S. S. Pan America and will be quartered at the Inverurie, one of the de luxe hotels of the islands.

RING 'WISHED,' HE SAYS, FINED

Accounting for the possession of a ring, alleged to have been stolen, by saying that it belonged to a girl friend who put it on his finger in a "wish" ceremony, Edward Kelley, of 8 Oakmont road, Crafton, escaped with a $5 fine in Morals Court today.

Kelley was arrested yesterday in a downtown department store after he secured a cash refund on merchandise. Store employes said he could show no purchase slip for the goods. When searched, the ring was found, and identified as one on sale in the state.

The store recovered all its merchandise and refused to prosecute. Magistrate T. D. Jones imposed the fine on a suspicious person charge.

OBITUARY

P. N. Hayes.

Patrick Nagle Hayes, 83, father of the Rev. Ralph L. Hayes, pastor of St. Catherine's Church, Beechview, died last night in the family residence, 43 Warren street, Crafton. The funeral will be held Saturday morning with solemn funeral mass in St. Phillip's Church, Crafton. Father Hayes will be the celebrant of the mass. Mr. Hayes was born in County Clare, Ireland, and came to the United States in 1854. He had been employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad for more than 50 years, until his retirement 16 years ago. He was a member of the Veterans' Association of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Church Committee of St. Phillip's.

Besides Father Hayes, he leaves five other sons, Vincent B. Hayes, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Dr. John N. Hayes, James R. Hayes, of Wayne, Pa.; Edward C. Hayes, of Pittsburgh, and F. Dean Hayes, of Crafton; four daughters, Mrs. Helen Crum, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Regina Byrne, of Crafton, and Miss Margaret K. and Miss Genevieve Hayes, both of Crafton; 19 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Curran Funeral.

Funeral services for Anthony Curran, 84, who died at the home of a son, Bernard Curran, 1210 Sarah street, Homestead, will be held Saturday morning, when a funeral mass will be celebrated at St. Mary Magdalene's Church, Homestead. Born in Ireland, Mr. Curran came to this country more than 50 years ago, settling in Johnstown. Later he went to Homestead. He was a member of the Veterans' Association of the Carnegie Steel Company. He leaves eight sons, Hugh Curran, of Johnstown; John and James Curran, of Swissvale; Bernard and William Curran, of Homestead; Frank Curran, of Montana; Charles Curran, of Pittsburgh, and Patrick Curran, of Euclid, Pa.; two daughters, Sister M. Bernadette, and Miss Nellie Curran; 36 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Ross S. Porter.

Ross S. Porter, 59, of 905 East End avenue, Wilkinsburg, died yesterday in St. Francis Hospital. He had been a clerk in the general offices of the Pennsylvania Railroad 42 years. He was a member of the Mifflin Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Franklin Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M.; Pittsburgh Chapter, No. 268, R. A. M.; Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, Valley of Pittsburgh; Duquesne Commandery No. 72, Knights Templar; Syria Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, and the Pennsylvania Masonic Veterans. Besides his widow he leaves a brother, Robert Porter, and a sister, Miss Annie Porter, both of Pittsburgh.

Berry Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. George E. Berry, 64, who died yesterday, will be held tomorrow at the home, Highland Terrace, Aspinwall. She was born in Indiana, Pa., and had lived in the Pittsburgh district many years. She was a member of the Service Star Legion, the County Conference, Gray Ladies' of the Red Cross, Mothers of Democracy and the Aspinwall Lutheran Church. Besides her husband she leaves two sons, James and Merrill Maisack, of Pittsburgh; a daughter, Mrs. J. A. Sendall, and a sister.

McGurk Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Ann McGurk, 89, former Pittsburgher, who died at her home in Cleveland, Tuesday, will be held in the M. A. Hanlon funeral home, 6350 Frankstown avenue, at 8.30 a. m. tomorrow. She was born in Pittsburgh and lived here until she moved to Cleveland three years ago.

BENNETT STORE BUILDING SOLD

A four-story building at 442 Wood street, occupied for the past 40 years by the J. G. Bennett Company, haberdashers, has been sold by Sarah M. Bennett and Elizabeth B. Edson to the Singer Sewing Machine Company.

According to James P. Donovan and Frank T. Trohaugh, brokers, the buyers will raze the present structure and erect a four-story Indiana limestone building. The first floor of the new building will be used as a showroom. The other floors will be devoted to offices.

The Singer company paid $160,000 for the property, according to Donovan and Trohaugh.

OFFICER'S HOME LOOTED

The home of a policeman, guarded by a reputedly savage police dog, held no terrors for thieves late yesterday when they ransacked the house, occupied by Patrolman Herman Selinger, 2005 Veronica street.

Two rings, valued at $75, and $7.50 in cash were stolen. Selinger's dog is said to have driven garbage collectors and others from the property. The robbers locked the dog in the kitchen.

Milton Bountwell, a roomer, at 204 East North avenue, reported to North Side police that his room had been ransacked and clothing worth $125 stolen.

JEWELRY ON CREDIT!!

There is a lot of mystery and mis-statement about installment selling, particularly as applied to Jewelry. This is chiefly due to misunderstanding the simple fundamentals of this business and impressions created by the ridiculous claims of many credit jewelers in their advertising.

Beginning in 1858, we originated the now popular system of selling the most beautiful and coveted of all earth's products (Diamonds) on easy payments. Our faith in the honesty of the public met with ready response and adding other lines of merchandise to meet the demands of our customers we have become the largest exclusive Diamond, Watch, Jewelry and Silverware firm selling on credit in the world.

NO INTEREST OR CARRYING CHARGE!

Our liberal, confidential terms are extended without extra charge. You pay only a small amount weekly, semi-monthly or monthly at your convenience. There is positively no increase in price to cover this service. Any fine piece of Jewelry commonly found in any cash store will be found in our stock at the same or a lower price . . . and sold on convenient payments without any added charge of any kind.

Confidential Credit

Just as these two words imply, all accounts are opened in strict confidence by courteous and carefully trained credit men. No embarrassing credit investigation. You can buy here on credit with absolute assurance that only yourself and ourselves will know your method of purchase.

INCREASE YOUR BUYING POWER!!

Every article in our store has been selected with utmost care from the markets of the world as the best of its kind. Genuine blue white diamonds, unusually brilliant gems, set in artistic hand-made mountings of solid gold and platinum. Imported direct from the European Diamond markets for our large chain of stores in leading cities. Saving you wholesalers, brokers and all middlemen's profits, giving you values unequaled in this country.

Watches from all the leading manufacturers, Elgin, Hamilton, Illinois, Howard, Bulova, Tavannes. At all times an unusually large selection of newest styles at nationally advertised cash prices, on terms to suit you, with no interest or carrying charges. WHY SHOULD YOU PAY CASH FOR A WATCH AND THEN BE AT THE MERCY OF SOME RETAILER FOR SERVICE? With a watch purchased on partial payments, there is never any question about service.

Artistic jewelry of every description. Silverware by the best known, most reliable manufacturers in America. Telechron Clocks, Eastman Kodaks, Edison Radios and other well-known items too numerous to mention. All at cash prices or lower, with terms to suit you.

Our Guarantee of Satisfaction

A responsible guarantee is not an essential thing in many lines, but when the merchandise is gold, silver or precious stones it becomes all important. Hence we say to you, if any article sold by us falls short of our representations, or, if any article sold by us can be bought elsewhere at a lower price or on easier terms, it may be returned at once for full credit.

A HOUSE THAT HAS STOOD THE TEST OF THREE GENERATIONS (ESTABLISHED 1858) IS A SAFE HOUSE TO DEAL WITH!

POLICE PROBE SHOOTING OF SUSPECT

Assailant Approached Auto, Fired Without Cause, Victim's Brother Asserts

Stephen Ban, 24, of 1108 Province street, was dead today from a bullet wound in the head, inflicted, police said, by an apparently drink-crazed man, while Ban and an elder brother were seated in an automobile in North Canal street, near Madison avenue, last night.

Meanwhile homicide detectives were endeavoring to learn how Ban's alleged assailant, Matthew L. Lucas, 31, of 193 Belleau street, North Side, suffered a bullet wound in the abdomen which necessitated his removal to Allegheny General Hospital.

PROVOCATION DENIED

The only version of the tragedy was obtained from the slain man's brother, Matthew Ban, 26, of 1106 High street. Ban told police, they said, that Lucas walked up to the automobile in which he and his brother were seated, drew a revolver and without an utterance or any apparent provocation fired twice.

One of the bullets struck the younger Ban in the head. Matthew Ban leaped from the automobile and when he returned with Motorcycle Patrolmen William Ketal and James Cotter, Lucas was lying on the sidewalk, a bullet in his abdomen and the revolver nearby, detectives said.

SLEUTHS' QUIZ FAILS

Efforts of Homicide Detectives Harry Scott and Albert Grayber proved futile. Two half-pint bottles, each partly filled with liquor, were found in his pockets, the detectives asserted.

In a vest pocket of the wounded man they reported finding 17 cartridges of a .38-caliber, the kind used in the revolver. Lucas refused to answer questions, the detectives said.

IDENTIFIED AS GUNMAN

Five hours earlier Frank Hibler, of 201 Chestnut street, reported to police that three shots had been fired at him by a man he had aroused after finding him asleep on his front doorstep. At the hospital early today Hibler, according to police, identified Lucas as the man.

Lucas, a tinner, the father of three children, was never known to carry a revolver, Mrs. Lucille Lucas, his wife, told police.

RABBI BLOOM TO TALK HERE

Rabbi Charles Bloom, of Boston, Mass., on a tour of Pennsylvania in behalf of the United Galilee Aid Society, will give a series of talks to Jewish organizations in Pittsburgh in an appeal for the combined benevolent institutions of Palestine.

Rabbi Bloom

With the approval of Rabbi Herman Hailperin and other prominent Jews of Pittsburgh, the campaign here will endeavor to present the difficulty of the institutions in Galilee, which are trying to care for those orphaned in the recent massacre, the injured and convalescent and the hungry. A particular call will be made for the public kitchens and the general orphan asylum, especially taxed by the demands of the Palestine populace.

Hearing for Vendor Of Radical Paper

Arrested at Fourth avenue and Ross street last night, while selling the Daily Worker, organ of the Communist party, Michael Bodick, 30, "no home," was to be arraigned in the Central Police Court today.

Bodick was said to have had 20 copies in his possession when Patrolman Norbert Graney arrested him on a suspicious person charge.

Borough Sued Over Girl's Fall to Cellar

The Borough of East Pittsburgh is asked to pay $15,000 damages to Euphemia Manclark, 19, for injuries in a fall into a sidewalk cellar, through a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by her father, James Manclark, of East Pittsburgh. She fell through a defective cellar door in the sidewalk fronting 637 Braddock avenue, East Pittsburgh, June 5, 1929, the suit claimed.

Trade Discussion At Glass Convention

Reports of committees and a general discussion of business conditions were to mark the second day's session today of the sixteenth annual convention of the National Glass Distributors' Association in the William Penn Hotel. An election and installation of officers will feature tonight's session.

SMOKE FATAL TO PUBLISHER

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—An autopsy performed by Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner, today showed Courtland Hunter Young, principal owner of the Young Publishing Company, died of carbon monoxide poisoning from smoke inhalation. Further analysis will be made, Dr. Norris said.

The publisher was found dead in his apartment yesterday by firemen, who extinguished a small blaze in his apartment. The publisher was suffocated, but not burned.

Three Pittsburghers Get Commissions

WELFARE GOAL TOPPED $30,000

The $1,520,248 goal of the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh has been oversubscribed by more than $30,000, it was announced at the final meeting of volunteer workers yesterday. The total amount raised was $1,552,324, it was announced.

Speaking at the final meeting, A. K. Oliver, president of the fund, said:

> "The success of this campaign is entirely due to the citizens of Allegheny County as a whole, whose generous support of the fund in this time of especial need cannot be too highly praised."

Yesterday's total was $74,672, which amount, added to a previous figure of $1,477,651, brought the campaign to a successful termination. The success of the campaign makes possible the continued service of 39 welfare organizations in the membership of the fund.

Pimple Infection Fatal to Man, 66

Blood poisoning which developed when he scratched a pimple on his finger several days ago caused the death last night, in Allegheny General Hospital, of William C. Thomas, 66, of 104 Main street, Fair Oaks, according to the coroner's report.

VOTE MACHINE CASE IN COURT TOMORROW

Argument on Contract's Legality Speeded to Avoid Possible Delivery Delay

Argument on exceptions to the recent decision of Judge Frank P. Patterson in Common Pleas Court, upholding legality of the $1,000,000 contract awarded the Poole Engineering and Machine Company for voting machines for Allegheny County, was fixed specially by President Judge James R. McFarlane for Tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The time was advanced from December 15, when regular argument list is taken up, on petition of Attorneys Oliver K. Eaton and H. D. Hirsh, representing the Poole company. They declared they desired to hasten action in the event of an appeal to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, so there might be no delay in delivery of machines for use at the September primary next year. Attorney C. F. C. Arensberg agreed to the advance of the date, expressing a similar desire to expedite action.

Attorney Arensberg represented Francis S. Guthrie, who filed a taxpayer's bill against county officials and the Poole company seeking to restrain the performance of the contract.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Mrs. Williams Hostess at Luncheon

Entertainments of all sorts are adding gaiety to December days, with their undercurrent of Yuletide anticipation. Interspersed with parties for those favored children of society, the debutantes, are teas, dinners and luncheons for other sets in the social realm.

One such entertainment will be a large bridge luncheon Mrs. Homer D. Williams is giving in her home, Aylesboro avenue, this afternoon.

News of Cotillion

For weeks and weeks debutantes and all the folks in their set have been anticipating that event of events, the cotillion, to be held in the dignified old Pittsburgh Club on Tuesday night, December 16.

On the committee this year are Richard King Mellon, Moorhead Holland, William Christopher Robinson, Jr., and James Verner Scaife, Jr. John H. Ricketson III, having forsaken the bachelor group to marry Anne King Scott, is no longer on the cotillion committee. And probably next Mr. Robinson will not be on either, for his engagement to Mary Robinson Oliver has just been announced.

Dinner For Hunt

In spite of snow and wintry winds the hunts go on, and, of course, hunt dinners. Following the weekly meet of the Sewickley Hunt on Saturday, members will be guests at a dinner given by Mrs. Robina Kirk Quinby in her home, Rannoch Lea, on Sewickley Heights. The dinner, at 8 o'clock, will be followed by dancing.

Now approaches the season when the school set comes to the fore to be entertained extensively. Mrs. William Harrison MacAfee, of Beacon street, and her daughter, Jane, will honor members of the school set with a buffet supper on Sunday evening, December 21.

December 30 is the date set for a dance the James Stapleton Crutchfields, of Beaver road, Sewickley, will give in the Montour Heights Country Club. Sharing honors at the party will be their two daughters, Alice, a student at the Science Hill School in Shelbyville, Ky., and Grace, who is studying in Sewickley this winter.

Bride of November

Miss Armede La Verne Hopper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ewing Hopper, of Crafton, became the bride of George Herbert McCartney, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McCartney, of Crafton Heights, on Saturday evening at 5:30 o'clock in the home of the bride. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. William J. Dempster, pastor of the Crafton Presbyterian Church. M. O. Grier sang, accompanied by William Ewing Hopper, brother of the bride. The home was decorated with palms and ferns.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of beige lace and carried yellow tea roses. Miss Laura Hopper, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, wearing a gown of green chiffon and lace and carrying Ophelia roses. James Berry was the best man and the ushers included Walker Robb and Theodore Beaman.

There was a reception and dinner in the home of the bride. Receiving with the bride and bridegroom was Mrs. Hopper, wearing black chiffon and velvet with a corsage of pink tea roses, and Mrs. McCartney in black chiffon velvet and ecru lace with a corsage of yellow tea roses.

Mr. and Mrs. McCartney will make their home in Crafton after a motor trip to Florida.

Fortnightly 'Publishes' Review

In an "editorial room" that was adorned with chiffon pillows, gangling-legged dolls, flowers and other whatnots, the ""Woman's Fortnightly Review, a periodical published—not very often,"" was "published"" yesterday when the Woman's Fortnightly Review of Mt. Lebanon held its president's day reception in the home of Mrs. Frank Clarratt, Jefferson drive.

Mrs. H. B. Long was editor and publisher; Mrs. John McKelvie was the managing editor; Mrs. W. M. Bailey, the overworked secretary; Mrs. Albert A. Burke and Mrs. J. W. Davis were the associate editors, and Mrs. W. E. McKnight was the business manager who "got out" the paper, with its quips, its humor, its play on the names and hobbies and shortcomings of the members, and its one serious note—an "editorial" on peace.

There was a most charming musical program by Mrs. M. L. Gardner, soprano, whose well-chosen numbers were delightfully sung, and by Mrs. H. B. McBeth, who accompanied Mrs. Gardner and also presented compositions from Beethoven and Godard.

Mrs. H. T. Charters, whom the club was honoring, and Mrs. Don V. Sawhill presided at the very attractive tea table, where a centerpiece of hothouse fruits was combined with tall tapers in the club colors and dignified paradise feathers in a striking decorative scheme.

The social committee, under Mrs. McKelvie's chairmanship, served the guests, among whom were presidents of many other organizations.

P. T. A. Meeting,

The program to be given this evening before the Taylor-Allderdice Parent Teacher Association will include demonstrations of various kinds by the students and a talk on "The High School and the Pupils' Physical Development" by Dr. A. M. Kerr, supervisor of hygiene in the public schools of the city. Mrs. J. V. Clippinger will report the state P. T. A. meeting.

"What Are the Vital Possessions of a Happy Woman?" will be discussed by the Rev. B. Benedict Glazer at the monthly meeting of Pittsburgh Unit, Junior Hadassah, on Sunday afternoon in the Y. M. & W. H. A. George Mullen, baritone, will sing accompanied by Matthew Frey; prizes for the membership campaign will be awarded by Miss Jeanne Levinson, membership chairman, and Miss Sara Shapiro will lead the discussion of Jewish current events. Tea will follow.

Change In Date

The Dormont Young Women's College Club has changed the date of its business meeting from Saturday, December 13, to Monday evening at the home of Miss Evelyn Runger, Atlanta place, Mt. Lebanon. Miss Runger will have as her assistants Miss Loretta Eifler and Mrs. T. L. Roxbrough. This is the final business session of the year and the annual reports will be read.

The club members are to bring contributions of toys and playthings, which will be distributed at Christmas by some of their own number who are social workers.

The following officers will assume their new duties at the January business meeting: Mrs. D. O. Kirk, president; Miss Sarah Palmer, vice president; Miss Mildred Beck, recording secretary; Mrs. Fred Agnew, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harold M. Lowe, treasurer.

The executive board includes Mrs. D. O. Kirk, Mrs. F. Nelson Groves, Miss Marjorie M. Jones, Mrs. John S. Wassum, Miss Maude Williamson, Miss Mary Ryman and Mrs. J. Clifford Evans.

Place Changed

A change in place is announced for the next meeting of the Progressive Blind Women's Club. It is to be held Saturday, December 13, in Majorie Stuart's studio, Liberty avenue, with Mrs. J. P. Wise as hostess.

Tomorrow evening, Rigo Sisterhood, No. 97, Dames of Malta, will have a cafeteria supper, card party and bazar in Serbian Hall, Oakland.

At today's meeting of the Chartiers Women's Clubs' Association in the Beechview Civic Club, music will be furnished by Mrs. Fred Madeabach and Mrs. Charles G. Trischler, who will sing duets, and Mrs. G. E. Erickson, who will play their accompaniments and also give piano solos. Mrs. Ross Altwater will read and Mrs. John B. Sloan will describe her European trip taken last summer, motion pictures of which will be shown by John Howard Phillips.

SMART PARISIENNES INDORSE THE NEW LOUNGING COSTUMES

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—Leisure is a pleasure and the delightful negligees make it a sartorial rite as well. Seldom have the dressmakers paid so much attention to negligees and house pyjamas for such things used to be left more to houses that handled them exclusively. But now, the section devoted to clothes for leisure hours is to be found in every house and one sees frilly, frothy, opulent and simple house creations worn by the mannequins at every showing. The less time we have for rest, the more time we give to preparing for it. We spend hours shopping for a negligee that perhaps will only see a few hours wear in a season; but it has got to be a wonderful and different creation just the same. Women generally demand the simpler type of rest gown, stressing dignity and restraint rather than lavish elaboration, and so one finds many lovely creations answering to that description,

THE SPORTS COSTUME is still with us, although it is not so much in the spotlight of favor as it was until last autumn. But a great many women like a sport ensemble for country wear, one that may also be worn in town and en route. Tweed and jersey tweed are much liked and brown and beige are leading colors. Patou is showing some most attractive clothes in his mid-season collection and the sport ensemble here shown was sketched at his salon. It is of brown and beige jersey tweed with a trimming of beaver on the three-quarter length coat. The dress consists of a short belted jumper with a collar and a double jabot of white pique, a straight skirt with four widely set groups of pleats. The coat collar of beaver is amusingly cut with lapels. Large patch pockets and group of tucks on the sleeves are interesting details,

* * *

THE MOST STRIKING negligee patterned somewhat after the style of a monk's robe is by Vionnet. The material is soft black velvet and the garment is lined throughout with green crepe de Chine. The same color is repeated in the heavy beaded girdle with its extrmely long tassels. Both sleeves and skirt of the robe are long, the skirt trailing slightly at sides and back,

JEANNETTE MACDONALD; SCREEN STAR, TO SING ON RADIO TONIGHT

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

Jeannette MacDonald, charming screen star, pays us a return engagement on WCAE at 8 o'clock tonight. Jeannette sings better than most movie stars. Her technique on the Fleischer Hour recently really surprised us, although her vocal work in "The Love Parade" was outstanding.

Lullaby from Godard's "Jocelyn" never fails to satisfy the weary heart. Hear it on WCAE at 9:30 as a vocal-violin duet.

"THE SHADOW"

Arthur W. Nichols is the man who gets paid for making noise in the detective drama series every Thursday night at 9:30 over CBS. When a door softly closes and the latch clicks, that's Mr. Nichols. When the yeggman's drill bites smoothly into the steel wall of the great safe, that's Mr. Nichols. When the train roaring toward the bridge is blown up by the desperate band of mail robbers, screeches to a stop as the heroine wildly flags it, the world's champion noisemaker provides the realistic sound effects. Nine motors are used to operate the contrivances. Nichols also plays the part of the "Shadow."

QUESTION A DAY:

Who are the Jesters?—T. T. O.

Answer—Dwight Latham, "Wamp" Carlson and Guy Bonham, who used to sell insurance in the New England states.

"BY THE WAY—"

John McCormack, Irish tenor, singing from London, is to be broadcast over CBS next Monday afternoon at 4:40 p. m. . . . Ted Weems inaugurates a series of dance concerts from WABC at 11:30 tonight . . . Ted resembles Bobby Meeker . . . Dr. Julius Mattfield, arranger of many New York radio programs, says jazz is on the toboggan . . . "Her Regiment" is the Victor Herbert opera on WJZ at 10 tonight . . . Frederick G. Rodgers is off to Bermuda, returning December 13 . . . KQV studios in their new black and silver garb are highly modernistic . . . Carol Dickson, beautiful hostess at KDKA, is back at her desk after an attack of ptomaine poisoning . . . The choice of a city for the next RMA convention has narrowed to Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Detroit.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

Although Floyd Gibbons, headline hunter of NBC, has never been awarded a college degree, he once attended Georgetown University in Washington.

"I was tossed out on my ear," Gibbons explains, "after the wooden fence between the university and the convent was destroyed by fire. I watched the blaze, but I didn't start it, even if I was blamed for it."

The LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The political conventions are less than two years away. Considering the amount of what has tumbled out of the loudspeakers since the last big political meetings, the next conventions will have to be particularly exciting to hold the interest of the armchairs.

The broadcasters might help with their advice. And their advice would probably be to inject more suspense into the balloting. When suspense is in the air, there's no place like home.

Coast City May Air National Conclaves

The bigwigs of both parties are alert to the significance of the radio and being alert, it wouldn't surprise us if they gave an eager ear to Atlantic City's bids for their conventions.

Of all the cities in the country the seaside resort is the best equipped microphonically for a convention. Its vast new hall has not only its own broadcasting station, which could be linked up to a national networks, but a powerful amplifying system which makes it possible for a whisper from the stage to be heard in practically every part of the auditorium.

The march to the microphone is becoming more and more of a regular duty with Herbert Hoover. Perhaps he finds that preparing speeches for the radio and delivering them is the easiest method to avoid reading the Congressional Record.

The Kaiser, we still continue to believe, would attract the greatest audience in the history of radio, were he to break his long silence at Doorn.

One of the hardest tasks confronting the broadcasters is to make a government report interesting on the air.

Ex-movie actors are finding the microphone a means of recovering some of their former fame. And some of their former fortune.

Radio listeners, I fear, will now have to endure a thousand and one announcements of "all-America" teams. Every football coach will have an "all-America" team and it will not be complete without the presence of at least two players who gained their gridiron knowledge under him.

Football Announcing Passing to Experts

The broadcasters showed improvement in their football descriptions this year over last season. There was greater eagerness shown to keep pace with the ball and to leave to the intermission explanations of the technique of the lateral pass and diagnosis of this play and that. Football announcing is gradually passing, as it should, to persons who know something of the game and possess an ability to keep it exciting to the armchairs.

Mass production and sales now make it possible to sell AL-14 (The most effective cold formula in the world) for $1.00 per box instead of $2.00. Formerly thousands were happy to pay $2.00 per box, now it is within the reach of all. Thousands swear by it, get a box from your local druggist today. (Don't take a chance with a cold.)

Formula AL-14 FOR COLDS

Saved ...every last bit of the FLAVOR that used to steal out of your coffee

SCIENTISTS, in testing the keeping qualities of coffee, have made some astonishing discoveries about flavor . . . Coffee flavor begins to evaporate right after roasting. *And it vanishes at the rate of 60% in nine days. The only way to stop this taste-spoiling loss is to vacuum seal the coffee as soon as it is roasted.

That's why White House Coffee comes to you in the Thermo-fresh tin. Now this famous blend is locked up quickly, before any of its fine, mellow flavor can steal away. White House doubles your coffee pleasure because it has 60% more flavor than coffee not sealed this Thermo-fresh way.

You've never tasted such coffee as this, and you can't possibly imagine how good it is. But it's easy to find out. Your grocer has White House in the new Thermo-fresh tin. And if you find the price a few cents more than you've been paying for coffee, remember that it buys 60% more flavor.

GOSSIP ABOUT AMUSEMENTS, COMBINED WITH HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM CHAT

Stage Heroes of Past Are Resurrected in Old Playbills

By GEORGE SEIBEL

George Seibel

THE CALL recently issued in these columns to Pittsburgh theatergoers, to look up playbills and theatrical mementos of olden days, has brought a dozen consignments of rare and curious dramatic souvenirs. Among the most valuable is a collection of over a hundred autographs from J. B. Kelley, formerly of the Monongahela House, now of the Clarion Hotel—a collection including signatures of many of the most famous people of the American stage, among them Edwin Forrest and Charlotte Cushman. The most extensive collection of playbills comes from the Pittsburgh artist, A. F. King, who has been a playgoer since 1871, and preserved most of the programs of his younger days.

That was when Newton Gotthold was Pittsburgh's favorite actor. He was the star of the stock company at the old Opera House under the management of Ellsler and Gotthold. In the popular mythology Newton Gotthold was supposed to be a swordsman who could easily hold his own against D'Artagnan and his Three Musketeers.

Louis Zitterbart was the leader of the orchestra. Arthur Fisher was the scenic artist. John Gallagher was the "gas superintendent." Those were the days when the footlights had to be relit with a torch after every dark scene, and it was a favorite trick to call the "supe" who did this "the light comedian."

OLD FAMILIAR NAMES

Among these playbills are many old familiar names of the sober seventies when art was art. One season brought W. J. Florence, Robson and Crane, Lawrence Barrett and Edwin Booth, John McCullough (called the California tragedian), Mrs. D. P. Bowers and Clara Morris, Maggie Mitchell and Lotta, Lucille Western and Annie Pixley.

There are plays that are only a faint memory to our generation. Lawrence Barrett in "Rosedale, or the Rifle Ball," is one of these—yet that play drew better than "Hamlet." A little earlier Barrett appeared in "Schiller's Grand Play" of "The Robbers, or the Forests of Bohemia." Every grand play had to have a double title.

John McCullough appeared in "Macbeth" with Effie Ellsler as the Lady. Edwin Adams appeared in "Enoch Arden." Clara Morris played "Camille." And Dion Boucicault himself appeared nightly for a week at Clonn in "The Shaughraun."

Most interesting of all is the bill of Charles Fechter in "Monte Cristo." We are accustomed to think of James O'Neil in "Monte Cristo" as ancient history. But Fechter preceded O'Neil.

FORGOTTEN GIANTS

Here are records of men who once were giants in the public eye, now totally forgotten. Barry Sullivan, the "famous tragic actor," played Hamlet and Richard III—who knows about him now? Ben DeBar, a great Falstaff, acted in "The Merry Wives of Windsor" and "Henry IV"—his name is heard no more.

There were many actors who were associated with one particular character, like Frank S. Chanfrau, who appeared as "Kit, the Arkansas Traveler," or Frank Mayo, whose role was "Davy Crockett."

Such was also E. A. Sothern, father of our E. H. Sothern, who appeared as Lord Dundreary in "Our American Cousin." We have even forgotten the famous Dundreary whiskers.

It is delightful to leave through these old playbills from a vanished race of giants, and they will serve to remind drama lovers of the future that we had great drama and great actors when Pa Pitt was in knickerbockers. Anybody who has old material of this sort, and wishes to add it to the collection being made for the Carnegie Museum, should address it to George Seibel, Drama Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

ROMANCE, MUSICAL PLAY IN COMING STAGE BILLS

The box office of the Alvin opened this morning for the sale of seats for the engagement next week of the New York romantic success, "Berkeley Square," in which Leslie Howard and Margalo Gillmore are the principal players, supported by a cast that has been commented on for its general excellence. The production comes here under the auspices of Gilbert Miller.

Seats are on sale today in the Nixon box office for the engagement next week of "Sweet Adeline," Oscar Hammerstein musical production. The company includes Helen Morgan, Irene Franklin, Charles Butterworth and James Thorton. The latter is a veteran actor who wrote many song hits of the past, including "When You Were Sweet Sixteen" and "My Sweetheart's the Man in the Moon."

"Jerry," heroine of the play of the same name, written for Billie Burke a few seasons ago, is an up-to-the-minute young woman who knows what she wants and goes after it. George Sharp Players will offer it in the Pitt next week.

FILM CHANGES SCREENS

The spectacular air drama, "Hell's Angels," now playing at Loew's Penn, will be transferred to Loew's Aldine for a second week's engagement in Pittsburgh, beginning Friday. Ben Lyon is featured in this film, which will be shown on the magnascope screen in the Aldine.

Winnie Lightner will be seen on the Stanley stage as the feature of the new presentation beginning tomorrow. On the screen will be "Up the River," announced as "the funny side" of prison life.

The suave and dapper Adolphe Menjou returns to our screen in "Morocco," the attraction in Loew's Penn, beginning Friday. Gary Cooper has the male lead in "Morocco," while opposite him is Marlene Dietrich, who makes her American debut in this film.

RECRUIT FROM STAGE

George Bancroft has a new leading woman in "Derelict," which comes to the Fulton and Sheridan Square Friday. She is Jessie Royce Landis, who has appeared on the legitimate stage with Otis Skinner and now is playing in Richard Bennett's "Solid South."

Beginning today the screen feature in the Enright will be Lewis Ayres in "The Doorway to Hell." On the stage Dick Powell will "master" a show called "Treasures."

"Just Imagine," film fantasy of life and love in 1980, starring El Brendel, begins a second week in the Warner today.

Ramon Novarro to Remake 'Prisoner of Zenda,' His Debut Film

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright, 1930, [illegible])

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 4.

Early in 1931, Ramon Novarro will remake his first picture, "The Prisoner of Zenda."

It was in this Rex Ingram film that Barbara La Marr also started upon the road to fame. She had done some previous screen work, but registered her first real hit in "A Prisoner of Zenda."

Novarro must first complete "Daybreak," the Arthur Schnitzler novel which goes into production at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer next week. The star apparently has given up his directorial ambitions, as he will content himself with acting in the new films.

THRIFT LESSON

"There's a light on, he must be home," observed Mrs. Boasberg.

BUDDY DESERTS MUSICALS

The Buddy Rogers fans who have been calling for him to quit musicals are to have their wish.

Buddy Rogers

Buddy will star in a talkie version of "It Pays to Advertise." The picture will be made soon after Buddy returns from New York. It may be that he will do personal appearances on the way back.

Paramount has owned silent rights to the Roi Cooper Megrue play since Bryant Washburn made it a number of years ago.

HAMILTON SIGNS

Hollywood's vagabond comedian, Lloyd Hamilton, is to do a series of two-reelers for Universal.

His films will be the fourth series of comedies on the studio's program. Slim Summerville stars in one. Charles Murray and George Sydney co-star in a second and there is a third group known as "Red Star Comedies."

VILLIAN STILL PERSUES HER

Villainy continues to be profitable for William Boyd, Broadway's "Captain Flagg." The former stage actor has been signed by Paramount to play the heavy in Dick Arlen's new out-of-doors story, "The Westerner."

Louise Fazenda

This film will be Louise Fazenda's first since her return from Europe. Others in the cast are Mary Brian, Claude Gillingwater and the ever-welcome Eugene Pallette.

I NOTE THAT—

Clara Bow's Great Dane won first prize in the dog show, defeating the entries of the Harold Lloyd kennels, from whence he sprang. Harold had to be content with a third prize. . . . Richard Wallece, the director, is going around with an important look—the reason being an expected heir. . . . Rex Bell is trading his home for an apartment house. . . . A popular feminine star paid $750 for a block of 10 tickets to the Notre Dame game. . . . Buster Keaton is nominating his Beverly Hills home as a location for the "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" company. Buster's the star, of course.

There is still some uncertainty as to whether Gloria Swanson will do the De Sylva, Brown and Henderson musical, at United Artists.

. . . Hollywood is nervous about song-pictures. For example Douglas Fairbanks' "Reaching for the Moon" now has only two of the original eight Irving Berlin songs.

DO YOU KNOW—

That steamy men have gone crazy trying to say Gustav Von Seyffertitz 16 times, fast?

Dance Team Tops Night Club Revue

"YES, MADAM... THIS IS 100% WHOLE WHEAT"

Grandmother's Whole Wheat loaf, baked by A&P, is a pure 100% whole wheat product containing all the essential food properties of the rich, ripe grain.

Ordinary, so-called Whole Wheat Bread is really nothing more than a blend of white flour with that of the whole wheat—you can instantly detect it by its light color.

Dieticians and Physicians highly recommend 100% Whole Wheat Bread as a health food, and you'd be surprised to know how many people insist on having Grandmothers, and nothing else.

(Being part of WABC Babble)

Good evening, ladies and gentlemen—for the 26th time this year, or has it seemed longer than that? . . . My final broadcast (until after the holidays) is distinguished by Miss Libby Holman of the "Three's a Crowd" revusical in the Selwyn Theater. Miss Holman's swift and deserved success along the Grandest Canyon gave the ambitious something to aspire for. She crashed the local heavens, you know, in the original "Little Show" and made herself and the "Moanin' Low" ditty renowned. You will be enchanted by her offering tonight, Miss Holman. (Song here) . . . Thanks, Libby Holman.

My recent paragraphs about the Social Register aroused H. Briton, who appears to be more familiar with that tome. I asserted that if you were social, and you were sealed to an actor or an author, the Register dropped you like a Broadway friend drops you when you are broke and you look like you are. Briton points out that Louis Bromfield, the novelist, and Alice Duer Miller, the ditto, are listed, as is Sidney Howard, the playwright.

However, after the late Clare Eames and Howard were divorced, the fussy editors of the Register omitted her. Julia Hobbins (now Mrs. Louis Calhern) was dropped after she had it omitted from Lydia Hoyt and went on the stage to shame the social set . . . Hope Williams, due next week in "The New Yorkers," was also dropped after her stage career and her divorce became news.

The vagaries of the Social Register are exemplified in the treatment of the L. G. Kaufman tribe. The pater and mater Kaufmans are recorded, as is their son, Gray, who aisled up a center-aisle with Mae Daw, a "Follies" charmer. But not so another son, Louis G., who took to wife Dorothy Dilley, a dancer.

The late first frau of the late George J. Gould was listed, having been Edith Kingdon, an actress. But the second squaw of the financier, Genevieve Sinclair, was snubbed. The latter is now Viscountess Dunsford, if you please. So, although she could not crash the Yankee Social Register, she did better—attaining the British Burke's Peerage, which is take more seriously . . . . Genevieve, I hear, still aches all over from laughing.

Speaking of the snooty set reminds me of the chatter going on concerning a recent elopement between a show gal and a Park Avenuer, who is better described as being social—but no dough!

The "inside" is that the gal, who had been arm-in-arming it with a Broadway man, wanted to become a bride and the Broadwayfarer kept deferring matters. Two months or so ago she barked:

"Unless you marry me within six months, I'll marry anybody!"

Along came her social but no dough-boy, and before you could say "How've y'been?" she married him.

By now, one presumes, she has discovered that if she wants to eat she must continue working in the show business. The lad she Jacked—and finally Jilted—feels wretched about it, they say, but he is enticing little, if any pity, because of his way with other fellows' girls.

The old street is comical like that. It will stand for murders, racketeers and almost anything, but not for a sweetheart-burglar.

In justice to the Massachusetts mayor, whose name was used last week in the night clubs by a phoney (who couldn't settle his bills and was punched silly by bouncers), let it be jotted down now that the mayor is busy running for re-election up there . . . It might also interest the mayor to know that the local gendarmes are looking for the counterfeiter for this and that reason. They are seeking him, incidentally, everywhere, except in the nearest hospital, where he probably is convalescing.

We recently paragraphed that you are never, never, never missed on Broadway . . . A concrete example follows: Arch Selwyn borrowed the Fulton Theater from the Erlanger firm the other day for his newest show . . . When Mr. Holzman, the exploiter for the attraction, went over the theater's first night list he discovered the names of four critics who have been dead for a year or longer . . . The names being Metcalfe, of Life; Davis, of the Herald Trib; Osborn, of the World, and the late Alan Dale. Imagine.

Incidentally, Mr. Selwyn's new play, "A Kiss of Importance," brings back Montagu Love. Almost throughout the proceedings at the premiere I couldn't suppress my titters over what Heywood Broun once wrote of Mr. Love when Brown was a dramatic critic . . . Broun said of Love: " . . . he plays the villain by throwing his chest out three inches—and following it across the stage."

The testimonial dinner in honor of the beloved Daniel Frohman the other night was packed with several amusing flippancies—some of which I published yesterday . . . Donald Ogden Stewart was there and he addressed some of his patter to Prof. William Lyon Phelps, of Yale.

"When I was at Yale with you," said the clown, "you taught me Browning and Tennyson. Well, sir, I've made good since then—but what the hell became of Tennyson and Browning?"

The happiest news of the lot, at any rate, is that the adorable Lila Lee is recuperating in her lonely retreat on the desert . . . Not because the doctors there are such-a-much, but because her former "heart," John Farrow (from whom she parted before she was stricken), came to see her, and cried it out with her . . . My deputies tell me that when Lila is able she and John will go to Yurrup to see his mother, and then the parson will do the rest . . . This cheers me more than you know, for I have known Lila since she was 5 years old . . . I do hope she recovers sooner than soon, and that she will be as happy as she was when we used to play tag in 1910, '11, '12, '13 and '14 back stage of all the Orpheum Circuit theaters when Gus and Mrs. Edwards weren't looking.

Not A Cheap Help But Safest For Deep Coughs

Creomulsion is not the cheapest help for coughs from colds. But it is made to do the utmost whatever the condition. It combines in one prescription seven of the world's best helps.

It is made in particular for coughs from colds which hang on. There is where one dare not risk a help of lesser value. But is it wise for any cough to trust a less effective help?

Creosote is in it, blended, emulsified and tasteless. In an ideal way to give the supreme help for soothing membranes and combating cold germs.

But there are also white pine tar, wild cherry bark, menthol, ipecac, etc. Each is best for some coughs. Here we combine all major helps to fight coughs to the limit from the start.

Because of this expensive combination, Creomulsion costs a little more than lesser helps. The price is $1.25, but your druggist guarantees it. He returns your money if you ask for it.

A three-day cough is a danger signal. There was need for Creomulsion to be sure. But is it wise to trust any cough to lesser help when the utmost is at your command? You never know where a cough may lead. Treat it with the best men know.

KNOCK THAT COLD IN A JIFFY

Here's Relief Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL; to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

TRADE TALK HIDING BOTTOMLEY SALE?

A REVIVAL OF the rumor that the Pittsburgh baseball club is planning a deal whereby Outfielder Paul Waner will be traded to the St. Louis Cardinals or some other National League club brings another emphatic denial from President Barney Dreyfuss, who made a similar denial through the Sun-Telegraph several weeks ago. The Pirate owner declares that Waner has never been offered to any club in any kind of deal; that no other club has made any proposition for him; that the Buccaneer management has absolutely no intention of trading the player, and that when the 1931 season begins Paul will be right back at his old position in the Rover linrup. Evidently the baseball trade fakers have been busy again since the minor leagues opened their annual convention in Montreal. Some big league operators are not above the practice of trying to make themselves look good to their patrons by giving them the impression that they have endeavored to obtain star players from other clubs at any price, when as a matter of fact they either have made no offer at all for those athletes or submitted only bluff bids, knowing that the same were too ridiculous to receive any consideration.

Paul Waner

PERHAPS SOMETHING OF that sort is being tried in the Waner case. Most of these trade rumors link the names of Waner and Jim Bottomley, the St. Louis Nationals' first baseman. It is being whispered about that Bottomley has already been sold to the Chicago Cubs for cash, with a little playing material thrown in to make it look good, but home fans never take kindly to the sale of regulars for money, and the Waner reports may be only part of an advance alibi, so that when the news of Bottomley's transfer to the Bruins comes out the Cardinal bosses can "explain" to St. Louis patrons that they first tried hard to make a trade for Waner.

"We have not received any offer from St. Louis or any other club for Waner," said President Dreyfuss. "Neither have we offered him for sale or trade, and we are not going to do so. Of course, no club would decline to trade any player if a better one were offered for him, but you may rest assured that in baseball no one is ever going to offer you more than you are asked to give up. So there isn't going to be any deal for Waner, and he'll stay right here in Pittsburgh. Somebody on the outside is merely doing some tall faking."

IT IS SAID that the St. Louis club did approach the Pirate management several months ago on the subject of a deal for Bottomley, as well as for a Cardinal farm hand or two, but that, whether deliberately made so with that object in view or not, they were so absurdly one-sided that the Cardinal chiefs are still laughing over the incident.

The Pittsburgh club, though still in the market for a catcher, does not expect to make any deals at next week's meetings in New York. President Dreyfuss says that no proposals have been received and that none will be made, and he is so sure there will be nothing doing as far as the Pirates are concerned that he is allowing Manager Jewel Ens to remain in West Palm Beach instead of asking him to make the trip to New York.

Jim Bottomley

PRESIDENT DREYFUSS is in favor of a stand-pat policy by the major leagues on the draft question. "If the five balking leagues do not accept the draft I think the majors ought to carry out their plan to break off business relations with them without delay," he said. "In refusing to accept the draft unless the majors agree to the unreasonable draft price of $20,000, which is twice as much as most of their players are worth, the majors are hurting themselves as well as the players whom they are thus preventing from advancing in their profession. Annually the majors spend $1,500,000 among the minors for players, and I don't see how the five non-draft leagues can hope to exist if that revenue is cut off, as it will be when we quit buying players from them."

THE FEELING OF relief that came to Dr. H. C. Carlson, Pitt basketball coach, when Eddie Baker completed the regular football season without being injured was not to last long. For Baker is lost to the Panther floor team after all, as a result of Coach Carlson's ruling following Eddie's decision to go to the Pacific Coast with Andy Kerr's all-East football team.

That Eddie, in view of his high scholastic standing and his fine work during the gridiron campaign, rated the permission of the university officials to make the trip if he desired to go is not to be questioned, yet Coach Carlson is acting only in fairness and justice to the other floor candidates in declining to let Baker, upon his return, displace a player who may have won a regular berth during his absence. Pitt is making a big basketball sacrifice in letting Baker go to California, as he was to have been one of the main cogs in this year's floor machine. It is a loss second only to that suffered in the departure of Charley Hyatt.

WHEN BENNY FRIEDMAN, former Michigan grid star, now leader of the New York Giants in the professional league, remained out of last Sunday's contest with the Brooklyn Dodgers, it marked the first time he ever missed a whole game in his 11 years as a football player.

Friedman had been forced out of other games during their progress on account of injuries, but this was the first one he ever missed entirely. His absence from action was due to a knee injury suffered in the Thanksgiving Day game against Stapleton.

WITH THE SCHEDULES of Carnegie Tech and Duquesne completed, and that of Pitt lacking only a game for the Panthers' opening date, which will be filled within a short time, a football program is assured for Pittsburgh next year that will be second to none in the country. For class, variety and continuity, without an open week anywhere along the route, the schedule of home games will be by far the best ever presented here. There will be one big attraction after another to make up Pittsburgh's greatest season, and one that will not be surpassed at any other point on the football map.

THE THREE LOCAL college teams will play a total of 16 home games without a conflict, the Dukes having seven, Pitt five and Carnegie three, with the Panther-Skibo annual meeting added. The Bluffites will offer five night numbers, and there will be a game every Saturday from September 19 to November 21, inclusive, with the curtain falling on November 26, Thanksgiving Day. Teams playing here for the first time will be Army, Purdue, Western Maryland and Oglethorpe, with such other attractions as Notre Dame, Nebraska, Georgetown, W. & J., West Virginia, Geneva, North Dakota, Catholic U., Loyola of Chicago and Western Reserve. Following is the home schedule for 1931:

Saturday, September 19—Duquesne vs. Geneva at Forbes Field.
Saturday, September 26—Pitt in opening game at Stadium.
Friday, October 2—Duquesne vs. Oglethorpe at Forbes Field.
Saturday, October 3—Carnegie Tech vs. W. & J. at Stadium.
Friday, October 9—Duquesne vs. Loyola of Chicago at Forbes Field.

TICKNOR GETS CALL ON TAD JONES' TEAM

By TAD JONES.
Member, All-America Board of Football.
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

In making my selections for the all-eastern eleven for the year 1930, I have considered first the mental and physical qualities of the men chosen and, second, their records of performance throughout the season. The strength of the opposition and the nature of the opposition have been carefully weighed.

Tad Jones.

The East again has been fortunate in the high quality of the centers. I know of no group in the last decade that compares with Ticknor, Siano, Loeser, Andre Schneider, Engle and Mestres. In spite of a bit of uncertainty in his passes, I do not hesitate to choose Tickner, of Harvard, as the most brilliant. He is an inspirational player, tall, rangy and rugged, with unusual speed. He was extremely efficient when backing up the line and particularly in forward pass defense.

Wisnieski, of Fordham, and Linehan, of Yale, are named for the guard positions. There are some great guards in other sections of the country, but nowhere is there richer material from which to choose than right here in the East. For hard-driving football these two men stand out. Both are extremely powerful and very fast. Hare, of Yale, Bromberg and Hoffman, of Dartmouth, and Doyle, of Colgate, are very little behind the first two. These men were fast charging on the attack and impregnable on defense.

TWO FINE TACKLES

Price, of the Army, and Foley, of Fordham, lead the field of tackles. I doubt if a finer pair could be found anywhere. They are strong, fast chaps, with speed a-plenty down the field, and can go through an entire game without substitution. A tackle "shines" defensively — only his coaches know his worth offensively and this pair measures up in every way. Vincent, of Yale, Crehan, of Dartmouth, with his running-mate, Barger, and Concannon, of New York University, are almost on a par with those chosen.

On the flanks, I have placed Riblett, of Penn, and Nemecek, of New York University. They are a flashy pair, very dependable, and they do everything well. In blocking a tackle, covering kicks and open field tackling, they have no superiors in the East. Barres, of Yale, is an unusually fine end, along with Carlmark. Messinger, King and Malloy, of the Army, and Orsi, of Colgate.

MORTON AT QUARTER

A coach, perhaps, will give more attention to the selection of a quarterback than to any other position on a team. Proper direction of play is absolutely essential to a winning team. And by this I mean more than a proper choice of plays. Intelligent use of the kicking game, successful maneuvering for position on the field and other points too often are overlooked. Morton, of Dartmouth, is my choice, with Wood, of Harvard; Bowman, of Army, and Abruzzio following closely. Morton is a splendid punter, an excellent passer and a hard runner, in addition to possessing the other qualities so necessary in a quarterback. If my choice were to be made on the play of a single game, then, perhaps, I might choose differently.

The game that Bennett, of Princeton, turned in against Yale was the most brilliant performance of the year. Wood's handling of the Harvard eleven in its final game was a great exhibition of quarterback skill, but Morton, of

TITLE SCHOOL TILT DEC. 13

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 4.—Redstone Township and Monessen High School elevens will clash on December 13 to decide the championship of the W. P. I. A. L. The game will be staged on College Field, Washington. A definite decision on the site was made last night by J. C. Hulton, chairman of the football committee of the W. P. I. A. L.

Hulton conferred here yesterday afternoon with representatives of the two high schools.

Uniontown, Greensburg, Clairton, Pitt Stadium and Charleroi were mentioned as prospective sites for the big game, but finally a general agreement was reached on Washington.

It was agreed that each club will receive 45 per cent of the gate receipts and that 10 per cent will go to the W. P. I. A. L. Both schools will submit a list of officials and from this list the three men will be selected. The game is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

Neimic, star lineman for Monessen, will be ineligible to participate in the contest on account of the 20-year age limit, it was stated at the conference.

Jose Smith, captain of the Redstone eleven, is too ill to take part in the Clairton game on Saturday, but is expected to be in shape for the Monessen affair.

BAKER, PHILS HEAD, DIES

MONTREAL, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—William F. Baker, president of the Philadelphia National League baseball team, died here early today of a heart attack.

Mr. Baker arrived here yesterday to attend the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

He was taken ill during the night in his suite at the Ritz Carlton and died at 5:30 a. m.

Mr. Baker, who was a police commissioner in New York City before becoming identified with the Phillies, was 64. He succeeded William Locke, of Pittsburgh, his cousin, as president of the club.

William Frazer Baker was born in Pittsburgh in 1866. His first business position was as a messenger on the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad.

In 1885 he went to New York City as the secretary of William

TECH, PREXIES TAPER OFF

By JESS CARVER.

This must be a happy, happy day for some of our well-known college footballers. I mean the footballers at Carnegie Tech and Wash-Jeff. Why? Well, it is the last day of tough practice for the year, as both elevens wind up their serious training for the charity game in the Pitt Stadium Saturday afternoon.

You can say what you wish about the Carnegie Foundation report; about the boys getting paid (if such is the case) and about their being "taken care of," but whatever they do get, it isn't half enough for what they go through. Football is a lot of fun, and also is a lot of work, and you may bet your bottom dollar, or if you are just fresh out of bottom dollars, bet dimes, that the Presidents and Tartans will drag into their respective dressing rooms this evening snorting huge sighs of relief.

Tomorrow's drills at both camps will be light, being merely tapering off workouts, designed to keep the boys on edge.

After today's drills, the coaches will be pretty well set on their starting lineups. At Carnegie, it looks like the line will be made up of Rosenzweig and Pete Flanagan at the terminals; Highberger and Schnupp at the tackles; Capt. John (Seneca) Dreshar and Hooks Sample at the guards, and Alex Ducanis at center.

Dr. H. C. Carlson, Pitt basketball coach, has informed Eddie Baker, captain and quarterback of the 1930 Panther football eleven, that he need not report for basketball when he returns from the Pacific Coast, where he will play on Andy Kerr's all-East team in a charity game, as the GAMES TONIGHT.

Cleveland at Pittsburgh.
Syracuse at Detroit.

By CARL W. SHATTO.

One of the most ancient rivalries known to American hockey will be revived at Duquesne Garden at 8:30 tonight when the Yellow Jackets meet the Cleveland Indians, the International League's defending champions.

Pittsburgh and Cleveland were among the first cities to move the ice sport from outdoor rinks to indoor arenas, and the competition between the Steel and Forest cities was keen from the start. From the standpoint of bitter feeling the rivalry reached its peak during the days of the U. S. amateur circuit, when police protection for visiting players was required.

When Pittsburgh obtained a National League franchise the rivalry was suspended, but the interest in the competition between these cities still is very much alive, and a capacity crowd is expected to witness its revival tonight.

DEFENDING CHAMPS

The fact that the Indians are defending champions indicates that they enjoy greater prosperity when the Yellow Jackets, who made a habit of winning titles, are not listed among their foemen. Well, the situation is reminiscent of old times in that the Jackets again are in a position to dispute Cleveland's right to the crown.

Roy D. Schooley, president and manager, started rebuilding when his team got away to a shaky start. He has continued to rebuild from one game to another, and the greatly improved showing of the revamped Jackets in recent starts is proof that he has builded well. Today the Jackets rule no worse than an even-money choice against any team in the circuit.

LINEUP CHANGES ASSURED

In beating the Detroit Olympics in their last fray here, the Jackets made it apparent that no further changes in the starting lineup are required. In the ranks of the spares, however, there still is much shifting to be done. Eddie Bouchard, who can perform at both defense and left wing, and Paddy Sullivan, former local center ice hero, who aims to do a comeback, are to make their debuts tonight. Jimmy Smith or Lloyd McIntyre will be at right wing on the first reserve front line, in place of Charles LaRoche, indefinitely suspended yesterday for contract breaking and insubordination.

M'BRIDE FOEMAN

Cliff McBride, sent to Cleveland last week in exchange for Mickey McGuire, again will mingle with his former mates, but this time as a foeman.

Indications are that the battle will be close. Regardless of who wins, the jousting will be torrid

CRONIN STANDS OUT IN A. L. AVERAGES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Joe Cronin

The consistent punch displayed by the Athletics and Senators as they fought for the honors of the American League was backed by very clever defensive play, judging from the official averages for the league given out today. The world champions and the runners-up led the other entries in fielding, the two leaders finishing almost in a deadlock. Connie Mack's club had a slight margin over Walter Johnson's brilliant combination, according to the figures. The club fielding mark of the A's was .975, which was just one point above the Senators. Several new records were made in the circuit.

The remarkable fielding achievements of Joe Cronin, former Pirate, will be studied with much interest by fans of this district. Joe stole the show as he took part in all of his club's 154 games. Playing in 24 less games than Cronin, Joe Boley, the Athletic star, topped Joe on a fielding percentage, but figured on the basis of total chances, and that sort of thing, Sunny Joe made it a runaway race.

HANDLES 836 CHANCES

Cronin handled a total of 836 chances which was better than 200 more than that engineered by any other shortfielder. Joe was second to Boley, among the regular shortstops, in fielding percentage and he was out in front of all his rivals in double play manipulation. He figured in 95 of these double shuffles. The quantity and quality of his play were marked.

Bill Regan, a Pittsburgh boy, enjoyed another good season at second base for the Red Sox.

Cleveland and Washington infielders broke the world record for assists, the former on June 8, when they made 22, and the Indians on July 2, when they tied the Washington record. In the Washington game there were 23 assists, but the twenty-third went to Outfielder Sam West.

Besides the game on July 2, Cleveland had 21 assists against Washington May 13, and 19 assists in five other games. Chicago had 21 assists once, 19 once and 18 five times. All these were in nine-inning games.

Boston led in double plays and made one of the three triple plays that were executed during the season. On July 14, the White Sox made five double plays against New York, a record for the season.

NEW WORLD RECORD

Only four passed balls were charged against Washington and the same number against St. Louis. The world record is three, held jointly by Chicago White Sox and Washington. As noted above Philadelphia had but 145 errors, which is within one of the world record, held by the New York Yankees. Cleveland has the doubtful distinction of making the most errors, 237, hard pressed by the White Sox with 235.

Many notable feats and, at least, three new records were made by individual players. Veteran Joe Judge, who finished his fifteenth season with Washington, was all but perfect in the field. He accepted 1,117 chances in 120 games and was charged with but two errors. His average is .998, and he led his league in fielding eight seasons, a world record. On April 27, John Clancy went through a nine-inning game for the White Sox without having a chance at first base, the first time such a record has been made in the American League and the second time in baseball history.

BREAK ASSIST MARK

Oscar Melillo, of the Browns, established a new league record by making 572 assists in 148 games. Lajoie, playing 156 games, had 538 in 1908. Melillo also had seven putouts and seven assists June 10, which was high for the season for a single game.

Johnny Hodapp also broke Lajoie's record by throwing out 557 runners in 154 games. Charlie Gehringer and Melillo tied for high average, .979.

Martin McManus was the best of a mediocre lot of third basemen. In 130 games, McManus had a percentage of .966 and at one period of the season went through 40 games without an error, accepting meanwhile 130 chances.

Al Simmons had the highest average of any outfielder who played 100 or more games, but the real star of the year was young Oliver, of Boston, who, playing his first season, accepted 486 chances in 154 games, within nine of the league record.

Simmons' average was .990 and Oliver's was .982. Smead Jolley, of Chicago, another newcomer, led the league in assists with 17 and in a game against Philadelphia, June 10, executed what probably were the two most sensational plays of the season. With a throw from deep left field he retired a runner at the plate in the tenth inning and followed this almost immediately by catching a long line drive and, making a most phenomenal throw, completed a double play at the plate and saved the game for his team.

Eddie Anderson Arrives for Battle

Eddie Anderson, Wyoming Cowboy puncher, arrived in town this morning to finish his training for his 10-round main bout with Tony Herrera at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. He went on the road today and beginning tomorrow will work out daily in the Motor Square Garden gymnasium at 2 p. m.

Benefit Game Makes Layden Fast Traveler

Elmer Layden, Duquesne coach, will be glad when the former Notre Dame stars' benefit game with the New York Giants is disposed of. Layden, one of the Four Horsemen of 1924, recently made a trip to South Bend to make ready for the fray. The next day the game was called off by Knute Rockne, whose doctor denied him the pleasure of coaching his former stars.

Today Adam Walsh was named to sub for Rockne, and the game was put back on the slate. Layden plans to return to South Bend tonight. He will be back here for the Dukes' grid banquet next Tuesday. South Bend, New York and Pittsburgh will be his next stops after that.

Gallagher, Witz Are Suspended

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The State Athletic Commission has announced the indefinite suspension of Theodore Crystal, second; John L. White, manager, and Dan Gallagher, boxer, all of Pittsburgh; Ray Arcel, second, New York City, and Abie Witz, second, Canonsburg, Pa.; Pete Soliwoda (Pete Sullivan), boxer, of Dickinson City, Pa., was suspended 30 days. No reasons were given for the suspensions.

MULLINS LOST TO IRISH FOR TROJAN TILT

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Notre Dame's hopes of scalping the Trojans of Southern California Saturday fell sharply yesterday when Coach Knute Rockne announced that the injury to Fullback Larry (Moon) Mullins' knee was such that it would be impossible for him to play in the important game.

Rockne made the announcement as the team hopped off its special train here for a two-day practice. Mullins wrenched his knee badly in the Army game last Saturday and, although it has been given constant care ever since, it has not responded to treatment.

Yesterday's practice was open to the public, but Rockne said the two scheduled for today would be strictly private.

TROJANS WORRIED

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Impersonators of two Notre Dame stars, Schwartz and Conley, rode through the University of Southern California football eleven's pass defense in uncomfortable fashion yesterday as Coach Howard Jones put his men through their last strenuous paces for Saturday's gridiron gigantic.

Two former Trojan stars, now coaches, impersonated the Rough Riders on the reserve team during dummy scrimmage, with Rush Saunders doing Schwartz's backfield chores and Francis Tappaan playing Conley's end in a fashion which resulted in three touchdowns.

JIM O'DONNELL GOES SOUTH

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

The golf professionals are starting their annual move southward and to the West for the winter season. Some are leaving the district to take up winter berths as legitimate club professionals, others are departing to take a shot at the big money in the open tourneys of the barnstorming circuit.

Jimmy O'Donnell, affable and popular pro at the Edgewood Country Club, today took in hand his assistant, Mike Swindak, and entrained for Florida, where he will immediately assume the reins at the Ocala Highlands Country Club, at Silver Springs, in the north-central portion of the balmy commonwealth. Jimmy says the 18-hole layout there is one of the finest in the south, and he anticipates a big year.

Walter Johnstone, Butler Country Club pro, already is in Florida, operating at the Vero Beach Country Club, where he partners with Dave McCormick, St. Clair Country Club instructor.

Both O'Donnell and Johnstone have signed up at their respective clubs for next year, and will report back to their local jobs early in April.

NOTRE DAME'S loss of the services of Fullback Larry (Moon) Mullins in the big football game with Southern California in Los Angeles next Saturday, will be a severe blow to the chances of the Irish for victory.

Knute Rockne has announced that Mullins will be out on account of an injury to one of his knees, suffered in the Army game last Saturday, and it is a development that may change the complexion of the important battle on the coast.

Moon Mullins

ASIDE FROM THE huge item of experience, in which Mullins, now completing his third and final year as a varsity player, is far superior to Dan Hanley, a sophomore who has participated in only three games, Mullins would have been of great value from another angle in this particular game. For it is a tilt in which the possibility of a Notre Dame victory will depend greatly upon the ability of the Irish to hold in check Southern California's powerful scoring machine. A terrific attack is the Trojans' best bet. The South Benders have got to stop that in order to win. And Mullins' long suit is defense. There are few, if any, better defensive backs in the country. He is so good, in fact, that a former Notre Dame star, while in Pittsburgh a few days ago, expressed the opinion that if Joe Savoldi instead of Mullins had been playing fullback against Northwestern a week ago last Saturday the Irish would have been defeated. Superior defensive ability enabled Mullins to play a big part in keeping Northwestern from scoring where Savoldi might have failed. Moon had been expected to be of equal value in holding back the Trojans, and in the loss of his services the prospects of Notre Dame are hit hard. Hanley and Howard cannot begin to fill his shoes on defense. The Irish still have a chance to win, but it's not as good as it would be if Mullins were in the lineup.

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Using an ineligible player, Sammy Klateman, in last night's game with Penn Five at Sharpsburg, the Young Men's Hebrew Association basketball team today was suspended from the West Penn League, and as a result the battle scheduled with the Knickerbockers of Lawrenceville on the Y. M. H. A. floor is canceled.

A special meeting of the West Penn League will be held tonight in the league headquarters to determine what definite action will be taken against the Bellefielders.

The Y. M. H. A. quintet was punished for breaking the rule that bars former members of the Allegheny County League from participating in West Penn League games before two years have elapsed.

As a result of the suspension, the Y. M. H. A. authorities have taken steps to play an independent schedule for the remainder of the season.

While the Y. M. H. A.-Knickerbocker game is off unless the West Penn managers change their ruling, the battle between the Schneiders and Knickerbockers, scheduled for the Moose Hall, North Side, will be the only league attraction on the program tonight.

In the Allegheny County League two old feudists will clash at Columbus Temple, the Mieles opposing Fintex. The two clubs use Columbus Temple as their home court and promise their followers a brilliant duel tonight. Last year the teams played four extra periods to determine the winner, the Fintex team emerging on top.

In the Wagner Institutional League, Coraopolis plays at Homewood; Kingsley House plays at Tarentum in the County Amateur League; Penn Cadets meet the Y. M. H. A. Reserves in a Metropolitan League fray, the contest being a preliminary affair to the West Penn League battle; Ambridge is at the Catholic Forresters in the Greater Pittsburgh League, and two games are scheduled in the American Pro League, Rochester playing at Fort Wayne and Toledo at Brooklyn.

ELLWOOD CITY COPS

Ellwood City joined the leaders after-inaugural games in the Allegheny County League last night when it defeated Glassport, 31 to 19, on the Ellwood City court. Lippe and Delahunty played stellar roles.

The Penn Five and South Side Falcons added victories in the West Penn title chase. Penn knocked off the Y. M. H. A. troupers, 26 to 18, while St. Michael's was beaten by the South Siders, 44 to 33.

Trinity Cathedral Royals found Mt. Troy Presbyterian an easy foe in the Pittsburgh Senior Church League, Blackie Fredericks starring in the 39-26 win. Lefkowitz beat out the J. H. Becks, 31-30, and the Penn Cadets bumped Mt. Washington Triangles, 27-20, in Metropolitan League battles. The L. F. Burkes whipped Sharpsburg Y, 34-19, in a Junior League tilt.

Floor Notes

Judging from his work in the opening game against Charleroi, Munkie Ketchel, star center of the Fintex team, appears to be in for his best season. Give Ketchel a good supporting cast and there are very few centers in the district that can compete with him.

Carl (Moon) Klinzing has been signed to play forward for Fintex in the Allegheny County League. The Big Train will be eligible for play after the next two games.

The appearance of Sammy Klateman in the Y. M. H. A. lineup automatically spikes rumors that the star forward plans to play in the County League. Klateman will stay at the Y.

The Charleroi Merchants will not lack from support this season, judging from the number of fans that followed them to Columbus Temple for the opener. Charleroi, at home, packs them in for all games.

East Liberty Y will be the attraction of the W. U. Hoyles at Perry High School tomorrow night.

Back from their invasion of Butler, where they met the Paulists, the I. K. S. passers are eagerly awaiting their battle with Manchester Community House at home tomorrow night.

I. K. S. BEATEN

BUTLER, Dec. 4.—Butler Paulists took over the fast Irene Kaufmann Settlement quintet in a torrid engagement by a score of 30-27 here last night. The Paulists took the lead at the start and held it throughout. Bayer and Smith, opposing captains, engaged in a fistic encounter to enliven the game. Both were ejected from the play. The lineup:

Paulists—30.		I. K. S.—27.
Lefevre	F.	Smith
McGivern	F.	Gradstein
Krankota	C.	Murphy
Raimondi	G.	Braun
Bayer	G.	Sarkin

Foul goals—Paulists, 10 out of 14; I. K. S., 5 out of 14. Referee—Kummer.

LEON CHAGNON SOLD

MONTREAL, Dec. 4.—Leon Chagnon, former Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher, has been purchased from the Wichita Club, of the Western League, by the Fort Worth Club, of the Texas League. Officials of the club involved in the deal are here to attend the annual meeting of the National Association of Professional Leagues.

Basketball Rules Quiz

PLAY NO. 4.

Conley, of Notre Dame, is in the act of shooting from the field for a basket when he is fouled by Kinzer, of Carnegie Tech. The shot at the net is successful in spite of the foul.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

This brings up another new change in the 1930-31 rules. When Conley is fouled in the act of shooting for the basket he is allowed the field goal, if successful, in addition to one free throw. In case he misses his field goal, two free throws are allowed. In either case, the ball is in play if the first or second free throw is missed. Last season, two free throws were allowed on similar plays, with the ball being tossed at center after the second free throw regardless of whether made or not.

P. Shinn, the steel industry pioneer, but in less than a year he took a similar position with Wallace C. Andrews, a prominent promoter, identified with Standard Oil, the New York Steam Company and a number of railroads. For seven years he was in Mr. Andrews' employ, leaving to engage in the contracting business.

Later he served as secretary of the financial department of the New York City government, and as president of the Municipal Civil Service Bureau and in 1908 he was appointed police commissioner of New York. After the expiration of his term he enjoyed a year's rest before entering organized baseball as vice president of the Phillies.

In his second complete year of office as president the local National League club, under the management of Pat Moran, won for Philadelphia the city's first National League pennant, though defeated in the 1915 World Series by the Boston Red Sox.

Since 1915, Mr. Baker has seen the breaking up of Moran's machine, which failed by a couple of games to win the 1916 pennant, but which finished badly in 1917.

Since then the club has not done so well. Eight managers served under Mr. Baker. They were Moran, Coombs, Cravath, Donovan, Wilhelm, McInnis, Fletcher and Shotten.

Fort Worth, of the Texas League, today traded Ernest Lorbeer, catcher, to Beaumont for Alfred Todd, also a catcher. Lorbeer was with Evansville, of the Three-Eye League, and Todd with Bloomington, in the same circuit.

COUSIN OF LOCKE

The death of William F. Baker, president of the Phillies, caused deep regret among the officials of the Pittsburgh Club. Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pirates, was especially grieved over Baker's passing, as the elder Dreyfuss and Baker had been friends for more than 20 years.

Next to Owner Dreyfuss, of the Buccos, Baker was the oldest owner in point of service in the National League. Moreover, there was a sentimental feeling between Baker and Dreyfuss which grew out of the late William H. Locke's connection with the Pirates and Phillies.

Locke was secretary of the Pirates for something like 10 years, he leaving Pittsburgh in 1912 to become the owner of the Phillies. Locke and Baker were cousins, Baker at that time being police commissioner of the City of New York. Soon after Locke purchased the Phillies, Baker became actively interested in them and upon the death of his cousin he took over the executive position and became president of the club, a position he held up to the time of his death.

"An honest man in every respect, William Baker's death is a blow to the league; I am very sorry to hear the news," said Owner Dreyfuss, of the Pirates.

Baker also was a cousin of Chief Justice Robert S. Fraser of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, whose home is in Pittsburgh.

AMATEURS BOX FOR BELTS TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK.
Sports Editor

The cream of the amateur boxing talent of the district vies tonight for the Western Pennsylvania championship belts in the finals of the tournament staged in the Palisades roller rink, McKeesport. This is the third night of the month-long tournament, staged on Thursdays, with the exception of last week, which was passed up on account of Thanksgiving Day.

Twenty-one survivors remain in the eight weight classes out of a starting list of more than 100, and semi-finals are listed in all classes but the flyweight, welterweight, light-heavyweight and heavyweight, which already are down to the finals. Following are the stars who will battle for the laurels:

[illegible], of New York, wants to show Ted Sandwina, his heavyweight, against Emmett Rocco, George Panka or any of the other big fellows here. He also manages Harry Ebbets, hard-hitting middleweight.

Battling Glara, of Donora, has been matched to box Chet Smallwood, Akron southpaw, in one of the 10-round bouts of a double windup card at Canton, O., one week from next Monday.

Al Becker, Sheraden middleweight, injured an arm in training yesterday and Angelo Meyers will have to dig up a substitute for him against Jack Tracey in one of the two 10-rounders at the Moose Temple tomorrow night. Jimmy Kelly and Allen Beatty top the main bout, Hans Roberts meets Larry Kaufman, of Louisville, in the second bout, and Irving Rodgers, brother of Jackie, boxes Frankie Portland, of Ambridge, in the opener.

Willie Davies, Charleroi bantamweight, is planning a boxing campaign in California this winter and may leave soon after the Christmas holidays.

Joey Spiegel, of Uniontown, National A. A. U. junior champion in the lightweight class, who makes his professional debut against Eddie Nelson in the second bout on the Tony Herrera-Eddie Anderson card at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, lost only three decisions in more than 150 bouts as an amateur, and, among others, defeated Ted Yarosz, Cowboy DeLora, Dominick Pirollo and Carl Montebano. He is a German-American, a southpaw and 19 years old. He is a graduate of Uniontown High School. Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, and Homer Roman, of Newark, O., will box the eight-round semi-final at the Garden.

Charley Baxter boxes Harry Forbes and Walter Pickard meets Bert Doran in 10-round bouts at Indianapolis tonight. Cowboy Martin and Tarzan Phillips clash at Columbus, O. George Gianchino battles George LaRocco and Frankie Rapp takes on Pete Panatello at Philadelphia, while Eddie Holmes and B. J. Renault clash at Woonsocket, R. I. King Tut boxes My Sullivan at St. Paul and Dave Shade meets Jack Hood in London.

PLAY FOR CHARITY

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 4.—Martins Ferry Day will be observed by mayor's proclamation in Wheeling Saturday, when the speedy Martins Ferry High School football team plays a charity post-season game here against Wheeling High. The game will be staged before a crowd larger than any that attended the Martins Ferry High games the past season, it being expected that 15,000 persons will attend, in contrast with 11,000 as the largest number present for any one game in the Eastern Ohio city.

ALEX GRAY

A skater touted as the best center in the International League will be seen at Duquesne Garden tonight in the person of Alex Gray, captain of the Cleveland Indians. Gray stands third in the loop's individual scoring race.

ALL-EASTERN TEAM PICKED

Dartmouth, has been most consistent throughout the season.

For halfbacks I will take Booth, of Yale, and Viviano, of Cornell, and, in the fullback position, Macaluso, of Colgate, is named. Anything that I might say about Booth would be superfluous. Here is a combination of speed and power on the attack, with great ability in the passing and kicking games and defensive strength of unusual degree.

Murphy, of Fordham; Hart, of Colgate, and Masters and Perina, of Penn, all are great backs, and Hewitt, of Columbia, is nothing short of brilliant. Injuries, however, kept him on the sidelines most of the season.

CHARGE RING DECISIONS ARE 'BAGGED'

BOSTON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Charges that boxing decisions were "bagged" by referees and judges appointed by the state were made last night at a hearing before the special commission created by the legislature to investigate boxing.

James C. McDonald, veteran manager of boxers, declared that to his own knowledge decisions have been made by officials which could not have been otherwise than "in the bag."

F. M. Doyle, former boxing promoter, told the commission that the state boxing board should be eliminated and control of the fight game placed in some other state organization. He urged that decisions be made by referees alone. Many of the judges, he said, knew nothing about boxing.

GRID CONFERENCE CLUBS NEARING CROWN

TITLE CHANCES OF LEADERS AT STAKE

By TOM BIRKS.

Art Rooney is making special arrangements to handle a capacity crowd at the Salt Works ground Sunday when the Ambridge Mystics meet the Majestics in the title race for the independent gridiron championship. The title chance is very much at stake in this contest, as it also will be in the game at McKeesport, when West View clashes with the Olympics at Rainbow Gardens.

For many years local independent football writers have had to class the games as a fight for the mythical title, but this season this is no mythical title.

The Olympics and Majestics have outdistanced the field, so that these teams loom up as finalists for the title a week from Sunday providing they win their battles Sunday.

The Iverson machine has never beaten West View. The Red and White-clad Muzzio outfit always has been a jinx for the Olympics to overcome, and the jinx has the Tubers worried. Boots Klinzing, the Tubers' star halfback, probably will be able to get into the game.

popular fellow, with a genial personality.

The Washington State Cougars, Pacific Coast champions, who will represent the West in the Tournament of Roses game against Alabama on New Year's Day, gained enough ground to run up a dozen touchdowns in winning by only 13 to 0 over Villanova at Philadelphia last Saturday. They made 13 first downs against only two by their opponents and lost the ball on downs six times trying to make their distance. . . . They gained 270 yards by rushing from scrimmage and 10 more on a completed pass, while Villanova gained only 66 yards by rushing and 18 on three passes.

Ed Bang, sports editor of the Cleveland News, tells me that his newspaper's annual Christmas fund boxing show, next Wednesday, is a surefire sell-out of Public Hall there, with tickets ranging up to $15. . . . Paul Pirrone and Jackie Fields, the former welterweight champion, will be the headliners, with Eddie Shea and Fidel La-Barba in the semi-final and Ray Miller and Johnny Farr in another 10-rounder and three four-round bouts completing the card. . . . Many Pittsburgh fans will make the trip to Cleveland for the show.

In piling up his record of 33 consecutive victories in the professional ranks, young Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, has done a remarkable job and appears to have a great future. . . . Following is his record, in the order in which the bouts were fought: Jackie King and Johnny Brown, won; Jack McCarthy, knockout; Young Joe Walcott, won; Johnny Judd, knockout; Georgie Bretsch and Bob Collura, won; Carl Patron, knockout; Billy Yeltz, Johnny Brown and Billy Holt, won; Johnny Dill, knockout; Johnny Popoic, Jackie Herman and Jimmy McGraw, won; Billy Burke, knockout; Hans Roberts and Young Joe Walcott, won; Jimmy Herman, knockout; Paul Oger, Young Rudy and Joe Corelli, won; Jack Murphy, knockout; Paul Oger, Young Rudy, Jackie Herman, Roger Brooks, Billy Holt, Johnny Rich and Tiger Joe Randall, won; Benny Burns, knockout, and Jimmy Belmont and Jimmy Neal, won.

LOCALS TOP WINDSOR

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 4.—The Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets chalked up their second victory of the International Hockey League here last night when they came from behind to gain a 2-1 decision over the Windsor Bulldogs.

Trailing 1-0 until late in the second period, the invaders notched the tying goal, then, on one of Gordon Fraser's famous long shots they snared the odd tally as the final chapter got under way, with Halliday doing the sniping after Mickey McGuire had put him clear away with a nice pass.

The Windsor marker fell to George Lever after a pretty piece of combination with Jack Duncan.

After the early score, however, Abie Cox, himself a former Windsor Bulldog, was unbeatable. He starred throughout the second and third periods, finishing just as well as he started in spite of a painful injury six minutes from full time. A hard shot from Bellemer hit him on the heel, just below his pads and the game was held up for 10 minutes while the injured member was massaged and taped up. The lineup:

Grovers Announce '31 Football Card

GROVE CITY, Pa., Dec. 4.—Still seeking a footbal game for September 26 next year, Athletic Director R. E. Thorn of Grove City College has arranged an eight-game card for 1931. A conflict of dates with other district teams left the usual opening date vacant, and Thorn is hoping to schedule a good attraction to round out the schedule.

Slippery Rock State Teachers' College is the only new opponent on the Crimson card, unless the September 26 date is filled with a college strange to the Grovers. The schedule at present follows:

September 26.—Open.
October 3.—Waynesburg at Grove City.
October 10.—Slippery Rock Teachers at Grove City.
October 17.—Westminster at New Wilmington.
October 31.—Allegheny at Grove City.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Should People Love Their Parents—Regardless?

Should we honor 'em . . . whether they've learned it or not?

A lot of fancy literature has been written on that subject, and, according to tradition, mamma and papa should win all the rewards, no matter what their record. For according to that same tradition, children are supposed to have a "natural love" for the old folks, which no possible ill treatment can quench.

But Virginia says that's all hooey!

She has a father—

An aged father with a long tale of woe—

But has she any "natural love" for the old gent?

And does she yearn to rush to his assistance?

She hasn't . . . and doesn't . . . and this is why—

"My Dear Miss Sally Martin:

Made Own Way

"I read your column every day, and now I too have got up courage to bring you my problem.

"It's about my father, and I'd like your opinion of the way I feel about him.

"I am one of eight children, and at the age of two I was given away to an aunt to raise. That might have been all right. My aunt was good to me . . . But she died.

"I was only 12 when that happened, but my father did not send for me to come home, but left me to shift for myself. I don't know his reason. He never told me. My mother, in the meantime, had died, too, but he was living, and had the other children with him in a small town several hundred miles from where my aunt had lived. There wasn't much money, to be sure, but Sally, I wouldn't have minded that . . . if I'd just had a home and felt someone cared about me. I was strong and willing to do my part.

"Well, at 12, I went out to make my own way. For a time I worked for my keep in families, usually where there were other children who needed care, and believe me! I worked, too! At 14 I was working in a private family for $1 a week, that being the only sort of work that offered a home. At 16 I was a cook. Today I am a caterer.

Father Disapproves

"Well, before long, my father married again, and had more children. In time, I married, too. I have a fine husband, a nice home, and we are, I suppose, one of those 'middle class' families we read so much about.

"Now, my father, in spite of the fact that he treated me like that, acts and talks as though I have committed a crime, because I don't love him like the other children do. Well, I ask you! Why should I?

"Maybe I'm wrong, and I won't be hurt if you think I am . . . but at 12 when I needed a home and a father, I didn't have any. Now, at 36, I have my own home and don't need any father. I have sent him money. I have even visited him, twice. But when it comes to having any love for him, I simply don't and can't.

"I can't even write to him. There's nothing to say. But only a few days ago one of my sisters wrote me, calling down the wrath of God on my head because I don't write to him or care a lot for him.

"Am I wrong? Is there something the matter with me? Please tell me. Should I love my father, no matter what he does? Is there something unnatural about me?

"VIRGINIA."

Is there something unnatural about you?

No, lady, there isn't!

Yes, I know a lot of parents are going to get all smoked up when they read that letter. Well, let 'em! I'm a parent myself, and I know what I'm talking about.

Parents are not entitled to gratuitous rewards, any more than any other class of workers.

It's no great feat to be a parent. . . .all the mammy songs to the contrary. Anyone can be one. . . . . .and almost anyone is. A human being isn't sanctified by giving birth to offspring, any more than a rabbit is sanctified. It's the service that is rendered after birth, not birth itself, that makes a parent worthy of respect.

Must Earn Love

And if a parent doesn't render worthy service, then he or she is no more deserving of love and respect than any other slacker.

Whether we're fathers or mothers or aunts or uncles. . . or just friends. . . . . .If we want respect, appreciation, love, in this world. . . . . .we have to earn them. Respect, appreciation and love don't "Just Happen."

The love of children for a father or mother is a very beautiful thing. . .one of the most beautiful things on earth. And the lack of it is tragedy. But if father or mother haven't played the game, they have only themselves to blame if that love is withheld. And it's bad medicine to sympathize with them in such a case.

Yes, I know that's against popular notion. Regardless of what they do, papa and mama are supposed to get a hand. Which is exactly why we have so many worthless fathers and mothers. If parents got what was coming to them, as other workers do, there'd be an amazing improvement in family life.

But instead, they expect brass bands and all the trimmings, no matter how poor their performance. And unfortunately, they usually get them!

But stick to your guns, Virginia, if all the world turns against you. You've taken the right stand, even though it's unpopular.

How to Keep Well

Know How to Feed Your Baby

Recently I called at a charming home where a baby of seven months was the center of household interest.

DR COPELAND

It was a sweet baby, but very, very pale. The poor youngster was irritable and gave visible evidence of undernourishment.

It isn't easy to determine the cause of that particular state of health. But it demands careful study, because neglect may result in disaster.

Certain rules about feeding have been laid down by the doctors. One of these relates to the frequency of the meals. In general, the age of the baby is the determining factor.

But age alone cannot be accepted as the sole test of the frequency or the richness of the feedings. There is but one reliable test, that is the baby itself. Unless there is uninterrupted increase in weight, something is wrong, either with the quantity and quality of the milk, or with the underlying state of health.

For some reason this mother had recently lengthened the period between feedings from three hours to four hours. As I view it, the strength and vigor of the child were not sufficient to justify a limitation in the quantity of food. With fewer feedings there was not enough nourishment.

Before the new eating time came this baby was ravenously hungry. Naturally it jumped at the bottle and went at its feeding so energetically that the milk was taken too rapidly. It swallowed a lot of air as it gulped down its food. No wonder the baby was uncomfortable and unhappy.

This is not the way to feed a baby. It should be done just right, or it is all worng.

The rubber nipple is important. If the nipple is too long, it will press against the roof of the mouth and cause gagging. The particularly important thing, however, is to have the opening the right size.

When the bottle is filled and the nipple is applied, turn the bottle bottom side up. If the milk runs out in a stream, the opening in the nipple is too large. The milk should drop, readily, but not flow.

If the opening is large, the food is taken too rapidly. It should require 20 minutes to empty the bottle. Rapid feeding may result in colic, indigestion and vomiting. Undernourishment is certain to follow.

Answers to Health Queries

R. E. McK. Q.—What causes a sinus infection and how can it be definitely cleared up?

A.—In most cases the trouble is due to a catarrhal infection. This should be definitely located and treated first of all. Clear up the underlying disturbance.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, December 5

While there is augury of an eventful day, with some minor change or journey, according to the fairly friendly position of Uranus, yet there are omens of defeat and undermined conditions, possibly due to subtlety, intrigue and treachery, even in those matters pertaining to large corporations or secret societies. With particular discretion and alertness, things may progress mildly. Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a fairly progressive state of affairs, with some small change, journey or removal, but withal, beset by a menace of treachery or intrigue, especially in the matter of new or secret projects. The financial status is not a strong one.

A child born on this day may be clever and adventurous, but may be subject to duplicity and fraud, itself inclining to ways of stratagem and mystery.

Easing Man Out of an Insincere Romance Often Means Tragedy—Fay King

OH - YOU'RE SO WONDERFUL!
YOU CAN'T GET RID OF ME SO EASILY!
I'M THROUGH WITH YOU!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

Many a girl makes it a point to be very fascinating to every new man she meets.

She wants to add him to her list of beaux. She usually succeeds. It is not difficult to bait a new man into her life. The difficulty lies in getting rid of him.

In meeting a new man, she lets him think he is meeting red hot romance. She accepts his attentions. Lets him spend his money freely entertaining her.

Then, when it comes to a showdown, she lets him know, crudely and tactlessly, that he means nothing like that in her life.

Colin Cameron Is Invited to Mary's Party

It took every bit of self-control I possessed to keep from betraying the chagrin and anger which swept over me at the realization of the way Philip Veritzen had maneuvered me into a position where I could not avoid inviting Colin Cameron, the young talkie star, to Mary's party. I had accepted my employer's munificent offer of box seats for one of his productions—indeed, I could not graciously have done anything else, and as a result I knew that I must answer as he wished to the broad hint he had given me.

There was but one way, and that a mean one, in which I could "get even with him," in childish parlance, and that was to make my list of guests as long as possible, so that the great man would be put to inconvenience in getting seats for them on such short notice. I had meant to have only two older people, Dicky and myself, to chaperone the group of preparatory school girls and college youths who for the most part would make up Mary's party, but now vindictively added Harry and Lillian Underwood and Helena Brixton to my mental list.

I "counted noses" as I struggled for poise in answering my employer's hint. Marion and Carolyn and their two friends from Whitney Hall—four; Ronald and his three college mates from Yale, four more—eight, with Noel and Mary, herself, 10. The two cadets Harry had promised made up a roster of 12. If Colin Cameron were added, he would make the thirteenth guest of the younger folk. That made no difference to me, but I was afraid some of the youngsters, even though belonging to this modern, sophisticated age, might be superstitious. But of course the chaperons, five of us, would be seated at dinner and the theater with the youngsters, so the number 13 really did not matter after all.

I was ready now to answer Mr. Veritzen, and with a smile, I said:

"Oh! I haven't anything so formal as an invitation list. This is an affair arranged on that time-worn bromide, 'the spur of the moment.' So far I have 12 young people and five of us oldsters. I do hope you and Mr. Cameron can join us. Edith, dear, I'm not going to ask you. I'm just daring you not to come."

If Mr. Veritzen was at all dismayed by the numbers to whom he had promised box seats, he showed no signs of it in his manner as he waited courteously for Edith's reply.

"Oh! I'd love to come," she said promptly, much to my surprise—and disappointment. I had not dreamed that she would accept the invitation.

"I echo your words," Mr. Veritzen said with a little bow to her. "I certainly shall be honored to attend Miss Mary's party. Of course, I cannot speak for Cameron."

But he could. I saw that, as the young talkie star glanced quickly at Mr. Veritzen before answering.

"I can think of nothing I should like better, Mrs. Graham," the young man said, and I found myself wondering what part of the dazzling pleased smile which Mary gave him was genuine.

"That will be marvelous!" she cooed. "I do hope you won't be bored!"

"Bored!" young Mr. Cameron echoed, but before he could go on, Harry Underwood interposed, using the pronounced drawl which to those best acquainted with him spells mischief afoot.

"'Bored' is the word, dear boy. You haven't the slightest idea of what you are getting into. Of the 12 young people mentioned by our dear hostess, four are boarding school misses of tender years, four Yale freshmen, and two West Point yearlings."

Something akin to dismay flashed in the young movie star's eyes. He turned to Mary appealingly.

"But you are not a—"

"Boarding school miss," Mr. Underwood interposed inexorably. "No, not exactly, but near it. She only escaped a year or two ago."

"But you have escaped." Young Mr. Cameron turned back thankfully to Mary. "Frankly, I am afraid of schoolgirls. I have had some weird experiences. If you could see some of my fan mail!"

There was no conscious egotism in his voice, and I guessed that his plaint had reality behind it.

"Eleven of the younger guests are accounted for," Mr. Veritzen said, smiling, and with apparent carelessness. "Who is the twelfth?"

I caught my breath in panic. Did I dare to tell him that his son, Noel, whom he had disinherited in a fit of unreasoning anger, was the twelfth guest?

Not a Suspicion

One woman cooks sauerkraut without a vestige of odor creeping into the house by simply using her laundry stove as a means of cooking instead of the gas range upstairs. It simmers away in the cellar all afternoon, but the cellar door is closed and nobody knows anything about it.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Office-Harem

In novels, of course, the Boss always falls in love with the "Office Wife," and eventually marries her. SO romantic!

But in real life, he usually calls her "MISS Gibson," works her as hard as he dares, and gives her a raise, when she looks him in the eye and demands it. The danger is not that she will STEAL him, but that she will spoil him for any other wife, by coddling him into helpless inertia.

Man has always been coddled around the house. It has been many years since we women stood around in delicious awe and positively thr-r-rrilled, while the Great He-man of the family heaved the log on the fire, moved the piano or harnessed the mettlesome horse.

Now the gas-log needs no heaving, the radio runs on castors, little Rollo can drive the flivver, and there is always some woman around to pick up Papa's shoes, count his laundry and act as a buffer between him and all the uncomfortable little domestic contingencies.

But it was not until the advent of the Office Wife that he was coddled at both ends of the trolley. Outside of the home he was still the Strong Man with the iron muscle, the mighty will and the lightning speed mind, giving orders, meeting problems and carrying the weighty burdens of the whole office on his broad, brave shoulders.

Now, his life, both uptown and down, is one long path of uncut velvet! And the big danger is, not that he will get softening of the heart, but that he will get softening of the spine!

From the moment he steps out of his scented shower in the morning, until he sinks placidly down on his patent spring mattress at night, there is always SOME woman coddling him, waiting on him or fussing over him!

The Office Wife has become a whole HAREM! And with a whole corps of Little Miss Efficiency's highly trained to lift all the burdens and responsibilities off his tender shoulders, it is difficult to know just how and when the Tired Business Man GETS tired.

He doesn't even have to remember his own dates, fight his own business battles, order his own lunch, answer his own telephone, compose his own letters or think up his own alibis. All that is a matter of "office routine" and left to the big harem known as "the office force."

There is always some bundle of feminine efficiency around to shield him from all the little discomforts and embarrassments; to keep out importunate bond-salesmen; to find his golf clubs, open his mail, sharpen his pencils, do his Christmas shopping, order his taxi and telephone flowers to his wife.

A few years ago, the home-wife regarded the office-wife as a "menace"; but not even he most suspicious woman could be jealous of a whole harem! The only thing a modern wife fears is that her Big He-man will get so SOFT and languid, from all this coddling, that some day he will have to be carried to the office on a litter and fed with a spoon!

Household Hints

A dish mop makes an excellent duster for wicker furniture.

Rugs can be brightened after cleaning by using a weak solution of ammonia and water or salt and water.

Make the hems of kitchen curtains the same width at each end. Then they may be used either end up and wear more evenly.

Correct Manners

Amenities of the Restaurant Dinner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. At a special course dinner in a restaurant, should one drink the fruit juice out of the glass or use a spoon?

2. At what time should the salad, which is served with this, be eaten?

3. Should carrots be eaten from the side dish with a spoon, or can one use the fork?

4. What is the usual tip on such occasions?

5. I am using this note paper as you recommended in your column the other day.

STUDENT IN DISTRESS.

1. It is best to use the spoon. As a matter of fact, that is why it is more convenient to place a spoon for a fruit cocktail, to have the spoon to use for the delicious juice that is left in the glass after we have eaten the fruit.

2. With the meat course.

3. One should use a fork.

4. Ten per cent of the check-amount is usually the minimum amount of our tip, and, if we are generously inclined, we usually add a bit, or, if more generously inclined, more than a bit, to this.

5. And good-looking it is, too, with its Scotch granite quality!

Delivering the Christmas Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me whether, when giving a young man friend a Christmas gift, it should be sent to his home or handed to him?

I. M.

It would be better to send the gift to his home.

The Fiancee's Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would it be proper for me, an engaged girl, to buy my fiance a wrist watch as a Christmas gift? CONSTANT READER.

Yes. The fact that you are engaged gives you the right to give your fiance this kind of gift for Christmas.

Yes! I'm a Woman of 43
I Lost My Fat As You Can See

A year ago I had twenty-two more pounds of fat than I needed—I was fat—and very sensitive about it—but now I say it is foolish for anyone to be overweight.

What did I do? Nothing very hard, I can assure you—I cut out candy and all sweets—ate sensibly and every morning before breakfast I took one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water—Never missed a morning.

I lost fat—gained in energy—vigor—charm—and vivaciousness and have a shapely figure I am proud of—anyone can do the same.

A North Carolina woman lost 47 pounds in 3 months—a Montana woman lost 19 pounds in 4 weeks—Wisconsin woman 11 pounds in 6 weeks.

Side-step imitations and substitutes—If you want to lose fat—Kruschen is what you need.

There is nothing so good as Kruschen (remember the name). Taken every morning—it causes every organ, nerve, gland and fibre in the body to function naturally.

Every druggist in the world sells Kruschen Salts—a bottle that lasts 4 weeks—costs 85 cents.

Mrs. Mame Carey, of Buffalo, N. Y., writes—"Since I began taking Kruschen Salts I have lost 20 pounds and I feel as if I had lost 50 pounds—I feel so good and the best part of it all is that I eat anything I like."

Face to face with her husband's secret sweetheart

SO THIS was the woman her husband loved. This was the woman who for six long years had been her husband's secret sweetheart.

For a moment they remained silent, staring into each other's eyes. Elizabeth, the dishonored wife—Kitty, the guilty woman.

Elizabeth was the first to break the silence. "I suppose you thought I would never find out about you and Richard."

"Have you come here to preach?" Kitty retorted.

"Are you not ashamed to see me here? Have you no honor?"

"Don't talk to me about honor. I never touched your happiness, but you broke mine to bits. It is you who should be ashamed."

"You have no right to my husband!" Elizabeth cried.

"I have the greatest right in the world," Kitty answered calmly. And then she told her an amazing story…

What was Kitty's secret? What was the outcome of this strange love triangle? Here was a woman who for six long years had lived happily with her husband—trusted him, respected him, and then suddenly…..But read for yourself what happened in Muriel Page's stirring new novel, "Empty Lives". It begins in the December 6th issue of Love Story Magazine, now on sale. Follow this absorbing novel of a wife who had to solve the greatest problem any woman can face. Read it now.

What is your love problem?

What would you do if your husband should fall in love with another woman? Or if you are single what would you do if your sweetheart left you? What kind of men do girls like? What kind of women do men fall in love with?

These are the kind of questions that Laura Alston Brown answers every week for hundreds of men and women, in her helpful department—"The Friend in Need". Do you want information, help? Laura Alston Brown is ready to aid you at all times.

Many throbbing stories in December 6th issue

"Getting Day a Husband" is by Jane Littell—always an assurance of a fascinating story well told. Day Poynter was a man's match in anything. She could beat Tony Coslette in golf, tennis, swimming. And in business she was remarkably successful. But it seemed certain that Tony would never learn to love her, for he wanted a wife who would be soft and feminine—a girl who needed his protection. How Day Poynter changed her personality and set out to win Tony Coslette makes this one of the most delightful stories of the year.

"Copywrited by Cupid" is the story of a modern girl who told the man who loved her that she hated him. But love is sometimes akin to hate. And one day a a surprising thing happened—

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Drift Off

Local List Dull, Firm

STOCK PRICES CONTINUE TO DRIFT OFF

Losses Again Range From 1 to 3 With Some Rails Penetrating New Lows

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—(AP.)—A listless downward drift of prices was extended without interruption into another session of the stock market today.

Losses again ranged from 1 to 3 points. A few of the rails penetrated new low levels, but the list as a whole held well above the bottom prices touched last month. Trading was extremely slow.

Failure of the market to make any bullish response to the announcement of higher prices for plates, shapes and bars by steel producers encouraged a little bear selling.

With several retail sales reports for November now available, it appears that the dollar volume for most organizations was relatively the poorest of the year, although this comparison is probably distorted by the decline in retail prices, which has been extensive.

Woolworth reported November sales 7.9 per cent off from last year, against an aggregate decline for the first 11 months of only 4.9. Kresge's November sales were off 10.8 per cent, against 4.2 for the entire 11 months. It would appear from these that Montgomery-Ward's November report showing a drop of 25 per cent reflected an individual situation.

The monthly report of automobile production showed a decline of about 5½ per cent from October.

Call money held at 2 per cent with an easier undertone. Secretary Mellon's request for authorization of new bond issues was a further step in the government's plan to take advantage of the current low interest rates for refunding some of its indebtedness.

SEARS BUSINESS SATISFACTORY

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—L. J. Rosenwald, vice president of Sears-Roebuck & Co., in commenting on Christmas business thus far, says:

"Things are coming along quite well, and it looks as if we will get a good Christmas business. We are selling a bigger proportion of lower-priced goods this year and the trend is to less expensive toys and merchandise. I think this applies to conditions generally."

Small Oil Company Cuts Texas Crude

HOUSTON, Dec. 4.—Champlin Refining Company has reduced the price of Panhandle crude oil to 33 cents a barrel for 32 gravity with 1 cent differential to 40 gravity and above at 41 cents.

For Kansas, 32 gravity crude is 37 cents a barrel, with a differential of 2 cents up to 40 gravity and above, with top price of 53 cents.

Lincoln Motor Co. Adding to Force

DETROIT, Dec. 4.—Eight hundred employes have returned to work at the plant of Lincoln Motor Company within the last month and the number is being increased at the rate of 100 a week. There are now 2,290 employes. The plant is operating on its normal basis of five days a week.

New York Bankers Sees Trade Upturn

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Benjamin M. Anderson, Jr., economist of the Chase National Bank, in a radio talk said that with consumption in the United States ahead of factory output for several months and with stocks of goods declining, a vacuum has been created, which will force production to substantially higher levels.

Texas Oil Output Ordered Reduced

AUSTIN, Tex., Dec. 4.—Crude oil production in the Yates field of Pecos County was ordered cut from 100,000 barrels to 89,500 barrels daily until January 25 in an order by the state railroad commission. The field's advisory committee requested the curtailment.

N. Y. Exchange Seat Sells for $246,000

NSW YORK, Dec. 4.—Arrangements have been made for the sale of a New York Stock Exchange membership at $246,000, a decrease of $4,000 from the last previous sale.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—There was a steadier tone in cotton during today's early trading. The opening was 4 to 8 points higher, with new December selling up to 10.37c and May to 10.98c. Later some selling appeared and at the end of the first half hour the market was holding steady within 2 or 3 points of the opening quotations.

The market steadied up later in the morning. New December contracts advanced to 10.44c and May to 11.05c, or about 12 to 15 points above yesterday's closing quotations, and the market was within a point or two of the best at midday.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Under moderate selling early grain prices averaged lower today. Liverpool advised of favorable crop prospects in the southern hemisphere with wheat supplies afloat 17,000,000 bushels larger than a year ago and stocks in most European ports liberal. Opening ⅜ off to ½c up, Chicago wheat later sagged all around. Corn started unchanged to ⅝c down and subsequently was little changed.

FARMING FACES BIG CHANGE IN TECHNIQUE

Next Decade to See More Large Scale Production In Agricultural Belts

By MERRYLE RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Recent efforts of affiliates of the Federal Farm Board to bolster up wheat prices tend to deflect popular attention from the impending economic revolution in agriculture.

Despite the time lag, the American farm is facing great changes in methods and technique, such as have come in industry with the advent of the modern machine and of high tension power transmission. During the next decade there will unquestionably be numerous additional experiments in large scale industrialized agricultural production as a means of adjusting the farming community to a lower scale of commodity prices. The new road to profits, it will be argued, will be through drastically eliminating economic waste and curtailing the cost of production, rather than through artificially seeking to hold up agricultural prices through valorization schemes and tariffs.

Mr. Rukeyser.

NEW STYLE FARMING

One of the two largest farming corporations in Kansas is the Sledd Farm Corporation, headed by Charles M. Sledd, who, in giving the viewpoint of the new style farmer in a message to this column, said:

"The wheat growers of America have to compete with other countries. The ultimate wheat consumer is going to be fully advised of production costs, and Americans, who have always led the world in aggressiveness, have an opportunity now to benefit not only themselves, but the entire world.

"We buy large tracts of land suitable for power machinery. The manufacturers of agricultural machinery are now building specially designed power plants that make it possible to work day and night without interruption, to be able to plow deeper, prepare the seed bed perfectly and to accomplish all this in a fraction of the time formerly used.

USE SELECTED SEED

"Next, we use seed that has been proven to be especially adapted to the districts in which we are operating. These experiments have been paid for by our government, to which we owe a debt of gratitude.

"Our production costs have been cut to a point where we have actually delivered the finest grade of Kansas hard wheat to the elevators at a cost of less than 25 cents a bushel."

Mr. Sledd is now setting up other farmers in accordance with his plan.

Herbert Clark Hoover in his latest message to Congress shows his expert grasp of economic matters. Instead of repeating the hackneyed generalizations of business men about economic conditions, the engineer in the White House imparts freshness to his utterances by giving new and specific statistical measurements of the trend of trade.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Raw sugar was quiet early today, although it was learned that 18,000 bags of Philippines nearby were purchased by a refiner yesterday at 3.34c delivered, representing a decline of 1-16c of a cent from the last previous sale. No sugars were available at this level this morning, with store sugars held at 3.40c, but buyers showing no interest.

Refined was unchanged at 4.75c for fine granulated. Withdrawals were again of fair proportions, but new business was light and supplied through second hands at prices below the list of refiners.

Leading Fuels Advance Fractionally In Dull Stock Market Session

Slight fractional improvement was noted in securities on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange in the early trading, but volume of business continued light and dealings were confined to a comparatively few issues.

Lone Star Gas and Western Public Service, leaders of the local fuel sections, were both up ⅛ at the opening, but there was not enough trading in either to give a definite idea as to the trend.

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt was handled at 15 following the establishment of a new low record of 14⅞ in the previous session. Jones & Laughlin preferred appeared on the board at 120, a decline of ⅛ from its last previous sale, recorded Monday.

Action of the market tends to confirm the opinion heard in some quarters that stocks are at that stage of the major movement usually referred to as the "valley," awaiting definite stimulus for a resumption of the upward movement and absorbing such left over liquidation as does appear with little change in the general price level.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

GRAIN STORAGE

A great giant elevator which, when completed, will hold no less than 80,000 tons of wheat, is now nearing the finishing touches stage at Bahia Blanca, an Argentine port that exports grain valued annually at from $40,000,000 to more than $83,000,000 in recent years. This elevator was built for the Great Southern Railway. It is constructed of steel and reinforced concrete. Numerous railway tracks lead to sections where the cars are picked up by machinery and contents dumped into reception bins, from where the grain is sent to storage or delivered to ships anchored alongside piers. Steam and electricity in their varied forms of energy are employed to reduce labor costs and quicken operations. Through means of this storage, the Argentine will be in a position to withhold its grain from market, should prices prove adverse to sale, something hitherto impossible there.

BANK ASSOCIATION ELECTS

At the annual dinner of the Bankers' and Bank Clerks' Mutual Benefit Association in the William Penn Hotel recently, Charles A. Bardolph, of the Franklin Savings and Trust Company, and Robert O. Fulton, of the City Deposit Bank and Trust Company, were elected president and vice president for the coming year. Active membership in the organization was announced as over 2,700.

J. C. PENNEY COMPANY

J. C. Penney Company signed a contract with Merrill Silk Company, whereby the latter will manufacture approximately 50 different textile articles for sale in 1,455 stores of Penney Company. Under terms of the contract, Merrill Silk Company will produce all silk and rayon underwear for the Penney Company, as well as silk gloves and other kindred items.

SOUTHERN PIPE DIVIDEND EARNED

Forest M. Towl, president of Southern Pipe Line Company, says he expects the annual report for 1930 to show the company has a little more than earned the $2 in dividends which have been paid during the year.

Chrysler Sales Exceed Production

DETROIT, Dec. 4.—Chrysler Corporation shipped 7,992 cars in November, compared with 16,459 in November, 1929, and 12,838 in October this year. Retail sales of Chrysler Motors products during November substantially exceeded production and shipments, resulting in further liquidation of unsold new cars in hands of dealers, improved an already strong and satisfactory situation with respect to dealers' stocks, according to officials.

Allis-Chalmers Orders Increase

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 4.—Unfilled orders of Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company on November 30 totaled $14,258,000, compared with $13,533,000 on November 30, 1929. On January 1, last, unfilled orders amounted to $12,872,000, and on October 31 this year to $15,298,000.

Hudson Motor Car Steps Up Output

DETROIT, Dec. 4.—Hudson Motor Car Company has increased its production schedule to more than 2,000 cars a week, the largest schedule since June. This action reflects the favorable reception given new models introduced a week ago at new low prices.

Auto Registrations Off for 10 Months

New passenger car registration in the United States in the first 10 months of 1930 totaled 2,436,948 against 3,558,993 in the like 1929 period. New commercial car registration totaled 369,836, against 469,870.

Firm to Repurchase Stock of Workers

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—The Gardner Denver Company, manufacturers of oil well machinery with plants at Quincy, Ill., Denver, Colo., and La Grange, Mo., announced it would repurchase $180,000 worth of stock sold to employes in 1929 under a profit sharing plan. The company offered to pay employes the average price of $58, which they paid, although the stock is currently quoted around $30 a share on the Chicago Stock Exchange

Pennsy Earnings Lower for Quarter

Pennsylvania Railroad reports for quarter ended September 30 net income of $21,255,192, after taxes and charges, compared with $35,620,176 in the third quarter of 1929.

Net income is equal to $1.64 a share on 12,978,212 shares outstanding, against $2.94 on 11,414,345 shares outstanding in the third quarter of 1929.

Financial Men Are Lukewarm Over Message

By B. C. FORBES

THE FINANCIAL world gives a lukewarm reception to President Hoover's message. Business leaders regard the message as good in spots.

It had been earnestly hoped the President would recommend prompt modification of our antiquated anti-trust laws. Instead, he favors one more fact-finding investigation. As if the facts concerning the anti-trust laws are not only too well known already.

THE BIGGEST thing of all that Congress could do to encourage the revival of enterprise would be to remake the Sherman law so that it would fit modern conditions. It is utterly absurd to keep on the statute book an act which every thoughtful citizen from the President down frankly recognizes as a stumbling block to the achieving of things universally regarded as extremely desirable in the interest alike of industry, business, employment and the nation.

The delay indorsed by President Hoover means that this obstacle to economic rehabilitation will not be removed in time to permit of speeding up recovery.

Some of the other measures recommended for prompt legislative action are of infinitesimal importance compared with modernizing our trust laws.

THE MOST heartening financial recommendation made by President Hoover is that the capital-gains tax be reconsidered with a view to its abolition. The President's exact words are:

CAPITAL-GAINS TAX

"It is urged by many thoughtful citizens that the peculiar economic effect of the income tax on so-called capital gains at the present rate is to enhance speculative inflation and likewise impede business recovery. I believe this to be the case and I recommend a study be made of the economic effects of this tax and of its relation to the general structure of our income tax law."

CHARLES E. MITCHELL, chairman of the National City Bank, New York, brought this subject to public attention over a year ago. His outspokenness aroused widespread interest. Those familiar with actualities know that the levying of a tax on property sales discouraged many to take advantage of the boom prices of last year. As losses can be deducted from income, there has been much selling this year to take advantage thereof. A most unhappy arrangement.

Mr. Mitchell's bank, in a special circular issued in April of last year, urged:

"Immediate action by Congress to remove the income tax on capital gains on the sale of securities, and at the same time, of course, eliminate the tax credit resulting from capital losses. This tax, we believe, has created artificiality in the security markets, in the credit structure and in interest rates. It has introduced scarcity values in stocks that have spelled high prices and it has created an enormous increase in the loan accounts.

"Under these tax laws, and particularly with the surtax operating as it does in the higher brackets, investors and speculators who have large profits in securities have been and are unwilling to liquidate and take profits, but go on holding these securities, leaning on the banks in order to do so.

"Many stocks have increased in value in no small part because holders are unwilling to sell and pay the tax liabilities incurred, even though prices may have gone to excessive levels. The current buyers are therefore forced to pay higher prices by reason of this tax."

BE PREPARED for uncounted attempted raids on the federal treasury. Socialistic proposals of all kinds will be trotted out. Popularity-seeking lawmakers will picture the government treasury as the fountain from which can flow funds for an infinite variety of purposes with which the government, as such, has nothing whatsoever to do.

There is a devitalizing tendency to picture the government as a national Santa Claus, able magically to produce a limitless supply of wealth. The cold truth is, of course, that the government is not a creator of wealth, but a taker of wealth. It has to be financed by you and me.

Happily President Hoover, Secretary Mellon and other administration heads have thoroughly sound ideas on how public funds can be legitimately used and how they can be abused.

Steel Price Advance Is Good Sign

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE ADVANCE OF $1 a ton in the price of steel bars, plates and shapes which was announced yesterday by the United States Steel Corporation and the leading independents was undoubtedly the most constructive development in the industry this year. While the new price probably will not be applied to a large share of the actual tonnage shipped during the first quarter of 1931, it marks the first upward move in steel since 1928. Several months usually pass before an increased quotation is made fully effective, but the advance is a step in the direction of improvement and indicates that the industry has become tired of its costly price cutting tactics.

The new price of $1.65 per hundred pounds is still $5 a ton under the quotations prevailing during the summer of 1929. It is $2 a ton under the low point of the mild depression year of 1927.

After breaking from $2 a hundred pounds to $1.75 during 1927, the steel industry began the slow task of restoring the values destroyed by its orgy of price cutting. Quotations on bars, plates and shapes were advanced to $1.95 during 1928. This price held until September of 1929 when the last downtrend in steel quotations started. This movement was not terminated until three weeks ago when the United States Steel Corporation stabilized its quotations at $1.60.

Confidence Shown

EVEN THOUGH MANY of the large consumers may have been allowed to cover their requirements for the first quarter before new prices were announced, yesterday's action was of importance since it laid the ground work for the restoration of steel prices to more profitable levels during the coming year. It also indicated confidence among steel executives that production in the early months of 1931 will be materially expanded and that the industry will have the support of sufficient demand to make it possible to gradually advance prices.

In estimating earnings for steel companies it must be remembered that, even in periods of active business, it takes a long period of time to establish higher prices. The full extent of the lost ground may not be regained before the final months of 1931 or the early part of 1932.

Earnings to Gain

THE CONTINUED DOWNWARD trend of steel mill activity may be disregarded in judging the industry's position. A decline in production always takes place in the final two months of the year. This is invariably followed by improvement in activity after January 1. The real test of the prospects for next year will occur during the first quarter. At that time the industry will have some indication of whether increased orders are merely seasonal in volume or whether a revival of greater extent is to take place.

Earnings in the final quarter of 1930 will be unsatisfactory. Many companies will operate at a loss. The first quarter of 1931 probably will show a gain in profits. This will result from increased volume. Some help may be given by higher prices where consumers, who have not already made contracts, find it necessary to buy.

AUTO FINANCING DECLINES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Total number of automobiles financed during September was 217,991 on which was advanced $80,338,160, reports the Commerce Department on the basis of statistics of 465 automobile financing organizations. These figures compare with 244,047 machines and advances of $102,719,151 for August and 288,341 machines on which $138,506,876 was advanced in September, 1929.

For the first nine months of the current year auto financing aggregated 2,411,821 cars, with a dollar volume of $1,013,699,354, against 2,847,998 cars and $1,323,221,486 for the same period in 1929.

General Motors Issue Strong Favorite With Detroit Houses

Houses with Detroit connections and affiliations report that General Motors is one of the favorites in that territory. Considerable favorable comment has been made there concerning the ability of the company to maintain its regular dividend in the current year. In Detroit it is the confident belief that General Motors will pay extras from time to time when automobile trade conditions again are favorable. Most of the buying from that city is said to have been of the long pull variety, with the stock being paid for and taken out of the market.

Continental Can is in a strong position in its industry. Business of the company this year, despite the decrease in general industrial activity, has been decidedly satisfactory and was maintained throughout the period. Favorable weather up to a week or so ago prolonged the canning season, and consequently the demand for the company's product. The outlook for next year is considered bright by interests close to the management. They base their opinion on the fact that the packers' carry-over this year will be no more than normal. Any improvement in general business should result in further gains in Continental's activities.

Childs has done well thus far in the current year despite the unemployment situation and the general recession in business. Net earnings for the first nine months were equal to $1.31 a share, compared with $1.32 in the corresponding period of last year. The annual sales volume of the corporation in recent years has been just under $30,000,000, and real estate holdings are carried on the books at approximately $24,000,000. The company operates about 110 restaurants, of which nearly half are located in New York.

An increase in prices on steel products materialized into fact yesterday, with the posting of advances of $1 a ton in shapes, plates and bars, by Carnegie Steel, subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation. This action was quickly followed by Bethlehem Steel which posted a similar upward revision, bringing the quotations on such products for delivery in the March quarter of 1931 to a base of $1.65 cents a pound, Pittsburgh, as compared with the recently established minimum of 1.60 cents. The news, however, found the market still in a very unresponsive mood and failed to stimulate much in the way of renewed demand for the steel stocks.

The advance in the foregoing products found an offset, perhaps in the discouraging tenor of the weekly trade journals. Commenting on the price situation, and being aware of the intention of one producer to lift quotations, the Iron Age said "motives for such action are to be found in mounting costs, vanishing earnings and a belief that a stronger market will bring out latent business. Similar increases in prices were made during periods of depressed production in 1927 and 1922." With current specifications being affected by approaching holiday and inventory period, ingot production for the industry tapered off to about 39 per cent of capacity from 41 per cent a week ago, the journal said. From other sources, however, it was understood that the steel corporation's mills were holding last week's 45 per cent.

Stock trading has drifted into a highly professional affair, according to keen observers, perhaps more so than it has been at any time previously this year. One needs but glance at the rapidly declining total of brokers' borrowings to be convinced of that fact, it is contended. Certainly the present state of affairs in that direction points to the almost complete stagnation of public interest in the proceedings. For with the total of listed stocks not greatly changed from a year ago, brokers now are borrowing only about $2,162,000,000 to support the position of their clients, or roughly only 25 per cent of the amount they were borrowing a little more than a year ago when loans stood at $8,549,000,000. The market is now looked upon as reflecting nothing more than the attempts of professionals to scalp a point here and there as the opportunity presents itself.

Why only A half-thought-out PLAN for Her?

THE liberal Life Insurance you leave will be worth a great deal to your wife. But a fully thought-out plan for her involves the careful investment of the proceeds to produce an assured income for her—for life.

Presumably this is what you intend to have your Life Insurance do.

A Life Insurance Trust will complete your real purpose for her. In this way:

You assign your various policies to us as trustee.

We will collect the proceeds and invest the principal as you direct in high grade securities.

We will collect and pay the income and parts of the principal, if you so desire, to your wife.

You can see how this fully thought-out plan of Life Insurance Trust gives your wife life protection.

Since this plan is so plainly for her benefit, why not talk it over with her first—and then with us at an early date.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Tommy didn't confide in his dad any more. He had a fair idea of who that reticent brunette might be. He tried to see her, even after he had convinced himself that he should duck the mess, and the Department of Correction laughed at him. He tried to get Annie on the 'phone, calling her under the name of Mrs. Thomas Livermoor—but that was too ridiculous. He only got Irish impertinence.

So, in one last, desperate effort, he shot Annie a wire:

MRS. THOMAS LIVERMOOR.
WEST FIFTY-FOURTH ST.,
NEW YORK CITY

AS A SYMPATHIZER AND BELIEVER IN YOUR INNOCENCE I OFFER FURNISH BAIL STOP PHONE YALE CLUB AND ASK FOR NUMBER OF MR X STOP SAME WILL BE SUPPLIED YOU STOP I DON'T WANT TO INTERFERE BUT WANT TO HELP DISTRESSED GIRL PUT ON THE WRONG SPOT STOP CAN'T KIDNAP YOU BUT SEE RED ALWAYS MR X.

And, Polack Annie, the brunette, got the wire. She got it!

As the police matron (who had read it first) handed it to her, her seductive mouth twisted and twitched to a smile.

"See?" she gurgled to the matron, who was a bit titillated over her sensational prisoner, "Here's one grand guy what wants to spring me."

The beefy matron read the telegram again—twice.

Matron Helps

"They'se some goofs!" she confided, "who go haywire over newspaper hooey. Don't trust 'im sister. That babe is out for a kick. What if it does set 'im back a few grand? He wants the broad what's starred in the Freeman case. Six-two-an'-even he's fifty, bald, fat an' can't stay out all night—doctor's orders—and—but use yer own judgment."

Annie stretched for a cigaret and the yellow flame lit up her oval olive face. She dragged in the smoke and blew it out and looked at the soft-hearted, hard-boiled matron — and then she breathed without any facial ameliorations or amplifications:

"Lissen, copper—was you ever in love—much?"

"Much?" she demanded. "I got eight kids."

Annie flicked the cigaret.

"Then why're you workin'?"

"Becus—I got eight kids."

"An becus you're in love—with your eight kids! Take a sweet earful o' this, from a smart tart—I ain't tippin' you who I am—but maybe you guessed I ain't no sappio. Them delirious dicks can tap the wires, but they might bust their eardrums—anyway, this here 'X' guy's gonna cop a call—do I or don't I, Ann Pennington?"

The matron glanced furtively about. She leaned forward and whispered, hoarsely:

"You—DO!"

"Okay," said Polack Annie. "Call up the Yale Club—c'nect with this Mr. X and say for him to go home and stay home till he hears from ME!—here's the nickel to get the op'rator!"

And Annie palmed her a fifty-buck bill.

They dragged Polack Annie over to the D. A.'s office again and the dicks seemed to take a degenerate delight in closing their duck-bill fingers into the soft, warm flesh of her arm. She passed that. The stage was set and the flashlights boomed and the egg-eyed mob looked on as they led her into the Criminal Courts Building. Under the Bridge of Sighs they steered her into the marblelined lobby and up to the D. A.'s office.

Conceals Knowledge

Annie didn't mind. This was nothing new to her, and all these clucks with their trick questions and their concealed stenographers and their unconcealed cigars didn't fuss her—she was heeled with the cunning of her kind and her training, the foxy ingenuity of the gangster girl who didn't know nothin'—but knew plenty.

And they sat her at a desk and they lit her cigaret and they peppered queries at her.

"What's your name?"

"Jane Doe — a jane wit' dough"—and the D. A., who personally popped the questioning dropped his eyes before her sardonic gaze.

"Put it down: Mrs. Thomas Livermoor," directed the D. A.

"Come on—tell yer right name," came the growling voice of a detective at her side.

"Call me Pansy, Dickey—now what's yours?" and Annie puffed at her cigaret.

"You registered at the Victory Hotel with a tall, blond fellow—"

"My sweetheart—but he moved away—he was my man, but he done me—"

"How about this gun?" and the D. A. fumbled a blue .38 caliber revolver with a shiny silencer.

"Never seen it before," said Annie, "or any other—"

"And the silencer—"

"I wish I had one to slap on your kisser—"

"Did you know Silk Freeman?"

"Never heard of him. Was he really silk, or just rayon?"

The D. A. sank back and asked one more, hopeless question:

"WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT THIS CASE?"

"All right. I'll play—what do YOU know about this case?"

The high inquisitor turned purple.

"Take her back!" he cried.

"Front!" called Annie, with a snap of the fingers—to the detectives.

Tom Helpless

And it made him feel like such a kid—not her Tom—her Tommy boy—such a helpless, hopeless kid. For she had saved his life and she had staked hers for his. She had exacted for his own inconsequential life the life of Silk Freeman, New York's higher-than-law. She had thumbed her pert nose into the ugly pan of the electric chair. She had outwitted the most torturous Torquemados, the most determined detectives and the most unscrupulous gangsters. This bad girl had been a good man to him—and what a woman!

In his breed were the chromosomes of Irish kings. In his nature ran a royal pride. Yet he burned with glory that Annie had gone so far for him—and he burned with futility that she had to and he could do not a thing for her.

The 'phone message from the matron at the Detention Home had convinced him that she—the girl over whom millions speculated, whose every mien and every yawn was front page copy—had understood and was responding.

She had said to wait. If she hadn't said anything he could have followed his own urge and judgment. But she had said he must wait. It was pretty hard, this admonition tempered with love and determination; but he would wait. She could manage their affairs—their affair—better behind steel bars than he could in whole outside of an unhampered wide world! He would wait—but his Irish irked him. M'm. H'm.

DAILY TRUE STORY — Back From Reno

The telephone bell buzzed, Luke Harwood put the magazine aside, opened, to keep his place, and reached for the instrument.

"Yes?" he asked.

"This is Flora, Luke."

"Yes?" Luke seemed surprised. "Why the long distance, Flo? Any hitch out there?"

"I'm not in Reno—I'm at Grand Central. I just got in. Listen, Luke, I want to come up and get that Gladstone bag I left in the bottom of the linen closet—will it be all right?"

"Why wouldn't it be all right?"

"Because—don't you see—I'm back with my decree. I'm not your wife any more."

There was a moment's silence, as if Luke were trying to grasp this truth.

"Come ahead up, Flo," he finally said, "and if you are afraid, bring along a policeman."

"Oh, Luke, don't be sarcastic. I'm coming up. I really have to have that bag tonight. My trunk didn't get here and I haven't a thing—er—to sleep in."

"Did you sleep 'neat' in the Pullman?" he asked coldly.

"Of all things! Oh, I can't talk over the wire. I'm coming up right away. I—I just called to warn you."

He emptied the ash trays, put the bottle and glass back into the little "bookcase" that was really a cellarette with fake book backs behind glass.

He wandered about the apartment. He had got used to living there alone. It had been much more than three months since Flo had gone to Reno for the divorce following their "sensible discussion" of domestic matters, as they each had called [illegible].

Just why Flo should h[illegible] made that crack about warning him was more than he could understand. There had never been a suspicion of or word about marital infidelity between them.

Luke looked at the clock. It might take her a half hour to get up to the apartment. It was raining in torrents and Luke knew that this meant a long delay before she could get a taxi.

Hides Photograph

He went about the apartment again. He removed the photograph of Flo that adorned the mantel over the cherished fireplace that so few apartments could boast. He put his own photograph up and grinned.

It would look better—just his picture—as if he were alone and glad of it—as if with her going he had chucked out her photograph.

He hustled to make some changes in the handsome, big sleeping room.

He had another thought.

He put on his favorite red morocco "Romeo" slippers and his dressing gown. He opened his box of cigars, mixed a highball, drank part of it and placed it on the table.

Then he lighted the wood in the fireplace, and settled back in the big chair, with cushions behind him—the handsome, big cushions Flo was always refusing to let him use.

He had been right about the delay. Another half-hour passed before the door buzzer sounded.

Luke tucked the magazine under his arm, cocked the cigar in his mouth at the belligerent angle Flo had always disliked, and slowly sauntered down the narrow foyer. He forced himself to take his time, although he wanted to rush down and throw open the door.

Very slowly he rattled the chain bolt to pretend he had had the door bolted. Then he opened the door a few inches and looked out.

Flo Arrives

"Ho, sure—I'd forgotten, almost—you phoned about coming up. Come on in, Flo."

He opened the door. His former wife looked at him queerly.

If she had expected to see a grief-worn, sloppily-dressed man, she was doomed to disappointment. He closed the door and followed her into the big living room.

Flo stood there, looking around. Luke didn't see the cords of her pretty throat tighten, nor did he know that her hand tightened on her handbag so that it had snapped a small comb inside.

"You—you were taking your ease, Luke," she managed to say.

"Oh, yes; not such a hard life, here."

He lifted off her hat in the same old way she had taught him so not to muss her hair. He shook off the raindrops and moved a small chair before the fire, hanging the hat on the chair.

"Be careful of it, Luke—it's Reno's best," she answered him.

"So? I thought decrees were Reno's best—here, off with the coat."

He hung her coat to dry and moved the little rocker around.

Almost automatically she sunk into the chair.

Luke went to the kichenette and came back with things. He mixed her a sweedish highball, because she liked them that way.

"Bad night—this will keep off the old pneumonia, Flo."

He sat in his big chair, pounding the handsome cushions into place. Flo started to cry out to him not to do that, but remembered she had no more right to dictate. Luke had paid her a handsome sum to leave the apartment furnishings for him.

"Nice trip?" he asked.

"Not very."

"Strange—you should be coming back like a bird liberated in a garden—you know, free and all that sort of rot."

He sipped his own drink and picked up his magazine. She watched him secretly. It surprised her to find him looking so well and cheerful.

"Sure, I'll get the bag down for you. What's the matter? Why the shivers? Look here—"

He hopped up and went to her. He reached down and took hold of her foot, lifting up her leg and feeling of her stocking.

"Wet to the knees, almost—both legs—why can't you be careful of yourself, Flo? You know you get cold easily."

"I went out to look for a taxi—I thought one would never come—it was pouring torrents. I was wet in a minute."

She shivered a little.

Luke knelt and removed her shoes and stockings despite her feeble protests that she could do it herself.

Flo evaded him and went to the bedroom. Luke went out to heat water. A hot toddy was his idea of what she wanted.

In the bedroom Flo snapped on the brighter lights and stared around.

Luke's photograph was there. She opened the drawer to his chifforobe. There was her photograph, face down, on a pile of freshly laundered shirts. Flo smiled suddenly. The big bluffer had just chucked her picture there, she knew by its being on the shirts.

Her pajamas lay across the foot of the bed, and one of her kimonos, also her swansdown trimmed mules.

To Remarry

Luke came in just as she was stepping into the pajamas.

"Get out!" Flo cried.

Luke put a strong arm about her and forced her to drink the toddy.

He wheeled his big chair around by the fire, arranged the cushions, put on more wood and waited. After a while he went back to see why she wasn't coming out.

Flo was face down across the bed, sobbing softly.

"It's the fever, Flo—you'l' down sick, you're weak now—that's why the tears. Come on," and he lifted her up, took [illegible] out and put her in the [illegible] chair by the cheerful blaze.

"Where did you get these things of mine?" she asked.

"In—in case you had an overnight visitor?"

"In case you come back. Look here, you sneezed; I'm going to put you to bed and get a doctor!"

"You will not—what would a doctor say to my being in your bed?"

"He'd say I was a lucky man to have such a beautiful wife!"

"But, Luke, you aren't—I mean I'm not your wife now."

"Cheerio! You are going to be tomorrow!"

Flo began to cry.

"It's just because I'm happy," she confessed.

SPEAKING OF BOIDS

"We have only to reflect how extremely different human life would be if men and women were only to attract each other in the summer, and parents ceased to care for their children with the approach of winter, to see how remote a bird's life is from our own."—Julian S. Psychic swerves and mental changes.

He does not grope for rhyme or reason,
All he asks is, "What's the season?"
Lets no logic interfere
With his flexes, calm and clear.

He cannot answer "yes" or "no"
To instinct high or instinct low
And shows he has more sense than man
By never thinking that he can.

Hoover Proposal Would Have Congress Abdicate

To relieve unemployment, President Hoover recommends that Congress appropriate from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 to expedite the building of public works already authorized.

This is a wise and patriotic recommendation.

IT HAS MET WITH NO OPPOSITION IN EITHER HOUSE.

But the Democratic leaders of the House have been quick to oppose Mr. Hoover's extraordinary, undemocratic proposal that Congress abdicate to a cabinet committee the power to determine the distribution of this large sum.

To Congress and not to the President, the Constitution gives the power to provide for the common defense and the general welfare and definitely the power to control the purse strings of the government.

MR. HOOVER'S PROPOSAL VIOLATES ONE OF THE MOST FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES OF THE AMERICAN SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT.

Under that American system, the legislative branch is the "policy-determining" as well as the fund raising and fund granting organ of the government.

But Mr. Hoover would change this and give to a committee of his own cabinet the determination of policy involved in the decision as to what public works shall be expedited and how much shall be expended on each class of work and in each section.

Were Congress to abdicate, as Mr. Hoover requests, he would become the GENERAL MANAGER OF THE GOVERNMENT and Congress would be reduced to the level of a board of directors of a business corporation.

If Mr. Hoover had PROPERLY discharged the responsibility which is PROPERLY his as the framer of the budget, he would have submitted to the Congress with his recommendation A SPECIFIC PROGRAM SHOWING HOW AND WHERE HE WISHED THE EMERGENCY APPROPRIATION TO BE EXPENDED.

Congress never has delegated to the President in time of peace, the extraordinary power which Mr. Hoover asks and never except in war should such a request be granted or even made.

In opposing the method by which Mr. Hoover proposes to go to the relief of the unemployed, the Democratic leaders of the House have the constitution and the wisdom of experience on their side. They deserve the co-operation of all senators and representatives who believe in the government established by the constitution.

We are not living in the days of Charles the First of England who dissolved his parliament when they refused him the appropriations he asked, who governed without parliament for 11 years and came to grief as a result. We are not living under a European system of government or a Central American dictatorship.

We are living under the GOVERNMENT OF THE CONSTITUTION and the American people have a right to demand that their public affairs shall be ordered AS THE CONSTITUTION PROVIDES.

A Fitting Memorial

In His First Bill Congressman Erk Pays a Graceful Tribute to His Late Chief.

That was a great tribute which Congressman Erk paid, in his first bill, introduced yesterday, to his former chief, the late Representative Stephen G. Porter, whose secretary Erk was and whom he succeeded in the House.

Erk proposes that one of two farms to be established by the federal government for the treatment of narcotic addicts shall be called the Stephen G. Porter Institute.

He thus carries on the work so dear to the heart of Mr. Porter—the fight against the drug evil—and at the same time gives him recognition for his valiant campaign.

The institute, carrying on its beneficient work for the reclamation of narcotic victims, will be a fitting memorial to Porter.

Full Representation

The State at Last Has the Two United States Senators to Which is it Entitled

After a lapse of four years Pennsylvania at last has the two representatives in the United States Senate to which it is entitled.

That is cause for satisfaction, though it is disappointing that even 27 Senators should have voted to refuse James J. Davis his seat.

The only charge made in connection with the election of Senator Davis is that a large amount of money was expended. In view of his plurality of 938,000 votes no one could be so foolish as to suppose he was elected by fraud.

As for the Davis campaign expenditures, it is to be remembered that the money was used in the primary in behalf of the whole Brown-Davis organization ticket and in the election for the whole Republican ticket.

It is also to be remembered that expenditures which would be suspiciously large in smaller states can easly be used in a perfectly proper manner in a state where it costs hundreds of thousands of dollars to circularize the voters.

A Child Welfare Program

Pennsylvanians May Well be Proud of the State's Leadership in This Important Work.

A program for the betterment of the condition of Pennsylvania's dependent, neglected, delinquent and handicapped children was announced yesterday at a great convention of social workers in Harrisburg—a convention which is continuing today.

The program calls for sustained effort over a period of 10 years. More than 1,000 Pennsylvanians, including our foremost authorities on child welfare, have devoted two years to the preparation of the program.

The child is father to the man, and if the 10-year program attains even partial success and the 125,000 children for whose improvement it has been prepared are lifted out of the deplorable conditions under which they now suffer the effect will be felt in better citizens a few years hence.

[illegible] held a conference at the White House a [illegible] ago to deal with child welfare. Pennsylvanians may well be proud that their state has taken the leadership in this important work.

EVOLUTION OF STARS

By Archibald Henderson

When the so-called Draper Classification of Stars was worked out and published, one chapter of stellar history appeared to be satisfactorily completed. According to this theory, the series follows the line of historic evolution and represents consecutive stages of star-development. A star is thus followed from the hot stage through successive ages of cooling, until finally extinction comes at the end of the chain of stellar existence.

A new interpretation of the observed facts of stellar evolution, however, has been advanced by Prof. E. Hertzsprung, of Leyden, and Prof. Henry Norris Russell, of Princeton.

Stars of the M type, far down in the Draper Classification, called cooled stars, fell into two classes according to size. One group consisted of amazingly large stars, the other of strikingly small stars. Hertzsprung suggested the happily descriptive terms of giant stars and dwarf stars; and these terms found universal adoption.

Russell made an intensive study of the two groups of stars, on the basis of those members whose distances from us had been computed. One of his most striking discoveries was that among the hot, white or blue stars, none are faint; and among the cool, red or iron stars, none are of medium brightness. In this second class, all are either very bright or very faint.

This last discovery completely upset the ideas embodied in the Draper Classification. For it had been assumed, as if outside the realm of discussion, that stars of one class, according to the Draper Classification, were all of the same age, astronomically speaking.

As Williams puts it in "The Great Astronomers," the assumption was, "young stars, large and white-hot; old stars, small and only red-hot, which is the equivalent of cool, as things go in the sidereal world. And now it appeared that a cool red star could be either a giant or a dwarf—at once young and old!

This was a staggering blow to the established classification, and a satisfactory explanation of this singular contradiction for a time eluded the grasp of the astronomical world.

New discoveries by the employment of the spectroscope in testing star parallexes, threw some light on the matter, and tended to reinforce Prof. Russell's observations. Dr. W. S. Adams, working at the Mount Wilson Observatory, found that red stars certainly do fall into two groups, relative to size.

The stars of one group were found to be 10 "magnitudes greater" than those of the other group—i. e., 10,000 times brighter. Averaging the stars in each separate group, it was found that an average giant appeared to have 1,000,000 times the volume of the average dwarf. And the extraordinary feature was that there were no intermediate red stars. All were giants and dwarfs.

The natural interpretation of this discovery, which was a curious anomaly, appeared to be that red stars of this class, giants or dwarfs, represent—not the same phases, of a star's life. The red giants are expressive of the youth stage, the red dwarfs the senility stage. The other stages of the Draper Classification, then, must represent the intermediate stages of stellar life-history.

Hertzsprung and Russell had re-discovered the life-history of a star, in its process of gradual evolution and subsequent devolution, as foreseen years earlier by Sir Norman Lockyer. They proved what Lockyer had guessed or divined. The theory still stands, though it has received some heavy blows in very recent years. It is not likely to be overthrown until an entirely new relation be finally established, between the mass and luminosity of a star.

⁘ LISTEN, WORLD ⁘

By Elsie Robinson

Ever get to feeling like a worm? So low you'd have to spit up to hit your own shadow? Ever feel that the kick has gone out of everything? And you wonder what it's all about—and why you're here, anyway—and what's the use? What's the use of doing the same thing over and over? Washing dishes. Typing letters. Driving rivets. Doing piece work. Mixing sodas. Selling notion. What do jobs like that buy you? What does it matter whether you do them well or badly? You won't get any more salary—no matter how hard you try. No matter what you do, it'll all be the same in the end.

Ever feel like that? Sure you have. So have I!

And, when we do, there's no use telling us to think of other people or take an interest in life. We're fed up with other people. We're sick of life. The thing we need—the only thing that can arouse us—is to take a fresh interest in ourselves. And how are you going to take an interest in a common, ordinary old heel o' ham like Bill Jones?

BY REALIZING THAT BILL JONES ISN'T A COMMON, ORDINARY OLD HEEL O' HAM! By realizing that he's a mystery as well as a man—that he's BIG TIME STUFF even if his jobs don't sound that way.

Long ago an old Greek philosopher named Epictetus put it this way: "You are a distinct portion of the essence of God and contain a certain part of Him in yourself. Why, then, are you so ignorant of your noble birth? Why do you not consider whence you came? When you are in the company of women, when you are conversing, when you are exercising, you know that it is a god you feed, a god you exercise? You carry a god about with you, wretch, and know nothing of it. Do you suppose I mean some god without you, of gold or silver? It is within yourself you carry him, and profane him, without being sensible of it, by impure thoughts and unclean actions. If even the image of God were present you would not dare to act as you do; and when God himself is within you, and hears and sees all, are not you ashamed to think and act thus, insensible of your own nature and hateful to God?"

Epictetus did not say these things in a religious mood. He did not think of God as we do, being a pagan, born before Christ. He was speaking as a wise man of the world. He had been around. He had met men.

He had lived as a slave and as a great teacher. And he had observed that all men had Something Greater in them than their lives expressed—something more beautiful and strong and mysterious and pure than their daily deeds.

He had observed also that, no matter how low a man fell, HE BELIEVED IN HIMSELF. . . . HE BELIEVED IN THAT SECRET, SACRED PRESENCE WITHIN HIMSELF. And he knew that life could be made into a great adventure for any man if he would only remember and respect that secret Presence——

You know that, too. You don't talk about it. Talk, like that, "makes you feel like a fool." Yet always you feel that there's more in you than people realize . . . and you could really amount to something if you had a chance——GIVE YOURSELF THAT CHANCE! Believe in that "something" within you! Dare to acknowledge its beauty to yourself. Dare to worship it and bank on it!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Vows

I will never leave you
Through the coming years;
I will never grieve you,
Never cause you tears.
Hand in hand together
We shall always go,
From youth's April weather
To December snow.

I will never leave you,
Though life's chance and change
Should conspire to grieve you,
I will not grow strange:
Though time's tide should sweep you
Half the world away,
Still my heart will keep you
Safely, as today.

Text For Today With everlasting kindness will I have mercy on thee, saith the Lord thy Redeemer.—Isaiah, liv: 8.

Isn't It So?

One of the worst things about a holiday is the day after.

The man who tries to get ahead by drinking, gets a headache.

A woman who never has anything on her mind simply hasn't a mind.

The weather, like a good many of our bills, is unsettled.

Exercising develops, especially exercising your discretion.

A bigot is a man who doesn't think as we do.

Women who marry for money usually collect alimony.

The cost of fiction has gone down, unless you're telling it to a judge.

In some homes breakfast arguments are served with table scraps.

All a woman has to do to be considered eccentric is to mind her own business.

The only thing that can be excused for striking a man while he is down is an idea.

People make fools of themselves without the aid of liquor, but not so many.

Pity the Drama and Its Managers

The Audience Is Dull, Hard to Please.

A YOUNG LADY'S HARD JOB

This young lady, "Miss Drama," asking herself, "How can I possibly amuse him?" is shown in an etching by the British cartoonist, Richard Dyson. It will appeal to American theatrical producers recently traveling through the Valley of Despair and on into the Slough of Despond.

They find it hard to make their productions pay, and this picture gives part of the explanation.

Miss Drama, a spirit of the theater, is an intellectual young creature, with wings and aspirations.

All the life and energy go out of her when a fat, dull, stodgy person, like the gentleman sitting down, says to her, "Now, young woman, amuse me."

Macbeth in his sorrow asked the doctor, "Canst thou not minister to a mind diseas'd?" etc.

Poor Miss Drama finds it hard to minister to the various kinds of brains that demand amusement in these modern days.

How can she minister to a mind that lives in an overstuffed body, stupified with bootleg cocktails?

Where will poor Miss Drama find that audience today?

Also there are some things to be said for theatrical managers to take to heart.

Very often in place of this spiritual Miss Drama they present to the public some lewd and indecent creation, unfit to interest man or beast.

They substitute indecency for intelligence, profanity for wit, stupid immorality for an interesting plot. Then they are amazed to find themselves not prosperous.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—A cheer is due booksellers and publishers for the deft manner in which they snatched their business from almost complete oblivion a few months ago. All of a sudden the entire industry went haywire. Even book-borrowing began to decline.

Book shops, department store book sections and circulating libraries suggested the rotunda of Grand Central at 4 a. m. Price slashing had no effect whatever. Authors attended sales in the big stores and offered to autograph their tomes gratis, but few came.

The economic crisis played a large part in the debacle. Hastily written books contributed, and there were the radio and talkies to consider. This sudden and disquieting avalanche was too much to plug up over night. Book sales came to an almost complete full stop.

Some panic-stricken publishers began to announce $2 and $2.50 books at a dollar and others hit upon paper back books at half price. But the more ideas of this sort exploited the duller the business. Its low peak was reached when an avenue shop is reputed to have sold only four books in a day.

In the chaos publishers did something that should be a future lesson for other enterprises in the gasp of a sinking spell. Whether it was collectively or individually decided, I do not know, but almost simultaneously all began to advertise as never before.

They put on a dignified ballyhoo. Press material usually sent to columnists tripled. More ads, in larger display filled newspapers. Book talks were featured in radio hours. Coupled with this was more discrimination in selecting manuscripts.

At any rate the book business is bouncing out of the red. It is far from its after-the-war opulence, but it is in a healthier condition than it has been for months. There are records, too, that in depressions book sales sag. With returning prosperity people begin to read again.

The firm of Simon and Schuster is composed of two young men—the New York glorified office boy types—who began five years ago in a single room. On their door was painted: "Simon and Schuster—Publishers." Underneath a wag painted: "Of what?"

Another young publishing firm is Farrar and Rinehart. Stanley Rinehart is the son of Mary Roberts Rinehart, whose books are among those the firm publishes. Farrar was editor of the Bookman, is a discriminating judge of literture and has a notion—expressed to mutual friends—that this chronicler bears a grievance against him.

Once I referred to Farrar as "a pale young poet." He is not apple-cheeked, is young and a poet. I imagined, in light of what is turned out about me at times, my comment—had a dallop of praise.

Just yesterday a clipping from Texas said: "McIntyre has a neck like an ostrich that just gulped a croquet ball. He walks like a three-wheeled ice wagon, has lantern jaws and the last time he was in Texas went wild cat hunting in spats." I like Texas frankness. They shoot the piece or give up dice.

* * *

But regarding books, a seller tells me his biggest customer is a retired merchant who buys an average of 14 books a week, reading chiefly novels and autobiographies. He further says that in his opinion Sinclair Lewis has "the most pronounced following" in America. From recent events, Mr. Lewis also has a pronounced following in other countries. Including the, etc.

In the underworld they now refer to the big shot as "the high hot"—and if the printer makes it hat I'll pout again.

I called in Fred Fitch, my chauffeur and severe critic, to permit him to see my house suit from Paris, which he had just brought from the custom's office. It is a trifle giddy, but I see no reason for his inquiry: "That's to wear in a show, isn't it?"

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

"There would be less roadside necking if parents would welcome to their homes the young men friends of their daughters."

The mother who said that presented a truth.

In the family where young men are looked upon as interlopers, where the young folk are not allowed a minute alone with one another, daughters and their young men friends will seek other places to entertain and be entertained.

The older people should not expect their presence to be always welcome.

Youth wants freedom of speech which cannot be enjoyed with those of the preceding generation about.

There is a foolishness of youth which seeks expression it cannot have when parents are in the party.

Boys and girls, generally speaking, do not seek opportunities to be alone because they desire to do anything which is not right.

The homes of girls whose parents have not forgotten their youth are the popular places for young men to go.

Daughters, who are allowed a part of the home, in which to entertain their company, have little incentive to leave it, and home is the right place for happy young natures to find their best good times.
